PRIVACY ACT ISSUANCES, 1981 COMPILATION

EXPLANATION

This compilation contains:

—descriptions of systems of records maintained on individuals by Federal agencies which were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER as required by the Privacy Act of 1974;

—rules of each agency which set out the procedures that agencies will follow in helping individuals who request information about their records.

This compilation is divided in to five volumes. A table on p.vii lists the agencies in Volumes I–V of the Compilation.

AUTHORITY

This is the sixth annual compilation of Privacy Act issuances. It is published in compliance with the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a). The Act requires the Office of the Federal Register (OFR) to annually compile and publish the rules and notices of systems of records that have been issued by Federal agencies subject to the Act. The Act also requires each Federal agency to annually publish in the FEDERAL REGISTER the notice of its systems of records.

CUTOFF DATES

NOTICES OF SYSTEMS OF RECORDS have been compiled as of December 31, 1981, unless otherwise noted.

RULES

RULES have been compiled as of December 31, 1981, unless otherwise noted.

TITLE AND FORM OF CITATION

The official title of this publication is "Privacy Act Issuances, 1981 Compilation, Volume I". To cite a system of records or rule in this publication, the form of citation would be:

Privacy Act Issuances, 1981 Comp., Volume I, p....

HOW TO USE THIS COMPILATION

Identify the system you think may contain information about you and the agency that maintains those records.

Read the agency's regulations following its systems of records to determine the procedures you must follow to obtain information from that agency.

INFORMATION YOU CANNOT GET

There are limitations to the kind of information you can get. The agency may refuse to let you see information that——Relates to national security;

—Could reveal a confidential source; or —Could be used to give people an unfair advantage on a government examination.

Generally, an agency's system notices (description of its systems of records) and its regulations will describe that agency's limitations on release of information.

SOME GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

How To Make a Request

In most cases you can inquire in person or by mail. It will be easier for the agency to help you, and your request will be handled more quickly, if you follow these procedures:

1. Give your full name and address, and sign your request.
2. Specify the system(s) of records you believe contain information about you.
3. Provide the relevant information required by the system you are interested in. For example, if you are inquiring about any contract you have had with the Government (loan application, contract, grant application, etc.), give the date and subject matter, and any identifying numbers that appear on documents you received.
4. Address your request to the official or person and address given in the system entry.
5. Print the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" on the front of the envelope.

Proof of Identity

The agency will need some proof of your identity such as—

1. A document with your full name and address:
2. A document that has your signature and/or your photograph such as a passport, medicare card, or unemployment insurance book.
3. Any other identification specified in the system entry or regulations. If your request is by mail, you should include copies of whatever documents the agency requires to prove your identity. There is a penalty for making false statements.

Fees

The agency may charge you a fee for a copy of your records, but they may not charge you for the time and expense of locating them. The agency's rules usually state how much the fee is.

GENERAL INQUIRIES

This volume was edited by John S. Ashlin and Ruth E. Reedy under the direction of Martha B. Girard, assisted by Gladys Q. Ramey.

For further information concerning the technical aspects of this volume, call 202–523–5237. Written comments or suggestions should be addressed to the Director, Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Service, Washington, D.C. 20408.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained in conformance with appropriate General Services Administration destruction schedules and implemented by AMS Instruction 270-1, Records Management Program.

System manager(s) and address: Cotton, Dairy, Fruit and Vegetable, and Livestock, Poultry, Grain, and Seed Division Directors and each Milk Market Administrator at the addresses cited in the System location.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: This system has been exempted pursuant to 5 USC 552a(k)(2) from the requirements of 5 USC 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), and (I), and (f) because it consists of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. See 7 CFR 1.123. Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action or escape prosecution. Disclosure of investigative techniques and Procedures and the existence and identity of confidential sources of information would hamper law enforcement activity.

USDA/AMS—6

System name: Court cases brought pursuant to the authority of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended in which the Government is defendant, USDA/AMS.

USDA/APHIS-6

System name: Veterinary Services—Brucellosis Information System

System location: U.S. Department of Agriculture, Fort Collins Computer Center, Colorado, and each of the various States.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Herd owners whose animals or herds are tested, studied, or restricted because of brucellosis; livestock markets, slaughter establishments; and livestock dealers (including agents and brokers) handling livestock covered by the program; milk processing plants receiving milk or cream from dairy farms; laboratories conducting brucellosis program tests or procedures; State, Federal, and contractual personnel engaged in program activities.

Categories of records in the system: Information on herds and individual animals tested, studied, or restricted under the brucellosis program; epidemiologic studies; animals, specimens, or premises sampled, identified, inspected, tested, handled, or restricted under the brucellosis program by State, Federal or contractual personnel; animal identification, health, and movement data of animals covered under program activities for traceback of disease from livestock markets, slaughter plants, and livestock dealers or livestock brokers or commission firms; milk and cream samples and related identification data for brucellosis testing from milk processing plants receiving fresh farm milk; and brucellosis test data from laboratories approved to do brucellosis program testing.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 21 U.S.C. 111, 112, 114, 114a–1, 115, 120, 121, 125, 134a–134f and Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 51 and Part 78.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Records maintained in the computer system will be routinely used by the Federal and State government personnel for: (1) detecting the foci of infection to reduce the rate of spread of infection to new herds; (2) evaluating brucellosis program activities of State, Federal, and contractual personnel; (3) preparing mailing labels and preaddressed forms to enhance field activities; (4) evaluating program effectiveness; (5) detecting factors of epidemiologic importance in containing or eliminating foci of infected herds; (6) assuring that brucellosis indemnities are promptly and properly paid; (7) notification of livestock owners with animals at high risk of exposure to brucellosis because of livestock movements or an outbreak of disease or presence of quarantined premises in a community; (8) referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law concerning animal disease control and eradication, or of enforcing or implementing a statute, rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law concerning animal disease control and eradication, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and either arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation, or court order issued pursuant thereto; (9) presentation or disclosure to a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system as evidence in a proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery including disclosure to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations; (10) presentation, as needed, in the course of presenting evidence to the appropriate Government officials charged with the responsibility of defending the Government before a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal; (11) disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The records will be maintained on two mediums depending on how current they are. These are: (1) On-line disk storage and (2) Magnetic Tape.

Retrievability: Under the new system, it will be possible to retrieve and organize data by any of the categories which have been recorded. This will greatly improve the ability to retrieve existing records and to serve the livestock industry in the eradication of brucellosis.

Safeguards: The only individuals with access to this system will be Federal and State government employees with a need to know. The data base will be secured on a State-by-State basis. The brucellosis national planning staff will have access to all information in the computerized system without restrictions. The computer files and tapes will be kept in a safeguarded environment with access only by authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: (1) Herd records will be maintained in the data base as follows: (a) Infected herds not depopulated or sold out will always be on-line. (b) Depopulated or sold out herds will be archived. (c) Tested herds but not infected will be kept on-line for 6 months after testing, and then archived on a fiscal year basis. Archived data will be kept for 6 years.

(2) Records pertaining to animals, specimens or premises sampled, identified, inspected, tested, handled, or restricted by State, Federal, or contractual personnel will be kept on-line as long as the individual is working in brucellosis programs. Once employment or accreditation is terminated, the information will be archived by fiscal year for 6 years.

(3) Livestock market, slaughter establishment, livestock dealer, milk processing plant, and laboratory records pertaining to animal or herd information will be retained as described under (1) above.

System manager(s) and address: Deputy Administrator, Veterinary Services, USDA/APHIS, Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782.

Notification procedure: All inquiries should be addressed to: APHIS Privacy Act Coordinator, Administrative Services Division, USDA/APHIS, Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782.

Record access procedures: All inquiries should be addressed to the APHIS Privacy Act Coordinator.

Contesting record procedures: All inquiries should be addressed to the APHIS Privacy Act Coordinator.

Record source categories: (1) Epidemiologic information for herds and animals is obtained from documents and reports completed by Federal and State employees or contractual personnel as a part of testing a herd or animal(s) or as a part of investigating the source and spread of brucellosis within the livestock population.

(2) Information for work related activities is made available by the appropriate State or Federal office for personnel and contractual employees paid from their funds.

(3) Livestock market, slaughter establishment, livestock dealer, milk processing plant, and laboratory information is acquired in the course of obtaining other program activity information such as where samples were collected, where animal identification was applied, where samples were tested, and how the samples or animals were handled or processed prior to or following collection or testing.

The addresses of State and County Offices are listed in the telephone directory of the appropriate city or town under the heading "United States Government, Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration." The Finance Office is located at 1520 Market Street, St. Louis, Missouri 63103.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Present and former FmHA borrowers/grantees and applicants including members of associations.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of files containing applicant's/borrower's or grantee's characteristics such as gross and net income, sources of income, capital, assets and liabilities, net worth, age, observed race, number of dependents, martial status, credit report, reference material, and operating plans. In addition, a running record of observations concerning the operations of the person being financed is included at the County Office level. A record of deposits in and withdrawals from a person's supervised bank account is also contained in those files where appropriate or, in some County Offices, maintained in a separate folder containing only information relating to activity within supervised bank accounts. Some items of information are extracted from the person's file and placed in a card file for quick reference.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 7 U.S.C. 1921 et. seq., 42 U.S.C. 1471 et. seq., 42 U.S.C. 2706.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Information contained in borrowers' files may also provide the basis for USDA news releases citing borrowers' progress.

Referral to employers, businesses, landlords, creditors and others to determine repayment ability and eligibility for FmHA programs.

Disclosure may be made to a Congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the Congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders at the State, County, and National Office. A limited subset of personal, financial, and characteristics data required for effective management of the programs and borrower repayment status is maintained on disc or magnetic tape at the Finance Office, accessible by each appropriate office.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name, identification number and type of loan or grant. Data may be retrieved from paper records. A limited subset of data is available through telecommunications capability ranging from telephones to intelligent terminals. The telecommunications capability is available to all FmHA offices.

Safeguards: Records are kept in locked offices at the State, County, and National Office. A limited subset of data is also maintained in a properly managed tape and disc library and an online retrieval system at the Finance Office. Access is restricted to authorized FmHA personnel. A system of operator and terminal passwords and code numbers is used to restrict access to the online system. These codewords and numbers are changed as necessary.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained subject to the Federal Records Disposal Act of 1943 (44 U.S.C. 366-380) and in accordance with FmHA's disposal schedules. Disposal of records at the State, Coounty, and National Office is accomplished through deposit in office waste containers. Records at the Finance Office are disposed of by overprinting.

Applications which are rejected, withdrawn, or otherwise terminated are kept in the County Office one full fiscal year after the fiscal year in which final action was taken on the application.

The records of borrowers who have paid or otherwise satisfied their obligation are retained in the County Office one full fiscal year. In those instances where real estate has been acquired by the FmHA through foreclosure, conveyance of title, etc., and subsequently sold to a borrower not eligible for FmHA programs, the State Office folder for this borrower will be transferred to the National Office after the account has been paid in full. The folder will be retained at the Federal Records Center for 10 years. Correspondence records at the National Office which concern borrowers and applicants are retained for 3 fiscal years after the last year in which there was correspondence.

System manager(s) and address: The County Supervisor at the County level, the State Director at the State Office level, the Director of the Finance Office for Finance Office records, and the Administrator, FmHA, for the National Office file.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information regarding this system of records, or information as to whether the system contains records pertaining to him from the appropriate System Manager. If the specific location of the record is not known, the individual should address his request to the Administrator, (Attention: Freedom of Information Officer), USDA/FmHA, Washington, D.C. 20250, telephone (202) 447-2211. A request for information pertaining to an individual should contain: Name, address, FmHA office where loan/grant was applied for/approved and particulars involved (i.e., date of request/approval, which FmHA program, etc.).

USDA/FGIS—2

System name: Investigations undertaken by the Government pursuant to the United States Grain Standards Act of 1976, or the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, USDA/FGIS.

System location: Federal Grain Inspection Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who are regulated by the subject Acts and who have been investigated for possible violations of the Acts and/or against whom the Department recommends that an enforcement action be brought by the Government.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of investigatory material which may include intra and interdepartmental recommendations pertaining to an alleged violation of the subject Acts.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 7 U.S.C. 71 et seq, 1621 et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, or local or foreign charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing a statute, law, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto. (2) Presentation or disclosure to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above of any record within the system as evidence in a proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery including disclosure to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations. (3) Presentation, as needed, in the course of presenting evidence, to the appropriate Government officials charged with the responsibility of defending the Government before a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal. Disclosure may be made to a Congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the Congressional office made at the request of that individual. Referral to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system which constitutes evidence in that proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folder, notebooks, and cardex files.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of licensee and/or license and/or license number.

Safeguards: Government office buildings, locked and unlocked file cabinets and locked offices.

Retention and disposal: Records maintained indefinitely or until separation or retirement or in accordance with prescribed retention schedules.

System manager(s) and address: Privacy Act Coordinator, USDA/FSQS, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20250.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information concerning himself from this system from: Privacy Act Coordinator, USDA/FSQM, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedure for gaining access to a record in the system that pertains to him by submitting a request to: Privacy Act Coordinator, USDA/FSQS, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record source categories: Information in this System comes primarily from licensees, supervisors, with additional data provided by references and investigative personnel.

USDA/FSQS—3

System name: Court cases brought by the Government pursuant to the following Acts: Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, Egg Products Inspection Act.

System location: Food Safety and Quality Service, USDA, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20250.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who are regulated by the subject Acts and who may be investigated for possible violations of the Acts and/or against whom the Department recommends that an enforcement action be brought by the Government.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of investigatory material which may include intra- and interdepartmental recommendations pertaining to an alleged violation of the subject Acts.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 7 U.S.C. 1621 et seq., and 1031 et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation law, or of enforcing or implementing a statute, law, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto. (2) Presentation or disclosure to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system as evidence in a proceeding or which is sought in the course of discovery including disclosure to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations. (3) Presentation, as needed, in the course of presenting evidence, to the appropriate Government officials charged with the responsibility of defending the Government before a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal. (4) Disclosure may be made to a Congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the Congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in the file folders at the applicable address listed above.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of the individual.

Safeguards: Government office buildings, locked offices or locked file cabinets.

System manager(s) and address: Privacy Act Coordinator, USDA/FSQS, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20250.

Notification procedure: This system has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(g), (h), and (f) because it consists of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. See 7 CFR 1123. Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action to escape prosecution. Disclosure of investigative techniques and procedures and the existence and identity of confidential sources of information would hamper law enforcement activity.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing a statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (2) Presentation or disclosure to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system as evidence in a proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery including disclosure to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations; (3) Presentation, as needed, in the course of presenting evidence to the appropriate Government officials charged with the responsibility of defending the Government before a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal; (4) Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders at the applicable address listed above.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of the individual.

Safeguards: Records are kept in a locked office or file cabinet.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained until file is closed or no longer needed or as otherwise provided in agency directives and disposed of or sent to appropriate records centers in accordance with such directives.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Regulatory Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information regarding this system of records, or information as to whether the system contains records pertaining to him from the Director, Regulatory Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C., telephone 202-447-5550. A request for information pertaining to an individual should contain: Name, address, and particulars involved (i.e., the name of action filed, Act filed under, etc.)

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedures for gaining access to a record in the system which pertains to him, by submitting a written request to the appropriate official referred to in the preceding paragraph.

Contesting record procedures: Same as Record Access Procedures.

Record source categories: Information in this system comes primarily from witnesses, agency employees, and investigative personnel.

USDA/OGC—6

System name: Cases by the Department under the Federal Meat Inspection Act, the Poultry Products Inspection Act, and the voluntary inspection, meat and poultry grading, and certification provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, USDA/OGC.

System location: Office of the General Counsel, Regulatory Division, USDA, Washington, D.C.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who are regulated by the subject Acts and against whom the Department recommends that an enforcement action be brought by the Government.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of investigatory material which may include intradepartmental recommendations, and interdepartmental recommendations pertaining to an alleged violation of the subject Acts.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 21 U.S.C. 601 et seq., 21 U.S.C. 451 et seq., and 7 U.S.C. 1621 et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing a statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (2) Presentation or disclosure to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system as evidence in a proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery including disclosure to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations; (3) Presentation, as needed, in the course of presenting evidence to the appropriate Government officials charged with the reponsibility of defending the Government before a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal; (4) Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders at the applicable address listed above.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of the individual.

Safeguards: Records are kept in a locked office or file cabinet.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained until file is closed or no longer needed or as otherwise provided in agency directives and disposed of or sent to appropriate records centers in accordance with such directives.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Regulatory Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: This system has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(2) from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), and (I), and (f) because it consists of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. See 7 CFR 1.123. Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action or escape prosecution. Disclosure of investigative techniques and procedures and the existence and identity of confidential sources of information would hamper law enforcement activity.

Categories of records in the system: Records on individual applicant, borrower or grantee cases, sometimes including FmHA loan dockets, copies of promissory notes and security instruments, title evidence, legal opinions, correspondence, investigation reports, contracts, pleadings, legal documents covering foreclosures and loan or grant making or servicing, title opinions, contracts, closing instructions, notices, and related documents.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, 42 U.S.C 1471-1490, 4401-19; 4453-55 and 7 U.S.C 1921-92.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral of certain records to trustees for reconveyance or foreclosure of deeds of trust, or correction of errors, to appropriate State and County officials for recording or filing of legal documents, to title companies or Bureau of Indian Affairs for title clearance, to appropriate agencies and individuals for institution of nonjudicial foreclosure and other loan servicing and liquidation actions, and to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto. (2) Referral to a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, or any record within the system which constitutes evidence in that proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery. (3) Referral to Department of Justice for suits against the United States or its officers or instrumentalities concerning USDA activities. (4) Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Retrievability: Records are usually indexed by the name of the individual on whom the file is maintained. In some instances records are maintained in numerical order corresponding to the FmHA account number. In some instances they are also cross-indexed by the names of individuals mentioned in the files.

Safeguards: Records are kept in locked offices. Secretive materials such as Office of Investigation reports are kept in locked drawers or file cabinets.

Retention and disposal: Records are usually retained for 12 to 18 months after the case is closed. In some Regional Offices certain records are maintained indefinitely, primarily for research value.

System manager(s) and address: Appropriate Regional Attorney or Attorney-in-Charge.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information regarding this system of records, or information whether the system contains records pertaining to him from the appropriate System Manager. A request should contain the name and address of the individual involved and as much other identifying information as possible.

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedures for gaining access to a record in the system which pertains to him by submitting a written request for same to the appropriate System Manager at the above address.

Contesting record procedures: Same as Records Access Procedures.

Record source categories: Information in this system comes primarily from applicants, borrowers, grantees, FmHA or other USDA employees, attorneys, credit reporting agencies, title companies, and State and Federal government agencies.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: Those records in this system which consist of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes have been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f). See 7 CFR 1.123. Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action or escape prosecution. Disclosure of investigative techniques and procedures and the existence and identity of confidential sources of information would hamper law enforcement activity.

USDA/OGC—13

System name: Claims by and Against USDA under the Food Assistance Legislation, USDA/OGC.

Addresses of each field office are listed in the telephone directories of the respective cities listed above under the heading "United States Government, Department of Agriculture, Office of the General Counsel".

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who seek to participate in the Food Stamp Act of 1964; National School Lunch Act, or Child Nutrition Act of 1966, and individuals reported to be in violation of one or more of these acts.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of files on all individual cases, including investigation reports, pleadings, transcripts, legal correspondence, statements of witnesses, and related documents.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 7 U.S.C. 2011-2026; 42 U.S.C. 1751-1763; 42 U.S.C. 1771-1786.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral to a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system which constitutes evidence in that proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery. (2) Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto. (3) Referral to the Department of Justice for defense of suits brought against the United States or its officers, and for institution of suit for recovery of claims by USDA. (4) Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders at the applicable locations listed above.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by the name of the individual involved.

Safeguards: Records are kept in a locked office file cabinet.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained for a length of time left to the discretion of the Director of the Food and Nutrition Division or Regional Attorney or Attorney-in-Charge, after legal action has been concluded.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Food and Nutrition Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250. Each Regional Attorney or Attorney-in-Charge at the locations specified above.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information regarding this system of records, or information as to whether the system contains records pertaining to him from the Director, Food and Nutrition Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C., telephone 202-447-4631, or the appropriate Regional Attorney or Attorney-in-Charge at the locations specified above. A request for information pertaining to an individual should contain his name, address, and the particulars involved (i.e. the date of any action complained of, date a claim was filed, correspondence, etc.).

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedures for gaining access to a record in the system which pertains to him, by submitting a written request to the appropriate official referred to in the preceding paragraph.

Contesting record procedures: Any individual may obtain information concerning the process for contesting a record in the system that pertains to him by following the procedures referred to directly above.

Record source categories: Information in this system comes primarily from claimants, witnesses, agency employees, and investigative personnel.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The portions of the system consisting of investigatory material that has been compiled for law enforcement purposes have been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2), from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H) and (I), and (f). Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert the subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action. Disclosure of investigative technique and procedures, and of the identity of confidential sources of information, would hamper law enforcement activity.

System name: Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, USDA/OGC—disciplinary proceedings to deny issuance of a license to an applicant thereunder or to suspend or revoke a license already issued, or to publish the facts and circumstances of violations of the Act.

System location: Office of the General Counsel, Food and Nutrition Division, USDA, Washington, D.C., and offices of Regional Attorneys and Attorneys-in-Charge, OGC, USDA, at the following locations: Albuquerque, New Mexico; Missoula, Montana; Atlanta, Georgia; Ogden, Utah; Chicago, Illinois; Portland, Oregon; Denver, Colorado; Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; San Francisco, California; Santurce, Puerto Rico; Little Rock, Arkansas; Shawnee Mission, Kansas; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Stillwater, Oklahoma; Temple, Texas.

Addresses of each field office are listed in the telephone directories of the respective cities listed above under the heading "United States Government, Department of Agriculture, Office of the General Counsel."

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who apply for or who hold licenses to do business in the perishable agricultural commodities industry in their individual capacities; partners of partnerships which apply for or which hold licenses to do business in the perishable agricultural commodities industry; officers, directors and holders of 10 percent or more of the stock of corporations which apply for or hold licenses to do business in the perishable agricultural commodities industry under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act of 1930, as amended, are included in this system of records.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of reports of investigation, statements of witnesses, agency reports.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 7 U.S.C. 499a et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Use by the Office of the General counsel for (1) administrative proceedings pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act to deny the issuance of a license to an applicant therefor to do business in the perishable agricultural commodities industry; (2) administrative proceedings pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act to suspend or revoke an already existent license, or alternatively to have the facts and circumstances of violations published for violations thereof by the holder of such license; (3) disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of individual license applicant or holder.

Safeguards: Records are kept in a locked office or file cabinet.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Food and Nutrition Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250, or the appropriate Regional Attorney or Attorney-in-Charge at the addresses specified above.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: This system has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H) and (I), and (f) because it consists of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. See 7 CFR 1.123. Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action or to escape administrative procedures to deny to them the issuance of a license or to suspend or revoke such license, or to have published the facts and circumstance of the violations. Disclosure of investigative techniques and procedures and the existence and identity of confidential sources of information would hamper law enforcement activity.

System location: Office of the General Counsel, Marketing Division, USDA, Washington, D.C.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who are regulated by the subject Act and against whom the Department recommends that an enforcement action be brought by the Government, and individuals regulated or not regulated by the subject Act who bring suit against the Government or a Governmental official pursuant to, or as a consequence of the Department's administration of, the subject Act.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of investigatory material which may include intradepartmental recommendations, and interdepartmental recommendations, pertaining to the subject Act and are an alleged violation of the subject Act.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 21 U.S.C. 151-158.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (1) Referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing a statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (2) Presentation or disclosure to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, of any record within the system as evidence in a proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery including disclosure to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations; (3) Presentation, as needed, in the course of presenting evidence to the appropriate Government officials charged with the responsibility of defending the Government before a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal; (4) Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders at the applicable address listed above.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of the individual.

Safeguards: Records are kept in a locked office or file cabinet.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained until file is closed or no longer needed or as otherwise provided in agency directives and disposed of or sent to appropriate records centers in accordance with such directives.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Marketing Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information regarding this system of records, or information as to whether the system contains records pertaining to him from the Director, Marketing Division, OGC, USDA, Washington, D.C. telephone 202-447-5935. A request for information pertaining to an individual should contain: Name, address, and particulars involved (i.e., the name of action filed, Act filed under, etc.).

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedures for gaining access to a record in the system which pertains to him by submitting a written request to the appropriate official referred to in the preceding paragraph.

Contesting record procedures: Same as Record Access Procedures.

Record source categories: Information in this system come primarily from witnesses, agency employees, and investigative personnel.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The portions of this system which involve cases by the Department under the Virus-Serum Toxin Act have been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), (I) and (f) because they consist of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. See 7 CFR 1.123. Individual access to these files could impair investigations and alert subjects of investigations that their activities are being scrutinized, and thus allow them time to take measures to prevent detection of illegal action or escape prosecution. Disclosure of investigative techniques and procedures and the existence and identity of confidential sources of information would hamper law enforcement activity.

USDA/OGC—75

System name: Personnel Irregularities, USDA/OGC

System location: Office of the General Counsel, Research and Operations Division, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250, and offices of Regional Attorneys and Attorneys-in-Charge, OGC, USDA, at the following locations: Albuquerque, New Mexico; Atlanta, Georgia; Denver, Colorado; Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; Little Rock, Arkansas; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Missoula, Montana; Ogden, Utah; Portland, Oregon; San Francisco, California; Santurce, Puerto Rico; Shawnee Mission, Kansas; Stillwater, Oklahoma; Temple, Texas.

Addresses of each field office are listed in the telephone directories of the respective cities listed above under the heading "United States Government, Department of Agriculture, Office of the General Counsel."

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees and former employees of USDA, members of local and county committees established pursuant to 16 U.S.C. 590h(b), employees of such county committees, and extension service agents performing duty pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 341-349.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of investigation reports and other relevant documents pertaining to violations of criminal statutes.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Titles 5, 18 U.S.C.; 7 CFR 2.31.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Referral to (1) the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, or of enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (2) a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, or any record within the system which constitutes evidence in that proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery; (3) Department of Justice for institution of suits to recover claims by USDA arising out of irregularities; (4) Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders at the applicable address listed above.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by name of individual employee.

Safeguards: Records are kept in a locked office.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained until case is closed or no longer needed or as otherwise provided in agency directives and disposed of or sent to appropriate records centers in accordance with such directives.

Contesting record procedures: To contest information in this system, send request to Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record source categories: The primary information is furnished by the individual employee. Additional information is provided by supervisors, coworkers, references, and others.

USDA/OIG-2

System name: Intelligence Records, USDA/OIG.

System location: In the Headquarters Office in the Agriculture Administration Building, 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250, and in the OIG offices listed in the system of records designated USDA/OIG-1.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Suspects and unpaid informants.

Categories of records in the system: Names, occupations, other information about suspects and allegations against them; and types of information previously furnished by or to be expected from informants.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Pub. L. 95-452, 5 U.S.C. 301, 7 CFR 2.33.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Routine uses for law enforcement purposes will include referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting a violation of law or of enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Stored on sheets of paper and index cards.

Retrievability: Retrievable by name of individual subject.

Safeguards: Available on an official need-to-know basis and kept in locked storage when not in use.

Retention and disposal: Kept indefinitely and continually updated; out-of-date material is burned.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Security and Special Investigations Division, Office of the Inspector General, Washington, D.C. 20250. Inquiries and requests should be addressed to: Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, USDA, OIG, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: This system has been exempted from the provisions of sections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I) and (f) pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) as investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. This exemption is contained in 7 CFR 1.123.

USDA/OIG-3

System name: Investigative Files and Subject/Title Index, USDA/OIG.

System location: In the Headquarters Office in the Agriculture Administration Building, 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W.,

Washington, D.C. 20250, and in the OIG Regional and Investigation Suboffices listed in the system of records designated USDA/OIG–1.

Except for inadvertent errors, all entries in regional office indexes are duplicated in the Headquarters index. Thus the Headquarters index is the only complete index in OIG. The Headquarters files also contain a copy of every investigative report, but not the correspondence in all cases. Older investigative files may be stored in Federal Records Centers or on microfiche. Therefore, delays in retrieving this material can be expected.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The individual names in the OIG index fall into one or more of the following categories:

Subjects. These are applicants for OIG employment or individuals against whom allegations of wrongdoing have been made. In some instances, these individuals have been the subjects of investigations conducted to establish whether allegations were true. In other instances, the allegations were deemed too frivolous or indefinite to warrant inquiry.

Principals. These are individuals who are not named subjects of investigative inquiries, but may be responsible for violations. For example, the president of a firm alleged to have violated laws or regulations would likely be individually listed in the OIG index.

Complainants. These are individuals who allege wrongdoing, mismanagement, or unfair treatment relating to USDA employees and/or programs.

Others. These are all other individuals closely connected with a matter of investigative interest or whose names have been checked through the index to determine whether they were of record. Among these names are those of people who are connected with a matter only in that they have shown unusual interest in having allegations investigated or in learning the results of investigation. Also included in the index are the names of persons on the Department of Justice crime list.

Categories of records in the system: The OIG Subject/Title Index and Investigative Files consist of:

1. Index cards and/or a microfiche index filed alphabetically by the names of individuals, organizations, and firms with a separate card or line items for each; dates of entries made into the index or dates of materials containing information about the named subjects; and identification of the OIG file or files containing information on that subject.

2. Files containing bound sheets of paper or microfiche of such sheets from investigative and other reports, correspondence, and informal notes and notations concerning (a) one investigative matter or (b) a number of incidents of the same sort of alleged violation or irregularity.

If such information was available when an index card or line item was made, the card or microfiche concerning an individual will include the individual's address, date of birth, and Social Security number.

3. Where investigation is being or will be conducted, but has not been completed, various case management records, investigator's notes, statements of witnesses, and copies of records. These are contained on index slips or cards and sheets of paper located in an OIG office or in the possession of the OIG investigator. Certain management records are retained after the investigative report is released as a means of following action taken on the basis of the OIG investigative report.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Pub. L. 95–452, 5 U.S.C. 301, 7 CFR 2.33.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Routine use for law enforcement purposes will include referral to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting a violation of law or of enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto, or any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The OIG Subject/Title Index consists of 3 inch by 5 inch cards or microfiche line items stored in steel cabinets. The investigative files are stored in steel lektriever cabinets, on microfiche sheets, or in Federal Records Centers.

Retrievability: The subject cards or line items are arranged alphabetically, and each card or line item identifies one or more OIG investigative case files or administrative files arranged numerically by file number. Information in investigative or administrative files concerning individuals not indexed is considered irretrievable.

Safeguards: These records are available within USDA and to others in the Executive Branch only upon proper identification and on a need-to-know basis. These records are kept in limited-access areas during duty hours and in locked offices at all other times.

Retention and disposal: The cards or line items are kept indefinitely and investigative case files are maintained for 15 years. However, certain investigative case files of unusual significance are kept indefinitely. Administrative files are kept for five years.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Management and Budget Staff, Office of the Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record access procedures: To request access to information in this system, write to Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, Office of Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Contesting record procedures: To contest information in this system, send request to Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, Office of Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: This system has been exempted from the provisions of sections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), and (I) and (f) pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(2) and (k)(5) as investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes or compiled solely for determining suitability, eligibility or qualifications for Federal civilian employment. This exemption is contained in 7 CFR 1.123.

USDA/OIG–4

System name: Liaison Records, USDA/OIG

System location: Headquarters Offices in Agriculture buildings at 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250, and in the OIG offices listed in the system of records designated USDA/OIG–1.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees or officials of Federal, State, and local governmental agencies.

Categories of records in the system: Such information as name, title, address, phone number, and type of assistance previously given or interest previously shown or expected.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Pub. L. 95–452, 5 U.S.C. 301, 7 CFR 2.33.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosed to other investigative agencies (e.g., FBI, Secret Service, IRS) to coordinate investigative efforts or for those agencies to use in their independent investigations and to facilitate referral of OIG investigative information to other Executive Agencies that have an official interest.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Index cards and sheets of paper.

Retrievability: By name of individual or by name of agency.

Safeguards: Information is usually obtained from public records or previous contacts and is generally available to OIG employees and others on request. Records are in the custody of OIG employees during working hours and in locked offices at other times.

Retention and disposal: Information is kept indefinitely and disposed of when updated. Out-of-date information is discarded.

System manager(s) and address: Directors of the offices indicated in "System location."

Notification procedure: Inquiries and requests should be addressed to Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, Office of the Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record access procedures: To gain access to information in this system, send request to Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Contesting record procedures: To contest information in this system, send request to Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record source categories: Public documents and directories and previous contacts with individuals listed.

USDA/OIG–5

System name: Management Information and Data Analysis System, USDA/OIG

System location: Computer files are maintained on the Computer Sciences Infonet System with main offices at 650 North Sepulveda, El Segundo, California. Source documents and printouts are kept in OIG Headquarters, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250 and in the OIG regional offices listed in the system of records designated as USDA/OIG–1 (with the exception of the New York Regional Office).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: OIG professional audit employees.

Categories of records in the system: The Management Information and Data Analysis System provides audit management officials with a wide range of information on audit operations, including job performance of OIG professional audit personnel in grade GS–13 and below. The system identifies individual audit assignments of employees and provides information on their use of direct and indirect time; significant dates relating to each audit such as starting date, exit conference date, and report release date; the number and significance of audit findings and the identity of all the professionals who participated in the assignment.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Pub.L. 95–452, 5 U.S.C. 301; 7 CFR 2.81.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Provided upon request to the General Accounting Office for reviewing OIG audit operations. Disclosure may also be made to a Congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the Congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Computer discs and/or magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Information in the system can be retrieved by OIG Headquarters and regions. Information can be retrieved by audit report number, employee Social Security number, or geographic location.

Safeguards: Normal computer security is maintained over access to discs and magnetic tapes. Printouts are available within USDA as necessary and are kept under lock and key when not in use. Source documents are kept in file cabinets in the offices listed above.

Retention and disposal: Discs and/or magnetic tapes are cleared, retired, or destroyed, when no longer useful, in accordance with General Services Administration and USDA retirement and/or destruction schedules.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Inspector General for Audits, Office of the Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information regarding this system of records, or information as to whether the system contains records pertaining to him, from the Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, USDA-OIG, Washington, D.C. 20250. A request for information pertaining to an individual should contain: Name, address, and particular information requested.

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedures for gaining access to a record in the system which pertains to him by submitting a written request to the Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250

Contesting record procedures: Same as access procedures described above.

Record source categories: Information in the system comes entirely from OIG audit employees.

USDA/OIG–6

System name: Audit Information System, USDA/OIG

System location: Records included in this system may be located at audit sites throughout the United States or at any of the Departmental Computer Centers. The Departmental Computer Centers are: (1) Washington Computer Center, 12th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250; (2) New Orleans Computer Center, P.O. Box 60900, New Orleans, Louisiana 70160; (3) Kansas City Computer Center, P.O. Box 205, Kansas City, Missouri 64141; (4) St. Louis Computer Center, 1520 Market Street, Room 3441, St. Louis, Missouri 63103; (5) Fort Collins Computer Center, 3825 East Mulberry Street, Fort Collins, Colorado 80521.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: This system employs temporary data sets, computer printouts, and other audit records obtained from USDA agencies, non-Federal sources, and Federal agencies other than USDA. Individuals covered by these records are participants in programs administered and/or funded by the Department of Agriculture; employees of USDA and other Federal, State, county, and municipal agencies; and officials and employees of contractors, grantees, and cooperators that conduct business related to USDA programs.

Categories of records in the system: The system may contain, for short periods of time, various categories of records relating to administration of, or individual participation in, USDA programs. For example, the categories of records may relate to the Department's farm, food, loan and research programs and to payroll records of USDA or other governmental employees.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Pub. L. 95–452, 5 U.S.C. 301, 7 CFR 2.33.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Records are routinely used for analysis during the course of Office of Inspector General (OIG) audits. To facilitate this analysis, USDA, other Federal, State, or other governmental computer tapes containing program participation or employment information may be matched against themselves or each other to find duplications that indicate possible improper or illegal participation in USDA programs. Matching may be conducted by OIG, other USDA agencies, other Federal agencies, and/or State, county, or municipal agencies. The computer printouts of duplicates may be furnished to OIG auditors and investigators, the non-Federal entity responsible for operating the program, other Executive Branch audit agencies, the General Accounting Office, the Department of Justice, other law enforcement agencies, and the Congress.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information is stored electronically on computer direct access storage devices or magnetic tape and in computer printouts and other audit records.

Retrievability: Electronically stored information may be retrieved using standard audit software analysis and retrieval packages and is limited only by the data elements maintained in the data set. This information may be transmitted and received using standard teleprocessing procedures. Data elements may include such information as an individual's name, address, social security numbers, employee identification, case or farm number, and specific information about the individual's program participation or employment. Information located in computer printouts and other audit records may be retrieved manually while audits are in process. After an audit is completed, information about individuals can only be retrieved by first identifying the audit involved (by type, location and time conducted) and then retrieving the information from audit work materials by mechanical or electronic search. If individual participation was investigated, personal privacy information about that individual may be retrievable, by name, from system USDA/OIG–3, described above.

Safeguards: Normal computer security is maintained over access to electronically encoded data. Computer printouts and other audit records are protected in accordance with the sensitivity of data contained therein.

Retention and disposal: Electronically encoded data is seldom retained for more than six months. It is then destroyed either by degaussing or overwriting the computer media. Computer printouts and manually prepared audit records may be incorporated into audit files where they are retrievable only by audit number or report title. Audit files are retained in accordance with General Services Administration retirement and/or destruction schedules. Computer printouts not incorporated into audit files are destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: The system managers are the USDA Regional Inspectors General for Audits in whose geographical areas the audit sites and Departmental Computer Centers are located. These are as follows: (1) Regional Inspector General for Audits, Northeast Region, OIG, USDA, Room 422, Federal Building, Hyattsville, Maryland 20782 (Washington Computer Center); (2) Regional Inspector General for Audits, Southeast Region, OIG, USDA, 1447 Peachtree Street, N.E., Room 900, Atlanta, Georgia 30309; (3) Regional Inspector General for Audits, Midwest Region, OIG, USDA, 1 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60606; (4) Regional Inspector General for Audits, Southwest Region, OIG, USDA, Federal Office Building—Room 324, 101 South Main Street, Temple, Texas 76501 (New Orleans Computer Center); (5) Regional Inspector General for Audits, Great Plains Region, OIG, USDA, 8930 Ward Parkway, P.O. Box 205, Kansas City, Missouri 64141 (Kansas City, Fort Collins, and St. Louis Computer Centers); (6) Regional Inspector General for Audits, Western Region, OIG, USDA, Room 522 Customs House, 555 Battery Street, San Francisco, California 94111.

Notification procedure: Any individual may request information contained in this system of records or information as to whether the system contains records pertaining to that individual by contacting the Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250. The individual is reminded that this system of records is temporary and usually is accessible only while an audit of a particular program or activity is in process. The period of accessibility normally ranges from one month to approximately six months, depending on the type of audit and the use made of the information. Any request for information pertaining to an individual should contain that person's name, address, the USDA program the individual is participating in, any pertinent identification number such as a case number, and the particular information requested. Proof of identity and/or authorization to access will be required.

Record access procedures: Any individual may obtain information as to the procedures for gaining access to a record in the system which pertains to that person by submitting a written request to the Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Contesting record procedures: These inquiries also should be sent to the Director, Policy, Liaison and Information Staff, OIG, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Record source categories: Information contained in this system of records is obtained mainly from USDA agencies and State and local governments that administer USDA programs on a cooperative basis and may be obtained from other grantees and program participants and other Federal agencies.

Information generally relates to a USDA program or activity which is being audited. Upon conclusion of the audit, the information is either destroyed, returned to the originator, or stored in an audit file from which information about individuals cannot be retrieved without manual and/or electronic search.

USDA/SEA—8

System name: Education and Radiation Training and Experience Report on Persons in USDA Using Radioactive Materials and/or Equipment Which Emits Ionizing Radiation, USDA/SEA.

System location: Radiological Safety Staff, Science and Education Administration, USDA, Room 226. Building 001, BARC-West, Beltsville, Maryland 20705.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All persons in USDA who are responsible for, or independent users of, radioactive materials and/or equipment which emits ionizing radiation.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of information on a person's educational background including formal courses and on-the-job training in radiation; experience in actual use of radioactive materials and/or equipment which emits ionizing radiation; experience in the use of radiation detection and measuring instrumentation; and additional information such as pertinent publications, speeches, etc., which will assist in the evaluation of a person's qualifications to safely use radioactive materials and/or equipment which emits ionizing radiation to protect his health and to minimize danger to life or property.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 2111 and 42 USC 2201(b).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The system is used by the Department's Radiological Safety Committee and Radiological Safety Staff in its determination to approve or deny a person's procurement and use of potentially hazardous radioactive materials and/or equipment which emits ionizing radiation. When applicable, the system supplies information for maintenance of required radiation exposure records on persons who are required to wear personnel monitoring devices while using radioactive materials and/or equipment which emits ionizing radiation. The information may be:

1. Disclosed to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for review, compliance, and investigation purposes.

2. Disclosed to the Department of Labor; Veterans Administration; Social Security Administration; U.S. Civil Service Commission; Department of Defense; Federal agencies which may have special civilian employee retirement programs; national, State, county, municipal, or other publicly recognized charitable or social security administration agency to adjudicate a claim for benefits under the Bureau of Retirement, Insurance, and Occupational Health, or the recipient's benefit program(s), or to conduct an analytical study of benefits being paid under such programs.

3. Disclosed to health insurance carriers or plans participating in Federal Employees' Health Benefits Program in support of a claim for health insurance benefits involving radiation exposure.

4. Disclosed to Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program in support of a claim for life insurance benefits involving radiation exposure.

5. Disclosed to an organization to which the individual is transferred, upon written request of that organization.

6. Used to provide information to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from a congressional office made at the request of the individual.

7. Referred to an appropriate Agency, whether Federal, State, or Local, charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting a violation of law, rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto, of any record within this system when information available indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

8. Referred to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, or to opposing counsel in a proceeding before any of the above, or any record within the system which constitutes evidence in that proceeding, or which is sought in the course of discovery.

9. Referred to the Department of Justice for the defense of suits against the United States or its officers, or for the institution of suits for the recovery of claims by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: System is maintained in files in Radiological Safety Staff office.

§ 1.110 Purpose and scope.

This subpart contains the regulations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a). It sets forth the basic responsibilities of each agency of USDA with regard to USDA's compliance with the requirements of the Act, and offers guidance to members of the public who wish to exercise any of the rights established by the Act with regard to records maintained by an agency of USDA.

§ 1.111 Definitions.

For purposes of this subpart the terms "individual," "maintain," "record," "system of records," "statistical record," and "routine use" shall have the meanings set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(a). The term "agency" shall mean an agency of USDA, unless otherwise indicated.

§ 1.112 Procedures for requests pertaining to individual records in a record system.

(a) Any individual who wishes to be notified if a system of records maintained by an agency contains any record pertaining to him, or to request access to such records, shall submit a written request in accordance with the instructions set forth in the system notice for that system of records. This request shall include:

(1) The name of the individual making the request;

(2) The name of the system of records (as set forth in the system notice to which the request relates);

(3) Any other information specified in the system notice; and

(4) When the request is one for access, a statement as to whether the requester desires to make a personal inspection of the records, or be supplied with copies by mail.

(b) Any individual whose request under paragraph (a) of this section is denied may appeal that denial to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records to which the request relates.

(c) In the event that an appeal under paragraph (b) of this section is denied, the requester may bring a civil action in federal district court to seek review of the denial.

§ 1.113 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) If an individual submitting a request for access under § 1.112 has asked that an agency authorize a personal inspection of records pertaining to him, and the agency has granted that request, the requester shall present himself at the time and place specified in the agency's response or arrange another, mutually convenient, time with the appropriate agency official.

(b) Prior to inspection of the records, the requester shall present sufficient identification (e.g., driver's license, employee identification card, social security card, credit cards) to establish that he is the individual to whom the records pertain. If the requester is unable to provide such identification, he shall complete and sign in the presence of an agency official a signed statement asserting his identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is a misdemeanor punishable by fine up to $5,000. No identification shall be required, however, when the records are ones whose disclosure is required by 5 U.S.C. 552.

(c) Any individual who has requested access to records about him via personal inspection, and who wishes to have another person or persons accompany him during this inspection, shall submit a written statement authorizing disclosure of the record in their presence.

(d) Any individual having made a personal inspection of records pertaining to him may request the agency to provide him copies of those records or any portion thereof. Each agency shall grant such requests but may charge fees in accordance with § 1.120.

(e) If an individual submitting a request for access under § 1.112 wishes to be supplied with copies of the records by mail, he shall include with his request sufficient data for the agency to verify his identity. If the sensitivity of the records warrant it, however, the agency to which the request is directed may require the requester to submit a signed, notarized statement indicating that he is the individual to whom the records pertain and stipulating he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is a misdemeanor punishable by fine up to $5,000. No identification shall be required, however, when the records are ones whose disclosure is required by 5 U.S.C. 552. If the agency to which this request is directed determines to grant the requested access, it may charge fees in accordance with § 1.120 before making the necessary copies.

§ 1.114 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Any agency which receives a request or appeal under § 1.112 should acknowledge the request or appeal within 10 days of its receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). Wherever practicable, the acknowledgment should indicate whether or not access will be granted and, if so, when and where. When access is to be granted, the agency should provide the access within 30 days of receipt of the request or appeal (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) unless, for good cause shown, it is unable to do so. If the agency is unable to meet this deadline, it shall inform the requester of this fact, the reasons for its inability to do so, and an estimate of the date on which access will be granted.

(b) Nothing in 5 U.S.C. 552a or this subpart shall be interpreted to require that an individual making a request under § 1.112 be granted access to the physical record itself. The form in which a record is kept (e.g., on magnetic tape), or the content of the record (e.g., a record indexed under the name of the requester may contain records which are not about the requester) may require that the record be edited or translated in some manner. Neither of these procedures may be utilized, however, to withhold information in a record about the requester.

(c) No agency shall deny any request under § 1.112 for information concerning the existence of records about the requester in any system of records it maintains, or deny any request for access to records about the requester in any system of records it maintains, unless that system is exempted from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) in § 1.123.

(d) If any agency receives a request pursuant to § 1.112(a) for access to records in a system of records it maintains which is so exempted, the system manager shall determine if the exemption is to be asserted. If he determines to deny the request, he shall inform the requester of that determination, the reason for the determination, and the title and address of the agency head to whom the denial can be appealed.

(e) If the head of an agency determines that an appeal pursuant to § 1.112(b) is to be denied, he shall inform the requester of that determination, the reason therefor, and his right under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g) to seek judicial review of the denial in federal district court.

(f) Nothing in 5 U.S.C. 552a or this subpart shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding.

§ 1.115 Special procedures: medical records.

In the event an agency receives a request pursuant to § 1.112 for access to medical records (including psychological records) whose disclosure it determines would be harmful to the individual to whom they relate, it may refuse to disclose the records directly to the requester but shall transmit them to a doctor designated by that individual.

§ 1.116 Request for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Any individual who wishes to request correction or amendment of any record pertaining to him contained in a system of records maintained by an agency shall submit that request in writing in accordance with the instructions set forth in the system notice for that system of records. This request shall include:

(1) The name of the individual making the request;

(2) The name of the system of records (as set forth in the system notice to which the request relates);

(3) A description of the nature (e.g., modification, addition or deletion) and substance of the correction or amendment requested; and

(4) Any other information specified in the system notice.

(b) Any individual submitting a request pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall include sufficient information in support of that request to allow the agency to which it is addressed to apply the standards set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552(e) (1) and (5).

(c) Any individual whose request under paragraph (a) of this section is denied may appeal that denial to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records to which the request relates.

(d) In the event that an appeal under paragraph (c) of this section is denied, the requester may bring a civil action in federal district court to seek review of the denial.

§ 1.117 Agency review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Any agency which receives a request for amendment or correction under § 1.116 shall acknowledge that request within 10 days of its receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays). It shall also promptly, either:

(1) Make any correction, deletion or addition with regard to any portion of a record which the requester believes is not accurate, relevant, timely or complete; or

(2) Inform the requester of its refusal to amend the record in accordance with his request; the reason for the refusal; the procedures whereby he can appeal the refusal to the head of the agency; and the title and business address of that official. If the agency informs the requester of its determination within the 10-day deadline, a separate acknowledgement is not required.

(b) If an agency is unable to comply with either paragraphs (a)(1) or (2) of this section within 30 days of its receipt of a request for correction or amendment, (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays), it should inform the requester of that fact, the reasons therefor, and the approximate date on which a determination will be reached.

(c) In conducting its review of a request for correction or amendment, each agency shall be guided by the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(e) (1) and (5).

(d) If an agency determines to grant all or any portion of a request for correction or amendment, it shall:

(1) Advise the individual of that determination;

(2) Make the requested correction or amendment; and

(3) Inform any person or agency outside USDA to whom the record has been disclosed, and where an accounting of that disclosure is maintained in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(c), of the occurrence and substance of the correction or amendments.

(e) If an agency determines not to grant all or any portion of a request for correction or amendment, it shall:

(1) Comply with paragraph (d) of this section with regard to any correction or amendment which is made;

(2) Advise the requester of its determination and the reasons therefor;

(3) Inform the requester that he may appeal this determination to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records; and

(4) Describe the procedures for making such an appeal, including the title and business address of the official to whom the appeal is to be addressed.

(f) In the event that an agency receives a notice of correction or amendment to information in a record contained in a system of records which it maintains, it shall comply with paragraphs (d) (2) and (3) of this section in the same manner as if it had made the correction or amendment itself.

§ 1.118 Appeal of initial adverse agency determination on correction or amendment.

(a) Any individual whose request for correction or amendment under § 1.116 is denied, and who wishes to appeal that denial, shall address such appeal to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records to which the request relates, in accordance with the procedures set forth in the agency's initial denial of the request.

(b) The head of each agency shall make a final determination with regard to an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section not later than 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) from the date on which the individual requests a review, unless, for good cause shown, the head of the agency extends this 30-day period and so notifies the requester, together with an estimate of the date on which a final determination will be made. Such extension should be utilized only in exceptional circumstances and should not normally exceed 30 days. The delegation of authority set forth in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(c) In conducting his review of an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section, the head of an agency shall be guided by the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(e) (1) and (5).

(d) If the head of an agency determines to grant all or any portion of an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section, he shall inform the requester and the agency shall comply with the procedures set forth in § 1.117(d)(2) and (d)(3).

(e) If the head of an agency determines in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section not to grant all or any portion of an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section, he shall inform the requester:

(1) Of this determination and the reasons therefore;

(2) Of the requester's right to file a concise statement of his reasons for disagreeing with the agency's decision;

(3) Of the procedures for filing such a statement of disagreement;

(4) That such statements of disagreements will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed, together with (if the agency deems it appropriate) a brief statement by the agency summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record;

(5) That prior recipients of the disputed record will be provided with a copy of the statement of disagreement, together with (if the agency deems it appropriate) a brief statement of the agency's reasons for refusing to amend the record, to the extent that an accounting of disclosures is maintained under 5 U.S.C. 552a(c); and

(6) Of the requester's right to seek judicial review of the agency's determination in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(g). The agency shall insure that any statements of disagreement submitted by a requester are handled in accordance with paragraphs (e) (4) and (5) of this section.

§ 1.119 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

No agency shall disclose any record which is contained in a system of records it maintains, by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency outside USDA, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, unless the disclosure is authorized by one or more provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(b).

§ 1.120 Fees.

Any agency which provides copies of records pursuant to a request under this subpart may charge fees for the direct costs of producing such copies in accordance with Appendix A to Subpart A of this part. No agency, however, shall charge any fee for searches necessary to locate records. Nor shall an agency charge any fees for copies or searches, when the requester sought to make a personal inspection but was provided copies instead at the discretion of the agency.

§ 1.121 Penalties.

The criminal penalties which have been established for violations of the Privacy Act of 1974 are set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i). These penalties are applicable to any officer or employee of an agency who commits any of the enumerated acts. These penalties also apply to contractors and employees of such contractors who enter into contracts with an agency of USDA on or after September 27, 1975, and who are considered to be employees of the agency within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. 552a(m).

§ 1.122 General exemptions. [Reserved]

§ 1.123 Specific exemptions.

Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k), the systems of records (or portions thereof) maintained by agencies of USDA identified below are exempted from the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H) and (I), and (f). The reasons for exempting each system are set out in the notice for that system published in the Federal Register.

Appendix A—Internal Directives

Section 1 General Requirements. Each agency that maintains a system of records subject to 5 U.S.C. 552a and the regulations of this subpart shall:

(a) Maintain in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required to be accomplished by statute or by executive order of the President;

(b) Collect information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs;

(c) Inform each individual whom it asks to supply information, on the form which it uses to collect the information, or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual:

(1) the authority (whether granted by statute, or by executive order of the President) which authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary;

(2) the principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(3) the routine uses which may be made of the information, as published pursuant to paragraph (d)(4) of this section; and

(4) the effects on him, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information;

(d) Subject to the provisions of section 2 of this Appendix, prepare for publication in the Federal Register at least annually a notice of the existence and character of each system it maintains, which notice shall include:

(1) the name and location(s) of the system;

(2) the categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(3) the categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of uses and the purpose of such use;

(5) the policies and practices of the agency regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(6) the title and business address of the agency official who is responsible for the system of records;

(7) the agency procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(8) the agency procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request how he can gain access to any record pertaining to him contained in the system of records, and how he can contest its content; and

(9) the categories of sources of records in the system;

(e) Maintain all records which are used by the agency in making any determination about any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in the determination;

(f) Prior to disseminating any record about an individual to any person other than an agency, unless the dissemination is made pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(2), make reasonable efforts to assure that such records are accurate, complete, timely, and relevant for agency purposes;

(g) Maintain no record describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained, or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity;

(h) Make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record on such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record;

(i) Establish rules of conduct for persons involved in the design, development, operation, or maintenance of any system of records, or in maintaining any record, and instruct each such person with respect to such rules and the requirements of this section, including any other rules and procedures adopted pursuant to this section and the penalties for noncompliance;

(j) Establish appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to insure the security and confidentiality of records and to protect against any anticipated threats or hazards to their security or integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained.

Sec. 2 Amendment of routine uses for an existing system of records, or establishment of a new system of records.

(a) Any agency which intends to add a routine use, or amend an existing one, in a system of records it maintains, shall, in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(11), insure that 30 days advance notice of such action is given by publication in the Federal Register and an opportunity provided for interested persons to submit written data, views or arguments to the agency.

(b) Any agency which intends to establish a new system of records, or to alter any existing system of records, shall insure that adequate advance notice is provided to Congress and the Office of Management and Budget to permit an evaluation of the probable or potential effect of such action on the privacy and other personal or property rights of individuals or the disclosure of information relating to such individuals, and its effect on the preservation of the constitutional principles of federalism and separation of powers. Such notice is required for any new system of records and for any alteration in an existing one which will:

(1) Increase the number or types of individuals on whom records are maintained;

(2) Expand the type or amount of information maintained;

(3) Increase the number or categories of agencies or other persons who may have access to those records;

(4) Alter the manner in which the records are organized so as to change the nature or scope of those records (e.g., the combining of two or more existing systems);

(5) Modify the way the system operates at its location(s) in such a manner as to alter the procedures which individuals can exercise their rights under this Subpart; or

(6) Change the equipment configuration on which the system is operated so as to create the potential for greater access (e.g., adding a telecommunications capability).

Sec. 3 Accounting of Certain Disclosures. Each agency, with respect to each system of records under its control, shall:

(a) Except for disclosures made under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b) (1) and (2), keep an accurate account of:

(1) the date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of a record to any person or agency outside the Department; and

(2) the name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure is made;

(b) Retain the accounting made under paragraph (a) of this section for the longer of a period of five years, after the date of the disclosure for which the accounting is made, or the life of the record disclosed;

(c) Except for disclosures made under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(7), make the accounting above available to the individual named in the record at his request.

Sec. 4 Government Contractors. When an agency within the Department provides by a contract for the operation by or on behalf of the agency of a system of records to accomplish an agency function, the agency shall, consistent with its authority, cause the requirements of this Subpart to be applied to such system. For purposes of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) any such contractor or any employee of such contractor, if such contract is agreed to on or after September 27, 1975, shall be considered to be an employee of an agency and therefore subject to the criminal penalties set forth in that section.

Sec. 5 Mailing Lists. No agency within the Department shall sell or rent any individual's name and address unless such action is specifically authorized by law. This section shall not be construed to require, or to authorize, the withholding of names and addresses whose disclosure is required by 5 U.S.C. 552.

Sec. 6 Social security account numbers. (a) No agency shall deny, or permit any State or local government with whom it is involved in a cooperative venture to deny, to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose his social security account number.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this Section shall not apply with respect to:

(1) any disclosure required by Federal statute; or

(2) any disclosure to any agency relating to a system of records it maintained prior to January 1, 1975, if such disclosure was required under statute or regulation adopted prior to that date, to verify the identity of an individual.

(c) Any agency in the Department which requests an individual to disclose his social security account number shall inform that individual whether the disclosure is mandatory or voluntary, by what statutory or other authority the number is solicited, and what uses will be made of it. The agency shall also insure that this information is provided by a State or local government with whom it is involved in a cooperative agreement.

Sec. 7. Annual report. Each agency in the Department shall submit to the Office of the General Counsel prior to March 30 of each year (beginning March 30, 1976) a report containing the following information related to implementation of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(a) a summary of major accomplishments;

(b) a summary of major plans for activities in the upcoming year;

(c) a list of the systems which were exempted during the year from any of the operative provisions of this Subpart pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k), whether or not the exemption was effected during that year, the number of instances with respect to each system exempted in which the exemption was invoked to deny access, and the reasons for invoking the exemption;

(d) a brief summary of changes to the total inventory of personal data system subject to this Subpart including reasons for major changes; and

(e) a general description of operational experiences including estimates of the number of individuals (in relation to the total number of records in the system):

(1) requesting information on the existence of records pertaining to them;

(2) refusing to provide information;

(3) requesting access to their records;

(4) appealing initial refusals to amend records; and

(5) seeking redress through the courts.

Sec. 8. Effect of 5 U.S.C. 552. No agency in the Department shall rely on any exemption in 5 U.S.C. 552 to withhold from an individual any record which is otherwise accessible to such individual under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a and this Subpart.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: Under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), the head of any agency may exempt any system of records within the agency from certain provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, if the agency or component that maintains the system performs as its principal function any activities pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws. The Inspector General Act of 1978, Public Law 95-462, mandates the Inspector General to recommend policies for, and to conduct, supervise and coordinate activities in the Department and between the Department and other Federal, State and local governmental agencies with respect to all matters relating to the prevention and detection of fraud in programs and operations administered or financed by the Department, and to the identification and prosecution of participants in such fraud. Under the Act, whenever the Inspector General has reasonable grounds to believe there has been a violation of Federal criminal law the Inspector General must report the matter expeditiously to the Attorney General. In addition to these principal functions pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws, the Inspector General may receive and investigate complaints on information from various sources concerning the possible existence of activities constituting violations of law, rules or regulations, or mismanagement, gross waste of funds, abuses of authority or substantial and specific danger to the public health and safety.

The provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 from which exemptions are claimed under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) are as follows:

5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) and (4)
5 U.S.C. 552a(d)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1)(2) and (3)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(G), (H), and (I)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(5) and (8)
5 U.S.C. 552a(f)
5 U.S.C. 552a(g)

To the extent that the exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) is held to be invalid, then the exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), (k)(2), and (k)(5) are claimed for all material which meets the criteria of these three subsections.

Provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 from which exemptions are claimed under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), (k)(2) and (k)(5) are as follows:

5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3)
5 U.S.C. 552a(d)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(G), (H), and (I)
5 U.S.C. 552a(f)

Reasons for exemptions: In general, the exemption of this information and material is necessary in order to accomplish the law enforcement function of the Office of Inspector General, to prevent disclosure of classified information as required by Executive Order 12065, to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the investigatory process, to prevent the disclosure of investigative techniques, to fulfill commitments made to protect the confidentiality of sources, to maintain access to sources of information, and to avoid endangering these sources and law enforcement personnel. Detailed reasons follow:

Reasons for exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) and (k)(2):

1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires that upon request, an agency must give an individual named in a record an accounting which reflects the disclosure of the record to other persons or agencies. This accounting must state the date, nature and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. The application of this provision would alert subjects of an investigation to the existence of the investigation and that such persons are subjects of that investigation. Since release of such information to subjects of an investigation would provide the subjects with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation, it could result in the alerting or destruction of documentary evidence, improper influencing of witnesses, and other activities that could impede or compromise the investigation.

2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4), (d), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (f) and (g) relate to an individual's right to be notified of the existence of records pertaining to such individual; requirements for identifying an individual who requests access to records; the agency procedures relating to access to records and the contest of information contained in such records; and the civil remedies available to the individual in the event of adverse determinations by an agency concerning access to or amendment of information contained in record systems. This system is exempt from the foregoing provisions for the following reasons: To notify an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual or to grant access to an investigative file could interfere with investigative and enforcement proceedings, deprive co-defendants of a right to a fair trial or other impartial adjudication, constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of others, disclose the identity of confidential sources and reveal confidential information supplied by these sources and disclose investigative techniques and procedures.

3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires the publication of the categories of sources of records in each system of records. The application of this provision could disclose investigative techniques and procedures and cause sources to refrain from giving such information because of fear of reprisal, or fear of breach of promises of anonymity and confidentiality. This would compromise the ability to conduct investigations, and to identify, detect, and apprehend violators.

4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires each agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive Order. An exemption from the foregoing is needed:

a. Because it is not possible to detect relevance or necessity of specific information in the early stages of a criminal or other investigation.

b. Relevance and necessity are questions of judgment and timing. What appears relevant and necessary when collected may ultimately be determined to be unnecessary. It is only after the information is evaluated that the relevance and necessity of such information can be established.

c. In any investigation the Inspector General may obtain information concerning the violations of laws other than those within the scope of his jurisdiction. In the interest of effective law enforcement, the Inspector General should retain this information as it may aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity, and provide leads for those law enforcement agencies charged with enforcing other segments of criminal or civil law.

d. In interviewing persons, or obtaining other forms of evidence during an investigation, information may be supplied to the investigator which relate to matters incidental to the main purpose of the investigation but which may relate to matters under the investigative jurisdiction of another agency. Such information cannot readily be segregated.

5) 5 U.S.C. 552(e)(2) requires an agency to collect information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privilege under Federal programs. The application of the provision would impair investigations of illegal acts, violations of the rules of conduct, merit system and any other misconduct for the following reasons:

a. In certain instances the subject of an investigation cannot be required to supply information to investigators. In those instances, information relating to a subject's illegal acts, violations of rules of conduct, or any other misconduct, etc., must be obtained form other sources.

b. Most information collected about an individual under investigation is obtained from third parties such as witnesses and informers. It is not feasible to rely upon the subject of the investigation as a source for information regarding his activities.

c. The subject of an investigation will be alerted to the existence of an investigation if any attempt is made to obtain information from subject. This could afford the individual the opportunity to conceal any criminal activities to avoid apprehension.

d. In any investigation it is necessary to obtain evidence from a variety of sources other than the subject of the investigation in order to verify the evidence necessary for successful litigation.

6) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3) requires that an agency must inform the subject of an investigation who is asked to supply information of:

a. the authority under which the information is sought and whether disclosure of the information is mandatory or voluntary,

b. the purposes for which the information is intended to be used,

c. the routine uses which may be made of the information, and

d. the effects on the subject, if any, of not providing the requested information. The reasons for exempting this system of records from the foregoing provision are as follows:

(i) The disclosure to the subject of the investigation as stated in (b) above would provide the subject with substantial information relating to the nature of the investigation and could impede or compromise the investigation.

(ii) If the subject were informed of the information required by this provision, it could seriously interfere with undercover activities requiring disclosure of undercover agents' identity and impairing their safety, as well as impairing the successful conclusion of the investigation.

(iii) Individuals may be contacted during preliminary information-gathering in investigations before any individual is identified as the subject of an investigation. Informing the individual of the matters required by this provision would hinder or adversely affect any present or subsequent investigations.

7) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(5) requires that records be maintained with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in making any determination about an individual. Since the law defines "maintain" to include the collection of information complying with this provision would prevent the collection of any data not shown to be accurate, relevant, timely, and complete at the moment of its collection. In gathering information during the course of an investigation it is not possible to determine this prior to collection of the information. Facts are first gathered and then placed into a logical order which objectively proves or disproves criminal behavior on the part of the suspect. Material which may seem unrelated, irrelevant, incomplete, untimely, etc., may take on added meaning as an investigation progresses. The restrictions in this provision could interfere with the preparation of a complete investigative report.

8) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(8) requires an agency to make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record of such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record. The notice requirement of this provision could prematurely reveal an ongoing criminal investigation to the subject of the investigation.

Reasons for exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 522a(k)(1):

1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires that an agency make accountings of disclosures of records available to individuals named in the records at their request. These accountings must state the date, nature and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. The application of this provision would alert subjects of an investigation to the existence of the investigation and that such persons are subjects of that investigation, information which if known might cause damage to national security.

2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) relate to an individual's right to be notified of the existence of records pertaining to such individual; requirements for identifying an individual who requests access to records; and the agency procedures relating to access to records and the contest of information contained in such records. This system is exempt from the foregoing provisions for the following reasons: To notify an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual or to grant access to an investigative file could interfere with investigations undertaken in connection with national security; or could disclose the identity of sources kept secret to protect national security or reveal confidential information supplied by these sources.

3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires the publication of the categories of sources of records in each system of records. The application of this provision could disclose the identity of sources kept secret to protect national security.

4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires each agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive Order. An exemption from the foregoing is needed: a. Because it is not possible to detect relevance or necessity of specific information in the early stages of an investigation involving national security matters.

b. Relevance and necessity are questions of judgment and timing. What appears relevant and necessary when collected may ultimately be determined to be unnecessary. It is only after the information is evaluated that the relevance and necessity of such information can be established.

c. In any investigation the Inspector General may obtain information concerning the violators of laws other than those within the scope of his jurisdiction. In the interests of effective law enforcement, the Inspector General should retain this information as it may aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity, and provide leads for those law enforcement agencies charged with enforcing other segments of criminal or civil law.

d. In interviewing persons, or obtaining other forms of evidence during an investigation, information may be supplied to the investigator which relate to matters incidental to the main purpose of the investigation but which may relate to matters under the investigative jurisdiction of another agency. Such information cannot readily be segregated.

Reasons for exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5):

1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires that an agency make accountings of disclosures of records available to individuals named in the records at their request. These accountings must state the date, nature and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. The application of this provision would alert subjects of an investigation to the existence of the investigation and that such persons are subjects of that investigation. Since release of such information to subjects of an investigation would provide the subjects with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation, it could result in the altering or destruction of documentary evidence, improper influencing of witnesses, and other activities that could impede or compromise the investigation.

2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) relate to an individual's right to be notified of the existence of records pertaining to such individual; requirements for identifying an individual who requests access to records; and the agency procedures relating to access to records and the contest of information contained in such records. This sytem is exempt from the foregoing provisions for the following reasons: To notify an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual or to grant access to an investigative file could interfer with investigative and enforcement proceedings; co-defendants of a right to a fair trial; constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of others; disclose the identity of confidential sources and reveal confidential information supplied by these sources; and disclose investigative techniques and procedures.

3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires the publication of the categories of sources of records in each system of records. The application of this provision could disclose investigative techniques and procedures and cause sources to refrain from giving such information because of fear of reprisal, or fear of breach of promises of anonymity and confidentiality. This would compromise the ability to conduct investigations, and to make fair and objective decisions on questions of suitability for Federal employment and related issues.

4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires each agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive Order. An exemption from the foregoing is needed:

a. Because it is not possible to detect relevance or necessity of specific information in the early stages of an investigation.

b. Relevance and necessity are questions of judgment and timing. What appears relevant and necessary when collected may ultimately be determined to be unnecessary. It is only after the information is evaluated that the relevance and necessity of such information can be established.

c. In any investigation the Inspector General may obtain information concerning the violations of laws other than those within the scope of his jurisdiction. In the interest of effective law enforcement, the Inspector General should retain this information as it may aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity, and provide leads for those law enforcement agencies charged with enforcing other segments of criminal or civil law.

d. In interviewing persons, or obtaining other forms of evidence during an investigation, information may be supplied to the investigator which relate to matters incidental to the main purpose of the investigation but which may relate to matters under the investigative jurisdiction of another agency. Such information cannot readily be segregated.

§ 4b.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) The purpose of this part is to establish policies and procedures for implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579), particularly 5 U.S.C. 552a as added by the Act. The main objectives are to facilitate full exercise of rights conferred on individuals under the Act and to ensure the protection of privacy as to individuals on whom the Department maintains records in systems of records under the Act. The Department accepts the responsibility to act promptly and in accordance with the Act upon receipt of any inquiry, request or appeal from a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States, regardless of the age of the individual. Further, the Department accepts the obligations to maintain only such information on individuals as is relevant and necessary to the performance of its lawful functions, to maintain that information with such accuracy, relevancy, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness in determinations made by the Department about the individual, to obtain information from the individual to the extent practicable, and to take every reasonable step to protect that information from unwarranted disclosure. The Department will maintain no record describing how an individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity. An individual's name and address will not be sold or rented by the Department unless such action is specifically authorized by law; however, this provision shall not be construed to require the withholding of names and addresses otherwise permitted to be made public.

(b) This part applies to all units in the Department in order to assure the maximum amount of uniformity and consistency within the Department in its implementation of the Act. The units of the Department may promulgate supplementary orders and rules not inconsistent with this part.

(c) The Assistant Secretary for Administration is delegated responsibility for maintaining this part, for issuing such orders and directives internal to the Department as are necessary for full compliance with the Act, and for effecting publication of all required notices concerning systems of records.

(d) Matters outside the scope of this part include the following:

(1) Requests under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) and Part 4 of this title;

(2) Requests involving information pertaining to an individual which is in a record or file but not within the scope of a system of records notice published in the Federal Register;

(3) Requests to correct a record where a grievance procedure is available to the individual either by regulation or by provision in a collective bargaining agreement with the Department or a unit of the Department, and the individual has initiated, or has expressed in writing the intention of initiating, such grievance procedure. An individual selecting the grievance procedure waives the use of the procedures in this part to correct or amend a record; and,

(4) Requests for employee-employer services and counseling which were routinely granted prior to enactment of the Act, including, but not limited to, test calculations of retirement benefits, explanations of health and life insurance programs, and explanations of tax withholding options.

(e) The selection of the appropriate method for processing an individual's request for records depends on the status or capacity of the individual, the wording of the request and the character of the records requested. The Department anticipates the following situations and will undertake processing as indicated:

(1) Requester is the individual to whom the record pertains and the requester expressly states only that the request is under the Act—The request will be processed under the Act and this part;

(2) Requester is the individual to whom the record pertains and the requester expressly states only that the request is under the Freedom of Information Act—The request will be processed under the Freedom of Information Act and the Department's implementing regulations (Part 4 of this chapter);

(3) Requester is the individual to whom the record pertains and the requester expressly states that the request is under both the Act and the Freedom of Information Act—The request will be processed concurrently under both statutes and the Department's respective implementing regulations;

(4) Requester is the individual to whom the record pertains and the requester fails to specify whether the request is under the Act or the Freedom of Information Act or both—The Department will respond to the requester and ask for clarification of the requester's intention as to processing. The request will not be deemed to have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods for response until the clarification actually has been received by the appropriate official of the Department; and,

(5) Requester (i) is not an individual or (ii) is an individual but not the individual to whom the record pertains or one asserting parentage or guardianship as permitted under the Act—The request will be processed under the Freedom of Information Act and the Department's implementing regulations or under other applicable procedures.

§ 4b.2 Definitions.

(a) All terms used in this part which are defined in 5 U.S.C. 552a shall have the same meaning herein.

(b) As used in this part:

(1) The term "Act" means the "Privacy Act of 1974," Pub. L. 93–579.

(2) The term "appeal" means the request by an individual that an initial denial of a request for correction or amendment by that individual be reviewed and reversed.

(3) The term "Department" means the Department of Commerce.

(4) The term "inquiry" means either a request for general information regarding the Act and this part or a request by an individual (or that individual's parent or guardian) that the Department determine whether it has any record in a system of records which pertains to that individual.

(5) The term "person" means any human being and also shall include but not be limited to, corporations, associations, partnerships, trustees, receivers, personal representatives, and public or private organizations.

(6) The term "Privacy Appeals Officer" means those officials, identified in Appendix B to this part, who are authorized to receive and act upon appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction or amendment.

(7) The term "Privacy Officer" means those officials, identified in Appendix A to this part, who are authorized to receive and act upon inquiries, requests for access, and requests for correction or amendment.

(8) The term "request for access" means a request by an individual to see a record which is in a particular system of records and which pertains to that individual.

(9) The term "request for correction or amendment" means the request by an individual that the Department change (either by correction, amendment, addition or deletion) a particular record in a system of records which pertains to that individual.

(10) The term "unit of the Department" and "unit" means the office of the Secretary of Commerce and operating units of the Department as defined in Department Organization Order 1–1, "Mission and Organization of the Department of Commerce" (35 FR 19704, December 27, 1970).

§ 4b.3 Procedures for inquiries pertaining to individual records in a record system.

(a) Any individual, regardless of age, who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States may submit an inquiry to the Department. The inquiry should be made either in person or by mail addressed to the appropriate Privacy Officer identified in Appendix A to this part or to the official identified in the notification procedures paragraph of the systems of records notice published in the Federal Register. If an individual believes the Department maintains a record pertaining to that individual but does not know which system of records might contain such a record and/or which unit of the Department maintains the system of records, assistance in person or by mail will be provided at the first address listed in Appendix A to this part. The offices of Privacy Officers are open to the public between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday (excepting holidays).

(b) The processing of inquiries submitted by mail will be facilitated if the words "PRIVACY ACT INQUIRY" appear in capital letters on the face of the envelope.

(c) The Department has an official form for making inquiries and requests, a facsimile of which is Appendix D to this part. Its use is urged. Copies may be obtained by contacting any of the officials in Appendix A to this part. Copies also may be obtained by contacting any facility of the Department which offers direct services to the public. Please consult your telephone directory under the listing "United States Government—Commerce Department."

(d) If, for some reason, an individual is unable to use the Department's official form, the letter should bear the words "PRIVACY ACT INQUIRY" in capital letters at the top. If the inquiry is for general information regarding the Act and this part, no particular information is required. If the inquiry is a request that the Department determine whether it has, in a given system of records, a record which pertains to the individual, the following information should be submitted:

(1) Name of individual whose record is sought;

(2) Individual whose record is sought is either a U.S. citizen or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

(3) Identifying data that will help locate the record (for example, maiden name, occupational license number, period or place of employment, etc.);

(4) Record sought, by description and by record system name, if known;

(5) Action requested (that is, send information on how to exercise rights under the Act; does requested record exist; access to requested record; or copy of requested record);

(6) Copy of court guardianship order or minor's birth certificate, as provided in § 4b.4(f)(3), but only if requester is guardian or parent of individual whose record is sought;

(7) Requester's name (printed), signature, address, and telephone number (optional);

(8) Date; and,

The Department reserves the right to require compliance with the identification procedures appearing at § 4b.4(f) where circumstances warrant.

(e) Any inquiry which is not addressed as specified in paragraph (a) of this section or which is not marked as specified in paragraphs (b) and (d) of this section will be so addressed and marked by Department personnel and forwarded immediately to the responsible Privacy Officer. An inquiry which is not properly addressed by the individual will not be deemed to have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods for response until actual receipt by the Privacy Officer. In each instance when an inquiry so forwarded is received, the Privacy Officer shall notify the individual that his or her inquiry was improperly addressed and the date when the inquiry was received at the proper address.

(f) (1) Each inquiry received shall be acted upon promptly by the responsible Privacy Officer. Every effort will be made to respond within ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) of the date of receipt. If a response cannot be made within ten days, the Privacy Officer shall send an acknowledgment during that period providing information on the status of the inquiry and asking for such further information as may be necessary to process the inquiry. The first correspondence sent by the Privacy Officer to the requester shall contain the Department's control number assigned to the request, as well as a note that the requester should use that number in all future contacts in order to facilitate processing. The Department shall use that control number in all subsequent correspondence.

(2) If the Privacy Officer fails to send an acknowledgment within ten days, as provided above, the requester may ask the Privacy Appeals Officer, identified in Appendix B to this part, to take corrective action. No failure of a Privacy Officer to send an acknowledgment shall confer administrative finality for purposes of judicial review.

(g) An individual shall not be required to state a reason or otherwise justify his or her inquiry.

(h) Special note should be taken of the fact that certain agencies are responsible for publishing notices of systems of records having Government-wide application to other agencies, including the Department. The agencies known to be publishing these general notices and the types of records covered therein appear in Appendix C to this part. These general notices do not identify the Privacy Officers in the Department to whom inquiries should be presented or mailed. The provisions of this section, and particularly paragraph (a) of this section, should be followed in making inquiries with respect to such records. Such records in the Department are subject to the provisions of this part to the extent indicated in Appendix C to this part. The exemptions, if any, determined by the agency publishing a general notice shall be invoked and applied by the Department after consultation, as necessary, with that other agency.

§ 4b.4 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests for access.

(a) Any individual, regardless of age, who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States may submit a request for access to records to the Department. The request should be made either in person or by mail addressed to the responsible Privacy Officer identified in Appendix A to this part. The offices of Privacy Officers are open to the public between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday (excluding holidays).

(b) The Department has an official form for making requests, a facsimile of which is Appendix D to this part. Its use is urged. Copies may be obtained by contacting any of the officials listed in Appendix A to this part. Copies also may be obtained by contacting any facility of the Department which offers direct services to the public. Please consult your telephone directory under the listing "United States Government—Commerce Department."

(c) The processing of requests submitted by mail will be facilitated if the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" appear in capital letters on the face of the envelope. If, for some reason, an individual is unable to use the Department's official form the letter should bear the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" in capital letters at the top.

(d) Any request which is not addressed as specified in paragraph (a) of this section or which is not marked as specified in paragraph (c) of this section will be so addressed and marked by Department personnel and forwarded immediately to the responsible Privacy Officer. A request which is not properly addressed by the individual will not be deemed to have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods for response until actual receipt by the Privacy Officer. In each instance when a request so forwarded is received, the Privacy Officer shall notify the individual that his or her request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received at the proper address.

(e) If the request follows inquiry under § 4b.3 in connection with which the individual's identity was established by the Department, the individual need only indicate the record to which access is sought, give the Department control number assigned to the request, and sign and date the request. If the request is not preceded by an inquiry under section 4b.3, the procedures of either § 4b.3(c) or § 4b.3(d) of this part should be followed.

(f) The requirements for identification of individuals seeking access to records are as follows:

(1) In person. Each individual making a request in person shall be required to present satisfactory proof of identity. The means of proof, in the order of preference and priority, are:

(i) A document bearing the individual's photograph (for example, driver's license, passport or military or civilian identification card);

(ii) A document, preferably issued for participation in a Federally sponsored program, bearing the individual's signature (for example, unemployment insurance book, employer's identification card, national credit card, and professional, craft or union membership card); and,

(iii) A document bearing neither the photograph nor the signature of the individual, preferably issued for participation in a Federally sponsored program (for example, Medicaid card).

In the event the individual can provide no suitable documentation of identity, the Department will require a signed statement asserting the individual's identity and stipulating that the individual understands the penalty provision of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3) recited in § 4b.12(a). For the convenience of the public, and in addition to the Privacy Officers listed in Appendix A to this part, most facilities which are open to the public and operated by the Department outside Metropolitan Washington, D.C. have employees authorized to determine the identity of an individual. However, such employees are not authorized to take any other action with respect to a request except to transmit the request to the responsible Privacy Officer. In order to avoid any unwarranted disclosure of an individual's records, the Department reserves the right to determine the adequacy of proof of identity offered by any individual, particularly when the request involves a sensitive record.

(2) Not in person. If the individual making a request does not appear in person before a Privacy Officer or other employee authorized to determine identity, a certificate of a notary public or equivalent officer empowered to administer oaths must accompany the request under the circumstances prescribed in § 4b.3(d)(9). The Department's official form for requests contains a certificate. If, for some reason, the individual is unable to use the official form, the certificate within or attached to the letter must be substantially in accord with the following text:

City of ————————
County of ————————: ss
(Name of individual), who affixed (his) (her) signature below in my presence, came before me, a (title), in and for the aforesaid County and State, this ——— day of ————————, 19—, and established (his) (her) identity to my satisfaction.
My commission expires ————————.
(Signature)

(3) Parents of minors and legal guardians. An individual acting as the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom a record pertains shall establish his or her personal identity in the same manner prescribed in either paragraph (f)(1) or paragraph (f)(2) of this section. In addition, such other individual shall establish his or her identity in the representative capacity of parent or legal guardian. In the case of the parent of a minor, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the minor's birth certificate. In the case of a legal guardian of an individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the court's order. For purposes of the Act, a parent or legal guardian may represent only a living individual, not a decedent. A parent or legal guardian may be accompanied during personal access to a record by another individual, provided the provisions of § 4b.5(f) are satisfied.

(g) When the provisions of this part are alleged to have the effect of impeding an individual in exercising his or her right to access, the Department will consider, from an individual making a request, alternative suggestions regarding proof of identity and access to records.

(h) An individual shall not be required to state a reason or otherwise justify his or her request for access to a record.

§ 4b.5 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) (1) Each request received shall be acted upon promptly by the responsible Privacy Officer. Every effort will be made to respond within ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) of the date of receipt. If a response cannot be made within ten days due to unusual circumstances, the Privacy Officer shall send an acknowledgment during that period providing information on the status of the request and asking for such further information as may be necessary to process the request. "Unusual circumstances" shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments are required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultations with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request are necessary.

(2) If the Privacy Officer fails to send an acknowledgment within ten days, as provided above, the requester may ask the responsible Privacy Appeals Officer, identified in Appendix B to this part, to take corrective action. No failure of a Privacy Officer to send an acknowledgment shall confer administrative finality for purposes of judicial review.

(b) Grant of access. (1) Notification. An individual shall be granted access to a record pertaining to him or her, except where the provisions of paragraph (g)(1) of this section apply. The Privacy Officer shall notify the individual of a determination to grant access and provide the following information:

(i) The methods of access, as set forth in paragraph (b)(2) of this section;

(ii) The place at which the record may be inspected;

(iii) The earliest date on which the record may be inspected and the period of time that the records will remain available for inspection. In no event shall the earliest date be later than thirty days from the date of notification;

(iv) The estimated date by which a copy of the record could be mailed and the estimate of fees pursuant to section 4b.11 of this part. In no event shall the estimated date be later than thirty days from the date of notification;

(v) The fact that the individual, if he or she wishes, may be accompanied by another individual during personal access, subject to the procedures set forth in paragraph (f) of this section; and,

(vi) Any additional requirements needed to grant access to a specific record.

(2) Methods of access. The following methods of access to records by an individual may be available depending on the circumstances of a given situation:

(i) Inspection in person may be had in the office specified by the Privacy Officer granting access, during the hours indicated in § 4b.4(a);

(ii) Transfer of records to a Federal facility more convenient to the individual may be arranged, but only if the Privacy Officer determines that a suitable facility is available, that the individual's access can be properly supervised at that facility, and that transmittal of the records to that facility will not unduly interfere with operations of the Department or involve unreasonable costs, in terms of both money and manpower; and,

(iii) Copies may be mailed at the request of the individual, subject to payment of the fees prescribed in § 4b.11. The Department, at its own initiative, may elect to provide a copy by mail, in which case no fee will be charged the individual.

(c) Access to medical records is governed by the provisions of § 4b.6.

(d) The Department shall supply such other information and assistance at the time of access as to make the record intelligible to the individual.

(e) The Department reserves the right to limit access to copies and abstracts of original records, rather than the original records. This election would be appropriate, for example, when the record is in an automated data media such as tape or disc, when the record contains information on other individuals, and when deletion of information is permissible under exemptions (for example, 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2)). In no event shall original records of the Department be made available to the individual except under the immediate supervision of the Privacy Officer or his designee. Title 18, United States Code, section 2701(a) makes it a crime to conceal, mutilate, obliterate, or destroy any record filed in a public office, or to attempt to do any of the foregoing.

(f) Any individual who requests access to a record pertaining to that individual may be accompanied by another individual of his or her choice. "Accompanied" includes discussion of the record in the presence of the other individual. The individual to whom the record pertains shall authorize the presence of the other individual in writing and shall include the name of the other individual, a specific description of the record to which access is sought, the Department control number assigned to the request, the date and the signature of the individual to whom the record pertains. The other individual shall sign the authorization in the presence of the Privacy Officer. An individual shall not be required to state a reason or otherwise justify his or her decision to be accompanied by another individual during personal access to a record.

(g) Initial denial of access. (1) Grounds. Access by an individual to a record which pertains to that individual will be denied only upon a determination by the Privacy Officer that:

(i) The record is exempt under §§ 4b.13 and 4b.14 or exempt by determination of another agency publishing notice of the system of records, as described in § 4b.3(h);

(ii) The record is information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding;

(iii) The provisions of section 4b.6 pertaining to medical records temporarily have been invoked; or,

(iv) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(2) Notification. The Privacy Officer shall give notice of denial of access to records to the individual in writing and shall include the following information:

(i) The Privacy Officer's name and title or position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate section of the Act and this part;

(iv) The individual's opportunities, if any, for further administrative consideration, including the identity and address of the responsible official. If no further administrative consideration within the Department is available, the notice shall state that the denial is administratively final; and,

(v) If stated to be administratively final within the Department, the individual's right to judicial review provided under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1), as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(3) Administrative review. When an initial denial of a request is issued by the Privacy Officer, the individual's opportunities for further consideration shall be as follows:

(i) As to denial under paragraph (g)(1)(i) of this section, two opportunities for further consideration are available in the alternative: (A) If the individual contests the application of the exemption to the records, review procedures in § 4b.5(g)(3)(ii) shall apply; or, (B) If the individual challenges the exemption itself, the procedure is a petition for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule under 5 U.S.C. 553(e). If the exemption was determined by the Department, such petition shall be filed with the Assistant Secretary for Administration. If the exemption was determined by another agency, referred to in § 4b.3(h), the Department will provide the individual with the name and address of the other agency and any relief sought by the individual shall be that provided by the regulations of the other agency. Within the Department, no such denial is administratively final until such a petition has been filed by the individual and disposed of on the merits by the Assistant Secretary for Administration.

(ii) As to denial under paragraphs (g)(1)(ii), (g)(1)(iv) of this section or (to the limited extent provided in paragraph (g)(3)(i)(A) of this section) paragraph (g)(1)(i), the individual may file for review with the responsible Privacy Appeals Officer identified in Appendix B to this part, as indicated in the Privacy Officer's initial denial notification. The procedures appearing in § 4b.8 shall be followed by both the individual and the Department to the maximum extent practicable.

(iii) As to denial under paragraph (g)(1)(iii) of this section, no further administrative consideration within the Department is available because the denial is not administratively final until expiration of the time period indicated in § 4b.6(a).

(h) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

§ 4b.6 Special procedures: Medical records.

(a) No response to any request for access to medical records by an individual will be issued by the Privacy Officer for a period of seven days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) from the date of receipt.

(b) The Department has published as a routine use, for all systems of records containing medical records, consultations with an individual's physician or psychologist if, in the sole judgment of the Department, disclosure could have an adverse effect upon the individual. The mandatory waiting period set forth in paragraph (a) of this section will permit exercise of this routine use in appropriate cases. The Department will pay no cost of any such consultation.

(c) In every case of a request by an individual for access to medical records, the Privacy Officer shall:

(1) Inform the individual of the waiting period prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section;

(2) Obtain the name and address of the individual's physician and/or psychologist, if the individual consents to give them;

(3) Obtain specific, written consent for the Department to consult the individual's physician and/or psychologist in the event that the Department believes such consultation is advisable, if the individual consents to give such authorization;

(4) Obtain specific, written consent for the Department to provide the medical records to the individual's physician or psychologist in the event that the Department believes access to the record by the individual is best effected under the guidance of the individual's physician or psychologist, if the individual consents to give such authorization; and,

(5) Forward the individual's medical record to the Department's medical officer for review and a determination on whether consultation with or transmittal of the medical records to the individual's physician or psychologist is warranted. If the consultation with or transmittal of such records to the individual's physician or psychologist is determined to be warranted, the Department's medical officer shall so consult or transmit. Whether or not such a consultation or transmittal occurs, the Department's medical officer shall provide instruction to the Privacy Officer regarding the conditions of access by the individual to his or her medical records.

(d) If an individual refuses in writing to give the names and consents set forth in paragraphs (c)(2) through (4) of this section and the Department has determined that disclosure could have an adverse effect upon the individual, the Department shall give the individual access to said records by means of a copy, provided without cost to the requester, sent registered mail return receipt requested.

§ 4b.7 Request for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Any individual, regardless of age, who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States may submit a request for correction or amendment to the Department. The request should be made either in person or by mail addressed to the Privacy Officer who processed the individual's request for access to the record, and to whom is delegated authority to make initial determinations on requests for correction or amendment. The offices of Privacy Officers are open to the public between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday (excluding holidays).

(b) The processing of requests submitted by mail will be facilitated if the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" appear in capital letters on the face of the envelope. If, for some reason, the individual is unable to use the Department's official form, the letter should bear the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" in capital letters at the top.

(c) Any request which is not addressed as specified in paragraph (a) of this section or which is not marked as specified in paragraph (b) of this section will be so addressed and marked by Department personnel and forwarded immediately to the responsible Privacy Officer. A request which is not properly addressed by the individual will not be deemed to have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods for response until actual receipt by the Privacy Officer. In each instance when a request so forwarded is received, the Privacy Officer shall notify the individual that his or her request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received at the proper address.

(d) Since the request, in all cases, will follow a request for access under § 4b.5, the individual's identity will be established by his or her signature on the request and use of the Department control number assigned to the request.

(e) A request for correction or amendment should include the following:

(1) A specific identification of the record sought to be corrected or amended (for example, description, title, date, paragraph, sentence, line and words);

(2) The specific wording to be deleted, if any;

(3) The specific wording to be inserted or added, if any, and the exact place at which to be inserted or added; and,

(4) A statement of the basis for the requested correction or amendment, with all available supporting documents and materials which substantiate the statement. The statement should identify the criterion of the Act being invoked, that is, whether the information in the record is unnecessary, inaccurate, irrelevant, untimely or incomplete.

§ 4b.8 Agency review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a)(1) (i) Not later than ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) after receipt of a request to correct or amend a record, the Privacy Officer shall send an acknowledgment providing an estimate of time within which action will be taken on the request and asking for such further information as may be necessary to process the request. The estimate of time may take into account unusual circumstances as described in § 4b.5(a). No acknowledgment will be sent if the request can be reviewed, processed and the individual notified of the results of review (either compliance or denial) within the ten days. Requests filed in person will be acknowledged in writing at the time submitted.

(ii) If the Privacy Officer fails to send the acknowledgment within the ten days, as provided above, the requester may ask the responsible Privacy Appeals Officer, identified in Appendix B to this part, to take corrective action. No failure of a Privacy Officer to send an acknowledgment shall confer administrative finality for purposes of judicial review.

(2) Promptly after acknowledging receipt of a request, or after receiving such further information as might have been requested, or after arriving at a decision within the ten days, the Privacy Officer shall either:

(i) Make the requested correction or amendment and advise the individual in writing of such action, providing either a copy of the corrected or amended record or a statement as to the means whereby the correction or amendment was effected in cases where a copy cannot be provided (for example, erasure of information from a record maintained only in magnetically recorded computer files); or,

(ii) Inform the individual in writing that his or her request is denied and provide the following information:

(A) The Privacy Officer's name and title or position;

(B) The date of the denial;

(C) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate sections of the Act and this part; and,

(D) The procedures for appeal of the denial as set forth in § 4b.9, including the name and address of the responsible Privacy Appeals Officer from Appendix C to this part.

The term "promptly" in this subsection means within thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays). If the Privacy Officer cannot make the determination within thirty days, the individual will be advised in writing of the reason therefor and of the estimated date by which the determination will be made.

(b) Whenever an individual's record is corrected or amended pursuant to a request by that individual, the Privacy Officer shall see to the notification of all persons and agencies to which the corrected or amended portion of the record had been disclosed prior to its correction or amendment, if an accounting of such disclosure required by the Act was made. The notification shall require a recipient agency maintaining the record to acknowledge receipt of the notification, to correct or amend the record and to apprise any agency or person to which it had disclosed the record of the substance of the correction or amendment.

(c) The following criteria will be considered by the Privacy Officer in reviewing a request for correction or amendment:

(1) The sufficiency of the evidence submitted by the individual;

(2) The factual accuracy of the information;

(3) The relevance and necessity of the information in terms of purpose for which it was collected;

(4) The timeliness and currency of the information in light of the purpose for which it was collected;

(5) The completeness of the information in terms of the purpose for which it was collected;

(6) The degree of risk that denial of the request could unfairly result in determinations adverse to the individual;

(7) The character of the record sought to be corrected or amended; and,

(8) The propriety and feasibility of complying with the specific means of correction or amendment requested by the individual.

(d) The Department will not undertake to gather evidence for the individual, but does reserve the right to verify the evidence which the individual submits.

(e) Correction or amendment of a record requested by an individual will be denied only upon a determination by the Privacy Officer that:

(1) The individual has failed to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, the propriety of the correction or amendment in light of the criteria set forth in paragraph (c) of this section;

(2) The record sought to be corrected or amended is part of the official record in a terminated judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual was a party or participant;

(3) The information in the record sought to be corrected or amended, or the record sought to be corrected or amended, is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant;

(4) The correction or amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation; or,

(5) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(f) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

§ 4b.9 Appeal of initial adverse agency determination on correction or amendment.

(a) When a request for correction or amendment has been denied initially under § 4b.8, the individual may submit a written appeal within thirty days after the date of the initial denial. When an appeal is submitted by mail, the postmark is conclusive as to timeliness.

(b) An appeal shall be addressed to the Privacy Appeals Officer identified in the initial denial (that official is authorized to make final determinations). The processing of appeals will be facilitated if the words "PRIVACY APPEAL" appear in capital letters on both the envelope and the top of the appeal papers. An appeal not addressed and marked as provided herein will be so marked by Department personnel when it is so identified, and will be forwarded immediately to the responsible Privacy Appeals Officer. An appeal which is not properly addressed by the individual will not be deemed to have been "received" for purposes of measuring the time periods in this section until actual receipt by the Privacy Appeals Officer. In each instance when an appeal so forwarded is received, the Privacy Appeals Officer shall notify the individual that his or her appeal was improperly addressed and the date when the appeal was received at the proper address.

(c) The individual's appeal papers shall include a statement of the reasons why the initial denial is believed to be in error and the Department's control number assigned to the request. The appeal shall be signed by the individual. The record which the individual requests be corrected or amended and all correspondence between the Privacy Officer and the requester will be supplied by the Privacy Officer who issued the initial denial. While the foregoing normally will comprise the entire record on appeal, the Privacy Appeals Officer may seek additional information necessary to assure that the final determination is fair and equitable and, in such instances, the additional information will be disclosed to the individual to the greatest extent possible and an opportunity provided for comment thereon.

(d) No personal appearance or hearing on appeal will be allowed.

(e) The Privacy Appeals Officer shall act upon the appeal and issue a final determination in writing not later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) from the date on which the appeal is received; provided, that the Privacy Appeals Officer may extend the thirty days upon deciding that a fair and equitable review cannot be made within that period, but only if the individual is advised in writing of the reason for the extension and the estimated date by which a final determination will issue. The estimated date should not be later than the sixtieth day (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) after receipt of the appeal unless unusual circumstances, as described in § 4b.5(a), are met.

(f) If the appeal is determined in favor of the individual, the final determination shall include the specific corrections or amendments to be made and a copy thereof shall be transmitted promptly both to the individual and to the Privacy Officer who issued the initial denial. Upon receipt of such final determination, the Privacy Officer promptly shall take the actions set forth in §§ 4b.8(a)(2)(i) and 4b.8(b).

(g) If the appeal is denied, the final determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual and state the reasons for the denial. The notice of final determination also shall inform the individual of the following:

(1) The right of the individual under the Act to file a concise statement of reasons for disagreeing with the final determination. The statement ordinarily should not exceed one page and the Department reserves the right to reject a statement of excessive length. Such a statement shall be filed with the Privacy Appeals Officer. It should provide the Department control number assigned to the request, indicate the date of the final determination and be signed by the individual. The Privacy Appeals Officer shall acknowledge receipt of such statement and inform the individual of the date on which it was received;

(2) The facts that any such disagreement statement filed by the individual will be noted in the disputed record, that the purposes and uses to which the statement will be put are those applicable to the record in which it is noted, and that a copy of the statement will be provided to persons and agencies to which the record is disclosed subsequent to the date of receipt of such statement;

(3) The fact that the Department will append to any such disagreement statement filed by the individual, a copy of the final determination or summary thereof which also will be provided to persons and agencies to which the disagreement statement is disclosed; and,

(4) The right of the individual to judicial review of the final determination under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A), as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(h) In making the final determination, the Privacy Appeals Officer shall employ the criteria set forth in § 4b.8(c) and shall deny an appeal only on the grounds set forth in § 4b.8(e).

(i) If an appeal is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Appeals Officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

(j) Although a copy of the final determination or a summary thereof will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

(k) The provisions of paragraphs (g)(1) through (3) of this section satisfy the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3).

§ 4b.10 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) The Department may disclose a record pertaining to an individual to a person other than the individual to whom it pertains only in the following instances:

(1) Upon written request by the individual, including authorization under § 4b.5(f);

(2) With the prior written consent of the individual;

(3) To a parent or legal guardian under 5 U.S.C. 552a(h);

(4) When required by the Act and not covered explicitly by the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(b); and

(5) When permitted under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(1) through (11), which read as follows: [1]

(i) To those officers and employees of the agency which maintains the record who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(ii) Required under section 552 of this title;

(iii) For a routine use as defined in paragraph (a)(7) of this section and described under paragraph (e)(4)(D) of this section;

(iv) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of title 13;

(v) To a recipient who has provided the agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(vi) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(vii) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the agency which maintains the record specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(viii) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(ix) To either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(x) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office; or

(xi) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

[1] 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(4) has no application within the Department.

(b) The situations referred to in paragraph (a)(4) of this section include the following:

(1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4) requires dissemination of a corrected or amended record or notation of a disagreement statement by the Department in certain circumstances;

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) requires disclosure of records to the individual to whom they pertain, upon request;

(3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(g) authorizes civil action by an individual and requires disclosure by the Department to the court;

(4) Section 5(e)(2) of the Act authorizes release of any records or information by the Department to the Privacy Protection Study Commission upon request of the Chairman; and

(5) Section 6 of the Act authorizes the Office of Management and Budget to provide the Department with continuing oversight and assistance in implementation of the Act.

(c) The Privacy Officer shall make an accounting of each disclosure by him of any record contained in a system of records in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(c) (1) and (2). Except for a disclosure made under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(7), the Privacy Officer shall make such accounting available to any individual, insofar as it pertains to that individual, on request submitted in accordance with § 4b.4. The Privacy Officer shall make reasonable efforts to notify any individual when any record in a system of records is disclosed to any person under compulsory legal process, promptly upon being informed that such process has become a matter of public record.

§ 4b.11 Fees.

(a) The only fees to be charged to or collected from an individual under the provisions of this part are for copying records at the request of the individ-ual.

(1) No fees shall be charged or collected for the following: Search for and retrieval of the records; review of the records; copying at the initiative of the Department without a request from the individual; transportation of records and personnel; and first-class postage.

(2) It is the policy of the Department to provide an individual with one copy of each record corrected or amended pursuant to his or her request without charge as evidence of the correction or amendment.

(3) As required by the United States Civil Service Commission in its published regulations implementing the Act, the Department will charge no fee for a single copy of a personnel record covered by that Commission's Government-wide published notice of systems of records.

(b) The copying fees prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section are:

$0.07	Each copy of each page, up to 8½" x 14", made by photocopy or similar process.
$0.25	Each copy of each microform frame printed on paper.
$0.25	Each aperture card.
$0.25	Each 105-mm fiche.
$7.00	Each 100' roll of 35-mm microfilm.
$6.00	Each 100' roll of 16-mm microfilm.
$0.20	Each page of computer printout without regard to the number of carbon copies concurrently printed.

Other copying forms (e.g., typing or printing) will be charged at direct cost, including personnel and equipment costs.

(c) All copying fees shall be paid by the individual before the copying will be undertaken. Payments shall be made in cash or, preferably, by check or money order payable to "U.S. Department of Commerce," and they shall be paid or sent to the office stated in the billing notice, or if none, to the Privacy Officer processing the request. Where appropriate, payment may be required in the form of certified check.

(d) A copying fee totaling $1 or less shall be waived, but the copying fees for contemporaneous requests by the same individual shall be aggregated to determine the total fee.

A copying fee shall not be charged or collected, or alternatively, it may be reduced, when it is determined by the Privacy Officer, based on a petition therefor, that the petitioning individual is indigent and that Department resources permit a waiver of all or part of the fee. An individual is deemed to be indigent when without income or resources sufficient to pay the fees.

(e) Special and additional services provided at the request of the individual, such as certification or authentication, postal insurance and special mailing arrangement costs, will be charged to the individual in accordance with other published regulations of the Department pursuant to statute (for example, 31 U.S.C. 483a).

(f) This section applies only to individuals making requests under this part. To the extent an individual makes a request under the Freedom of Information Act, as provided in § 4b.1(e) (2), (3) and (5), the fees provisions of Part 4 of this Chapter shall apply. All other persons shall remain subject to fees and charges prescribed by other and appropriate authorities.

§ 4b.12 Penalties.

(a) The Act provides, in pertinent part:

Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000. (5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3)).

(b) A person who falsely or fraudulently attempts to obtain records under the Act also may be subject to prosecution under such other criminal statutes as 18 U.S.C. 494, 495 and 1001.

§ 4b.13 General exemptions.

(a) Individuals may not have access to records maintained by the Department but which were provided by another agency which has determined by regulation that such information is subject to general exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j). If such exempt records are within a request for access, the Department will advise the individual of their existence and of the name and address of the source agency. For any further information concerning the record and the exemption, the individual must contact that source agency.

(b) The general exemptions determined to be necessary and proper with respect to systems of records maintained by the Department, including the parts of each system to be exempted, the provisions of the Act from which they are exempted, and the justification for the exemption, are as follows:

(1) Individuals identified in Export Administration compliance proceedings or investigations—COMMERCE/ITA–1. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), these records are hereby determined to be exempt from all provisions of the Act, except 5 U.S.C. 552a (b), (c) (1) and (2), (e)(4) (A) through (F), (e) (6), (7), (9), (10), and (11), and (i). These exemptions are necessary to insure the proper functioning of the law enforcement activity, to protect confidential sources of information, to fulfill promises of confidentiality, to maintain the integrity of the law enforcement process, to avoid premature disclosure of the knowledge of criminal activity and the evidentiary bases of possible enforcement actions, to prevent interference with law enforcement proceedings, to avoid disclosure of investigative techniques, and to avoid the endangering of law enforcement personnel. Section 7(c) of the Export Administration Act of 1969, as amended, also protects this information from disclosure.

(2) Fisheries Law Enforcement Case Files—COMMERCE/NOAA–11. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), these records are hereby determined to be exempt from all provisions of the Act, except 5 U.S.C. 552a (b), (c) (1) and (2), (e) (4) (A) through (F), (e) (6), (7), (9), (10), and (11), and (i). These exemptions are necessary to insure the proper functioning of the law enforcement activity, to protect confidential sources of information, to fulfill promises of confidentiality, to prevent interference with law enforcement proceedings, to avoid the disclosure of investigative techniques, to avoid the endangering of law enforcement personnel, to avoid premature disclosure of the knowledge of criminal activity and the evidentiary bases of possible enforcement actions, and to maintain the integrity of the law enforcement process.

(3) Investigative Records—Contract and Grant Frauds and Employee Criminal Misconduct—COMMERCE/DEPT.–12. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), these records are hereby determined to be exempt from all provisions of the Act, except 5 U.S.C. 552a (b), (c) (1) and (2), (e)(4) (A) through (F), (e) (6), (7), (9), (10), and (11), and (i). These exemptions are necessary to insure the proper functions of the law enforcement activity, to protect confidential sources of information, to fulfill promises of confidentiality, to prevent interference with law enforcement proceedings, to avoid the disclosure of investigative techniques, to avoid the endangering of law enforcement personnel, to avoid premature disclosure of the knowledge of criminal activity and the evidentiary bases of possible enforcement actions, and to maintain the integrity of the law enforcement process.

(5 U.S.C. 552a(f) and (k), sec. 3 of the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93–579, 88 Stat. 1896)]

[40 FR 45621, Oct. 2, 1975; 40 FR 50662, Oct. 30, 1975; 40 FR 51168, Nov. 3, 1975, as amended at 43 FR 43020, Sept. 22, 1978]

§ 4b.14 Specific exemptions.

(a) Some systems of records under the Act which are maintained by the Department contain, from time to time, material subject to the exemption appearing at 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), relating to national defense and foreign policy materials. The systems of records published in the Federal Register by the Department which are within this exemption are:

COMMERCE/ITA–1, COMMERCE/ITA–2, COMMERCE/ITA–3, COMMERCE/NOAA–11, COMMERCE/PAT–TM–4, COMMERCE/PAT–TM–6, COMMERCE/PAT–TM–7, COMMERCE/PAT–TM–8, COMMERCE/PAT–TM–9, COMMERCE/DEPT–12, COMMERCE/DEPT–13, and COMMERCE/DEPT–14.

The Department hereby asserts a claim to exemption of such materials wherever they might appear in such systems of records, or any systems of records, at present or in the future. The materials would be exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), and (f). The reason therefor is to protect the materials required by Executive order to be kept secret in the interest of the national defense and foreign policy.

(b) The specific exemptions determined to be necessary and proper with respect to systems of records maintained by the Department, including the parts of each system to be exempted, the provisions of the Act from which they are exempted, and the justification for the exemption, are as follows:

(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1). The systems of records exempt hereunder appear in paragraph (a) of this section. The claims for exemption of COMMERCE/DEPT–12, COMMERCE/ITA–1, and COMMERCE/NOAA–11 under this paragraph are subject to the condition that the general exemption claimed in § 4b.13(b)(3) is held to be invalid.

(2) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). The systems of records exempt (some only conditionally), the sections of the Act from which exempted, and the reasons therefor are as follows:

(i) Individuals identified in Export Administration compliance proceedings or investigations—COMMERCE/ITA–1, but only on condition that the general exemption claimed in § 4b.13(b)(1) is held to be invalid;

(ii) Individuals involved in export transactions—COMMERCE/ITA–2;

(iii) Fisheries Law Enforcement Case Files—COMMERCE/NOAA–11, but only on condition that the general exemption claimed in § 4b.13(b)(2) is held to be invalid;

(iv) Investigative Records—Contract and Grant Frauds and Employee Criminal Misconduct—COMMERCE/DEPT–12, but only on condition that the general exemption claimed in § 4b.13(b)(3) is held to be invalid;

(v) Investigative Records—Persons Within the Investigative Jurisdiction of the Department—COMMERCE/DEPT–13;

(vi) Litigation, Claims and Administrative Proceeding Records—COMMERCE/DEPT–14; and, (vii) Non-Registered Persons Rendering Assistance to Patent Applicants—COMMERCE/PAT–TM–5.

The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), and (I), and (f). The reasons for asserting the exemption are to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the investigatory process, to insure the proper functioning and integrity of law enforcement activities, to prevent disclosure of investigative techniques, to maintain the ability to obtain necessary information, to fulfill commitments made to sources to protect their identities and the confidentiality of information and to avoid endangering these sources and law enforcement personnel. Special note is taken of the fact that the proviso clause in this exemption imports due process and procedural protections for the individual. The existence and general character of the information exempted will be made known to the individual to whom it pertains.

(3) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) (4). The systems of records exempt, the sections of the Act from which exempted, and the reasons therefor are as follows:

(i) Agricultural Census Records for 1964 (partial), 1969, and 1974—COMMERCE/CENSUS–1;

(ii) Individual and Household Statistical Surveys and Special Census Studies Records—COMMERCE/CENSUS–3;

(iii) Minority-Owned Business Enterprises Survey Records—COMMERCE/CENSUS–4;

(iv) Population and Housing Census Records for 1960 and 1970—COMMERCE/CENSUS–5;

(v) Population Census Personal Service Records for 1900 and All Subsequent Decennial Censuses—COMMERCE/CENSUS–6; and,

(vi) Special Censuses of Population Conducted for State and Local Government—COMMERCE/CENSUS–7.

The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G) (H), and (I), and (f). The reasons for asserting the exemption are to comply with the prescription of Title 13, United States Code, especially sections 8 and 9 relating to prohibitions against disclosure, and to avoid needless consideration of these records whose sole statistical use comports fully with a basic purpose of the Act, namely, no adverse determinations may be made from these records as to any identifiable individual.

(4) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5). The systems of records exempt (some only conditionally), the sections of the act from which exempted, and the reasons therefor are as follows:

(i) Applications to U.S. Merchant Marine Academy (USMMA)—COMMERCE/MA–1;

(ii) USMMA Midshipman Medical Files—COMMERCE/MA–17;

(iii) USMMA Midshipman Personnel Files—COMMERCE/MA–18;

(iv) USMMA Non-Appropriated fund Employees—COMMERCE/MA–19;

(v) Applicants for the NOAA Corps—COMMERCE/NOAA–4;

(vi) Commissioned Officer Official Personnel Folders—COMMERCE/NOAA–7;

(vii) Conflict of Interest Records, Appointed Officials—COMMERCE/DEPT–3;

(viii) Investigative Records—Contract and Grant Frauds and Employee Criminal Misconduct—COMMERCE/DEPT–12, but only on condition that the general exemption claimed in § 4b.13(b)(3) is held to be invalid;

(ix) Investigative Records—Persons Within the Investigative Jurisdiction of the Department—COMMERCE/DEPT–13; and,

(x) Litigation, Claims, and Administrative Proceeding Records—COMMERCE/DEPT–14.

The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), and (f). The reasons for asserting the exemption are to maintain the ability to obtain candid and necessary information, to fulfill commitments made to sources to protect the confidentiality of information, to avoid endangering these sources and, ultimately, to facilitate proper selection or continuance of the best applicants or persons for a given position or contract. Special note is made of the limitation on the extent to which this exemption may be asserted. The existence and general character of the information exempted will be made known to the individual to whom it pertains.

(c) At the present time, the Department claims no exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) (3), (6) and (7).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All DOE employees who apply as members of a carpool for DOE parking spaces managed and controlled by DOE under the general direction of the General Services Administration. Also, employees of DOE, of DOE contractors, and of nearby employers at the locations listed in Appendix A and the additional locations listed under "System Locations."

Categories of records in the system: Name; Federal service computation date; payroll or other assigned number; office address and telephone; home address and telephone; make, year, State of registration, and tag number of pool vehicles; and number of days per week in the carpool; and other carpooling information.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009; Federal Management Circular 1-74.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Dissemination to individuals seeking to join a carpool which operates from their residence area.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records and magnetic tape.

Retrievability: By name, location of parking assignment, home address, payroll or other assigned number, and license number.

Safeguards: Paper records are maintained in a lockable metal file cabinet. Magnetic tapes are stored in a restricted area. Access is limited to DOE and contractor personnel who need the information to perform their official duties.

Retention and disposal: Parking records are retained until new parking assignments are made (approximately six months). Carpool records are retained for two years.

System manager(s) and address: Headquarters (location 8 in Appendix A):

Director
Office of Administrative Services
U.S. Department of Energy
Washington, D.C. 20585

Field Offices: The managers and directors of field locations listed in Appendix A and additional locations listed under "System Locations."

Notification procedure:

a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address listed in Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record access procedures:

a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address listed in Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Contesting record procedures:

a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address among items 4, 8, 26, and 33 of Appendix A in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record source categories: The subject individual.

Record access procedures:

a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1 through 35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Contesting record procedures:

a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1 through 35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR, Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record source categories: The subject individual, complaints, witnesses, respondents, confidential sources, agency files and records, and official Federal, State, or local records.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Secretary has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (3)(4)(G), (H), (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a, the Privacy Act of 1974. This exemption applies only to information in this system of records which is exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) (1), (2) and (5).

DOE-55

System name: Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts Requests for Records.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: The locations listed in items 1 through 35 of Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals requesting copies of records from DOE under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act and under the Privacy Act of 1974.

Categories of records in the system: Name, address, and telephone number; description or identification of records requested, furnished, and/or denied; dates of request and response; amount of fees paid, if any; payment delinquencies, if any; final determinations of appeals or denials; and the names and titles of authorizing officials and officials responsible for denials.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Freedom of Information Act; Privacy Act of 1974; 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Annual report to the Congress under section (d) of the Freedom of Information Act. Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

These records are available for public inspection at all times.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records.

Retrievability: By name of requester.

Safeguards: Records are located in lockable metal file cabinets with access limited to those whose official duties require access. However, records are at all times available for public inspection.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained in accordance with DOE's record disposal schedule.

System manager(s) and address: For each of the locations listed above:

Director
FOI and Privacy Acts Activities
Washington, D.C. 20585

Notification procedure:

a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address from among items 1-35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record access procedures:

a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1-35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Contesting record procedures:

a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1-35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record source categories: The subject individual.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-56

System name: Congressional Constituent Inquiries.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: The locations listed in items 1 through 35 of Appendix A and the following additional location:

Grand Junction Office
P.O. Box 2567
Grand Junction, Colorado 81501

Pittsburgh Naval Reactors Office
P.O. Box 109
West Mifflin, Pennsylvania 15122

Schenectady Naval Reactors Office
P.O. Box 1069
Schenectady, New York 12301

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals on whose behalf there have been Congressional inquiries and members of Congress making requests on behalf of their constituents.

Categories of records in the system: Name, address of constituent and date of letter by a Senator or member of Congress on behalf of the constituent; materials forwarded by a member of Congress; and DOE response.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; 44 U.S.C. 3101; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The records are used to record Congressional inquiries on behalf of constituents, to ensure proper document control of the response, and to reference DOE responses to such inquiries.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records.

Retrievability: By name of constituent and name of member of Congress.

Safeguards: Records are located in lockable metal file cabinets in secured rooms or secured premises with access limited to those whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal: The records are retained in accordance with DOE's records disposition schedule.

System manager(s) and address: The head of each office which maintains such records.

Notification procedure:

a. Requests by an individual to detemine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address from among items 1 through 35 of Appendix A and the Pittsburgh Naval Reactors and Schenectady Naval Reactors Offices listed above under system location, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals communicating by letter with DOE.

Categories of records in the system: Name, address of correspondent, and copies of the agency response.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; 44 U.S.C. 3101; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The records are used by DOE personnel to record written communications from correspondents outside of DOE, to ensure proper document control of the DOE response, and as a reference for such response.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records.

Retrievability: By name.

Safeguards: Records are located in lockable metal file cabinets in secured rooms with access limited to those whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained in accordance with DOE's records disposition schedule.

System manager(s) and address: The head of each office which maintains such records.

Notification procedure:

a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address from among items 1 through 35 of Appendix A and the Pittsburgh Naval Reactors and Schenectady Naval Reactors Offices listed above under system location, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information. Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such records may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record access procedures:

a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1 through 35 of Appendix A and the Pittsburgh Naval Reactors and Schenectady Naval Reactors Offices listed above under system location, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information. Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such records may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Contesting record procedures:

a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate items from among items 1 through 35 of Appendix A and the Pittsburgh Naval Reactors and Schenectady Naval Reactors Offices listed above under system location, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 706.6, and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record source categories: Subject individuals and drafter of DOE response.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-59

System name: Mailing Lists for Requesters of Energy Related Information.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: The locations listed as items 1 through 35 in Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons requesting energy-related information.

Categories of records in the system: Each of DOE's mailing lists contains the name and address of the subject individual.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The records are released to contractors handling bulk and single copy mailings for DOE. Names and addresses of such contactors may be requested from the appropriate System Manager.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records, punched cards, magnetic tape and disk, and microfiche.

Retrievability: Records are retrieved by record identification code number; by type of information being disseminated (e.g., solar, nuclear, etc.); or by the occupation, profession, or other stated interest of an individual.

Safeguards: Access is limited to employees with a need to know in the performance of their duties. Records are maintained in buildings with controlled access. Computer information is controlled through established DOE computer center procedures of personnel screening and physical security.

Retention and disposal: The lists are continually updated.

System manager(s) and address:

Headquarters (location 8 in Appendix A):

Director
Office of Administrative Services
Washington, D.C. 20585

The managers and directors of field location 1 through 7 and 9 through 35 in Appendix A are System Managers for their respective portions of this system.

Notification procedure:

a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the appropriate address from among items 1-35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) or organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record access procedures:

a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1-35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) or organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Contesting record procedures:

a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, at the address listed in the appropriate item from among items 1-35 of Appendix A, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information: Complete name, the geographic location(s) or organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record source categories: The subject individual, generally as the result of a request for information by such individual.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-60

System name: Environmental Impact Document Monitoring, Processing and Correspondence Tracking System (IMPACT).

Security classification: Unclassified.

Headquarters Washington, D.C. 20585

Categories of individuals covered by the system: State and local officials having responsibilities on environmental matters, Federal Government National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) coordinators, persons affiliated with public interest groups and associations, persons affiliated with congressional delegations, and other persons who have expressed interest in specific environmental matters associated with DOE activities, by participating in the NEPA comment process.

Categories of records in the system: Name, address, and population segment code for each correspondent; copies of corre spondence and/or hearing submissions; and identification of subject or geographic area of interest. In addition, there is nonpersonal information regarding the status and history of NEPA-related documents.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009; National Environmental Policy Act; Council on Environmenal Quality guidelines.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Government agencies with NEPA responsibilities, when necessary for their participation in the DOE NEPA process Parties (and representatives of parties) engaged in litigation involving the DOE NEPA program—where relevant to issues in litigation.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnegtic disk with tape backup.

Retrievability: Name of individual, address, population segment, and/or subject of interest. Retrieval is also possible by date and nature of correspondence.

Safeguards: The system is maintained in a building with controlled access and on computer facilities with controlled entry and access. Access to the records is limited to those employees of the Office of NEPA Affairs specified by the system manager.

Retention and disposal: Retention and disposal of records in this system are based upon the following:

(1) If an individual on his/her own inititive request removal from the mailing list, his/her file will be so marked and will receive no further correspondence. That file will then be considered to be inactive. However, if such an individual has corresponded on an environmental matter which is still active, such records will be retained in active storage until the cases on those statements are closed, at which time the records will be removed to inactive storage.

(2) Once each year, each subject individual will receive a form by which to express current interests. If an individual does not respond within 60 days, that person's records will be retained or deleted based upon whether or not there is any correspondence on a currently active matter, as in (1) above.

System manager(s) and address:

Director
Office of NEPA Affairs
Washington, D.C. 20545

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Contesting record procedures: Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Record source categories: The subject individual.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-61

System name: Census of High Energy Physicists.

System location: Location 8 as listed in Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Scientists and graduate students in the field of high energy physics.

Categories of records in the system: Name, date of birth, education, employment history, research support agencies, technical specialities.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Physicists, research organizations and various Government organizations engaged in physics research—to obtain information on individuals and organizations engaged in high energy physics research.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape.

Retrievability: By name, employer, or any other combination of data.

Safeguards: Access is limited to Division of High Energy and Nuclear Physics personnel. Records are maintained in locked file cabinet in secured building.

Retention and disposal: Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in DOE Order 1324.1, "Records Disposition." Records within the DOE are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Selected senior staff officials of the Manhattan Project, Atomic Energy Commission, Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Energy Research and Development Administration, DOE, and other selected individuals prominent in the energy field.

Categories of records in the system: Newspaper and magazine articles, press releases, announcements, and speeches.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Records are used (1) to prepare histories, (2) in responding to informational inquiries from members of the public including the media, and (3) in responding to requests from DOE officials.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records.

Retrievability: By name.

Safeguards: Records are maintained in a locked vault with access dependent upon the permission of the Historian's Office.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained indefinitely with no plans for their disposal.

System manager(s) and address:

Chief Historian
Historian's Office

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Contesting record procedures: Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Record source categories: DOE press releases, DOE NewsClips (a daily compilation of energy-related newspaper and magazine articles), and other published sources.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-63

System name: Electric Rate Demonstration Data Base.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: As broken out by project, the records are located at the following participating agencies and utilities:

Arizona—Solar Research Commission, Arizona Public Service Company.

Arkansas—Public Service Commission, Arkansas Power & Light Company.

California—Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission and Public Utilities Commission, Pacific Gas & Electric Company, San Diego Gas & Electric Company, Southern California Edison Company, Sacramento Municipal Utility District.

Connecticut—Public Utilities Commission, Connecticut Light and Power Company.

New Jersey—State Energy Office, Jersey Central Power & Light Company.

New York—Public Service Commission, Consolidated Edison.

North Carolina—Utilities Commission, Carolina Power & Light Company, Blue Ridge Electric Membership Corporation.

Ohio—Public Utilities Commission, Dayton Power & Light Company, Toledo Edison Company, Buckeye Power Company.

Rhode Island—Public Utilities Commission, Blackstone Valley Electric Company.

Vermont—Public Service Board, Green Mountain Power Company.

Washington—State Energy Office, Seattle City Light (Department of Lighting, City of Seattle), Clark County Public Utilities District, Puget Sound Power & Light Company.

Wisconsin—Public Service Commission, Wisconsin Public Service Corporation.

Puerto Rico—Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Puerto Rico Water Resources Authority.

Edmond, Oklahoma—City of Edmond, Edmond Municipal Electric Company.

Los Angeles—City of Los Angeles, Los Angeles Department of Water & Power.

For the DOE Headquarters, the location of the records is:

Optimum Systems, Inc.
5615 Fishers Lane
Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All consumers of electricity participating in DOE-sponsored rate demonstration projects.

Categories of records in the system: Consumer identification number, rate code, historical data on past year's energy consumption, hourly current electrical consumption, household information (including age distribution and income), dwelling characteristics, fuel use information, water heating characteristics, and appliance inventory. The records maintained by the DOE, the parent companies of the participating utilities, and the Electric Power Research Institute will not contain name or other identifying particulars (see discussion under routine uses).

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The participating utilities will use the records maintained for the following purposes: Measurement of price elasticity under various nontraditional rate forms, correlation of demographic characteristics with demand and usage patterns, analysis of shifts in usage patterns under various rate forms and at different times of day and seasons of the year, and determination of changes in load and capacity factors attributable to experimental rates and/or load management techniques.

The records maintained by the participating utilities will also be made available to the participating utilities' parent companies, the sponsoring State and local agencies, the DOE, and the Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI), so that these parties can do analyses of the data similar to those contemplated by the utilities. As previously noted under categories of records maintained, the records made available to the participating utilities' parent companies, the DOE and to EPRI will not contain name or other identifying particulars.

The sponsoring State and local agencies will also use the records to deal with any complaints brought by participating consumers of electricity.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Machine readable records.

Retrievability: By any data element (except by name for the participating utilities' parent companies, EPRI, and DOE Headquarters records).

Safeguards: The contracts with the utilities stipulate that the utilities will exercise all diligence in controlling access to their computer facilities and that only authorized members of the project team and other routine users will be allowed to use the data.

At the DOE, physical, technical, and administrative security is maintained with all storage areas locked when not in use. Admittance, when open, is restricted to authorized personnel only. All personnel that handle or process the data are instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition. Remote terminal users need special access code.

Retention and disposal: At the participating utilities and the EPRI, three years after the completion of the test on the utility's system.

At the DOE Headquarters, records will be destroyed within two years of completion of the last project.

For the records at the DOE:

Division of Regulatory Assistance Office of Utility Systems
Economic Regulatory Administration U.S. Department of Energy 2000 M Street, NW. Washington, D.C. 20461

Notification procedure:

a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, DC 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information. Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record access procedures:

a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information. Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Contesting record procedures:

a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, and 708.7, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

b. Required identifying information. Complete name, the geographic location(s) and organization(s) where requester believes such record may be located, date of birth, and time period.

Record source categories: The subject individual and those authorized by the individual to furnish information.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-64

System name: Low-Income Weatherization Program Home Report Records.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: For each State participating in this program, the records will be located in the community action agency designated by the State to implement the program. A list of participating States and community action agencies is available from the Director, Office of Weatherization Assistance, Office of Conservation and Solar Applications, Washington, D.C. 20585.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All persons eligible for weatherization assistance participating in Department of Energy-sponsored weatherization programs.

Categories of records in the system: Information about weatherization program participants, including name, address, annual income; whether participant receives public assistance; whether the participant owns or rents; and number of elderly, handicapped, native American, migrants and total members in a participant's household; information about the characteristics of a participant's dwelling, including fuel use data; before and after information about improvements to the dwelling to be undertaken in connection with the program and information about the costs of such improvements; information about the hours and source of labor involved in making the improvements.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The participating community action agencies will use the records maintained for the following purposes: determination of whether and which improvements should be undertaken; determination of correlation of the demographic and building characteristics to the quantity, quality, and cost of the work undertaken to enable the Department of Energy to monitor the effectiveness of the program.

The Department of Energy will use the record for the following purposes: to assure the effective provisions of weatherization assistance for the dwelling units of low-income persons; to carry out periodic evaluations of the program.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records.

Retrievability: By name.

Safeguards: The contracts with the community action agencies stipulate that the community action agencies will exercise all diligence in controlling access to the records maintained under this program and that only authorized members of the community action agency and other routine users will be allowed to use the data. All personnel that handle or process the data are to be instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition.

Retention and disposal: Records will be retained for three years or until the completion of the low-income weatherization program.

System manager(s) and address: For each Stae participating in the program, the System Manager will be the head of the community action agency designated by the State to implement the program. A list of participating States and community action agencies is available from:

DOE-65

System name: Energy Extension Service Records.

Subsystem A: Energy Extension Service Client Names.
Subsystem B: Energy Extension Service—Listing of State EES. Employees, Contractors, and Volunteers.

Security classification:

Subsytems A and B:
Unclassified.

System location:

Subsystem A: For each State or Territory participating in this program, the records will be located in the office(s) designated by the State or Territory to implement the program. A list of participating States and Territories and the corresponding offices implementing the program is available from the Evaluation Coordinator, Energy Extension Service, Office of Conservation and Solar Applications, Washington, D.C. 20585.

Subsystem B: Office of the Evaluation Coordinator, Energy Extension Service, Office of Conservation and Solar Applications.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Subsystem A: State Energy Extension Service employees, contractors, and volunteers participating in the pilot projects implementing the Energy Extension Service program.

Categories of records in the system:

Subsystem A: Names, addresses, telephone numbers.
Subsystem B: Names, addresses, telephone numbers, project roles.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Subsystems A and B: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009; National Energy Extension Service Act (Title V of the Energy Research and Development Administration Authorization Act of 1977).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Subsystem A:

States: Uses the records for the administration of the subject programs. Also will, in some cases, use the DOE evaluations derived from the records (described immediately below) for evaluation and administration of the subject programs.

DOE: Client names, addresses, and telephone numbers will be used to select a sample for a telephone survey of users of the Energy Extension Service. The survey will provide information on client evaluation of the service and on energy conserving activities which clients may have taken as a result of the availability of the service. The prime contractor for the survey is ICF, Inc., which will receive the requisite records from the State EES's and, in turn, make them available to Westat, Inc., the subcontractor which will actually perform the evaluation. DOE will receive only information which is distinguishable between persons, but which is not identifiable to specific persons. However, DOE anticipates that it will retain the capability to disclose to a participating State not only the evaluation but also the corresponding client identities for clients of that particular State.

Subsystem B:

DOE: Uses the records to evaluate the implementation of the program by participating States and Territories.

Subsystems A and B: The additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Subsystems A and B: Paper records.

Retrievability: Subsystems A and B: Name.

Safeguards:

Subsystem A: The agreements with the States stipulate that the offices maintaining the records will exercise all diligence in controlling access to them with only authorized personnel and routine users allowed access. All personnel who handle or process these records are instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition.

Subsystem B: Records are retained in lockable metal file cabinets with access limited to authorized personnel on a need-to-know basis.

Retention and disposal:

Subsystem A: The records will be retained as long as they are useful in implementing the program.

Subsystem B: The records will be retained only for the time necessary to evaluate the States' implementation of the Energy Extension Service pilot projects.

Subsystem B: EIA-84 Survey Reports (National Interim Energy Consumption Survey).

Subsystem C: EIA-141 Survey Reports (Pretest of Transportation Panel).

Subsystem D: EIA-178 Survey Reports (Pacific Northwest Residential Energy Survey).

Subsystem E: Hanford Clinical Epidemiologic Studies

Security classification:

Subsystems, A, B, C and D: Unclassified.

System location: Generally: Portions of the system may be located with contractors or other entities involved in conducting the experiments, studies or surveys, or in any DOE office. A complete listing of the location of all subsystems of this system is available from the Director, Division of FOI and Privacy Act Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585.

Subsystem A:

Office of Oil and Gas Information System
Forrestal Building, Room 2E-076
1000 Independence Avenue, SW.
Washington, D.C. 20585

650 California Street
San Francisco, California 94108

Subsystem E:
Hanford Environmental Health Foundation
Post Office Box 100
Richland, Washington, 99352.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Generally: Individuals who are participants in experiments, studies, and surveys undertaken in furtherance of authorized DOE research activities.

Subsystem A: Natural person (as opposed to business) respondents to the Form EIA-23, Annual Survey of Domestic Oil and Gas Reserves.

Subsystem B: Persons responding to the Form EIA-84, National Interim Energy Consumption Survey.

Subsystem C: Persons responding to the Form EIA-141, Pretest of Transportation Panel.

Subsystem D: Persons responding to the Form EIA-178, Pacific Northwest Residential Energy Survey.

Subsytem E: All present and former Department of Energy (DOE) and DOE contractor Richland Operations employees, their spouses, and offspring, and selected controls.

Categories of records in the system: Generally: Name, age, birth date, place of birth, sex, race, home address and telephone number, business address and telephone number, education, income, occupation, family size and composition, patterns of product use, and such other information as is necessary, to be determined by the subject matter and purpose of the experiment, study or survey, including data derived from participants' responses during the course of the authorized research.

Subsystem A: Name, address and telephone number, social security number, reserves, and production data.

Subsystems B, C and D: Name, age, birth date, sex, home address and telephone number, education, income, occupation, family size and composition, characteristics of housing unit, patterns of energy consumption.

Subsystem E: This system consists of a variety of records pertinent to the health status of individuals and their families: medical history; reproductive history; birth records; developmental history; occupational history and work environment; demographic information; and selected items such as smoking habits, alcohol use, family medical history, and location of residence.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Generally, including authority for establishment of system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Subsystem A data collection authority: Section 13(b) of the Federal Energy Administration Act of 1974.

Subsystems B and C data collection authority: Section 52 of the Federal Energy Administration Act of 1974.

Subsystem D data collection authority: Section 2(f) of the Bonneville Project Act of 1937.

Subsystem E:Section 161(i)(3), Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, 42 USC 2201(i)(3) (1976); Section 301, Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Generally and Subsystems A, B, C and D: Information in this system may, on occasion, be disclosed to Federal agencies and other entities which are participating in research in connection with which the data were obtained. Information in the possession of the Energy Information Administration must be disclosed, upon request, to any DOE office which determines the information relates to its functions.

Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Subsystems B, C and D: In addition to the above, it should be noted that the DOE, as a routine user of these records, receives from its contractors, Response Analysis and Elrick and Lavidge, only records which do not admit of identification of the individual respondents.

Subsystem E: a. Disclosure may be made to DOE contractors and collaborating researchers and their staff for the purposes of determining influences of the workplace, and other factors, on the health of workers and their families. The contractor and/or collaborating researchers and their staff shall be required to maintain Privacy Act Safeguards with respect to such records.

b. Portions of records (name, social security number if known, date of birth and last known address) may be disclosed to one or more of the following to obtain a current address for the individual: Federal, state, and local agencies; employers; retail credit associations; commercial tracing firms; trade unions; and relatives and associates. The purpose of obtaining the address is so that the individual can be contacted and asked to provide additional research information.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Generally: Paper records in file folders, electromagnetic storage material, and microform.

Subsystem A: Paper records, microfiche, disk, and tape.

Subsystems B and C: Paper records.

Subsystem D: Magnetic tape.

Subsystem E: Paper records, computer printouts, index cards, microfilm and disc.

Retrievability: Generally: Filed alphabetically by name, control number, or other code identifier.

Subsystem A: Retrievable by any data element.

Subsystems B, C and D: By name, identification number, and geographic location.

Subsystem E: By name, alphanumeric code, and social security number.

Safeguards: Generally: During business hours the records at DOE sites are maintained in secured buildings with access limited to those whose official duties require access; during nonbusiness hours, the records are in secured rooms with access controlled by security guards. Any records maintained by other entities will be maintained in a similar fashion in accordance with DOE specifications.

Subsystem A: The contract with the University of Oklahoma stipulates that it will exercise all diligence in controlling access to the records maintained under the program and that only authorized members of the contractor, DOE, and routine users will be allowed to use the data. All personnel that handle or process the data are instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition.

Subsystems B, C and D: The contracts with Response Analysis and Elrick and Lavidge stipulates that it will exercise all diligence in controlling access to the records maintained under the program and that only authorized members of Response Analysis, Elrick and Lavidge, DOE, and routine users will be allowed to use the data. All personnel that handle or process the data are instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition.

In addition, the records DOE receives do not admit of identification of the individual respondents.

Subsystem E: Records are maintained in locked file cabinets, in secured buildings. Access is limited to individuals having a need to know.

Retention and disposal: Generally: Retained in accordance with DOE's records control schedule.

Subsystem A: It is intended that the records will be maintained indefinitely.

Subsystems B and C: It is expected that these records will be destroyed approximately 9 months after the data is obtained.

Subsystem D: It is expected that records which identify the individual households will be destroyed approximately 3 months after the data is collected.

Subsystem E: Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in DOE Order 1324.1, "Records Disposition." Records within DOE are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address: Generally: The designated person in each office conducting the relevant experiment, study, or survey. A listing of these persons is available from the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585.

Subsystems A, B, C and D:

Administrator, Energy Information Administration (or designee)
U.S. Department of Energy
Federal Building, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW.
Washington, D.C. 20461

Subsystem E:

Manager, Richland Operations Office,
P.O. Box 550,
Richland, Washington 99352.

Notification procedure: Generally and Subsystems A, B, C and D: Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Subsystem E: a. Requests by an individual to determine if the system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to:

Director, FOI & Privacy Acts Activities,
Department of Energy,
Richland Operations Office,
P.O. Box 550,
Richland, Washington 99352.

b. Required identifying information:
i. Complete name at the time of the study.
ii. Birthdate.
iii. Social security number.
iv. Current name, address and telephone number.

Record access procedures: Generally and Subsystems A, B, C and D: Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Subsystem E: Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the DIRECTOR, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities at the above address.

Required identifying information is complete name at the time of the study, birthdate, social security number, current name, address and telephone number.

Contesting record procedures: Generally and Subsystems A, B, C and D: Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6 and 708.7, FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR, Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Subsystem E: Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him/her should be directed to the address given above. The information required under notification procedures must be included as well as the record and information to be contested.

Record source categories: Generally: The subject individuals and those authorized by the individuals to furnish information.

Subsystem A: The subject individual.

Subsystems B, C and D: The subject individual and utility companies authorized by the individual to disclose consumption and billing information.

Subsystem E: The individual who is the subject of the record; family members; physicians; medical institutions; federal, state, and local agencies; occupational and employment records.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: Generally and Subsystems A, B, and C: None.

Subsystem E:None.

DOE-68

System name: Minority Energy Technical Assistance Program (METAP) Records.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: For the Department of Energy, records are located at:

Office of Special Projects
Office of Conservation and Solar Applications
Washington, D.C. 20585

For the Center for Urban Environmental Studies (CUES), records are located at:

Center for Urban Environmental Studies
1012 14th Street, NW.
Washington, D.C.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Selected elected officials.

Categories of records in the system: Name, position, sources of energy information, perception of needs of constitutents for energy information.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

CUES: Records are used to construct training programs for the DOE. Additional routine uses as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: At DOE, computer medium records. At CUES, paper records.

Retrievability: By name and Federal region.

Safeguards: At DOE, records are maintained in a locked facility, with access limited to authorized personnel on a need-to-know basis.

At CUES, the grant agreement with CUES stipulates that CUES will exercise all diligence in controlling access to the records maintained under this program and that only authorized members of CUES, DOE, and routine users will be allowed to use the data. All personnel that handle or process the data are to be instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition.

System manager(s) and address:

Assistant Secretary for Conservation and Solar Applications (or designee)
Washington, D.C. 20585

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE will determine whether 10 CFR Part 206 or Part 708 should apply.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Director, FOI and Privacy Acts Activities, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20585, in accordance with DOE's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975) or 10 CFR 708.6, 40 FR 7320 (February 19, 1975)). DOE 69

System name: Residential Solar Water Heating Workshops Pilot Program Records.

System location: Bonneville Power Administration, Division of Conservation, P.O. Box 3621, Portland, Oregon 97208; and utilities that may participate in the program.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who have requested participation in the Residential Solar Water Heating Workshops Pilot Program and who meet the homeowner eligibility criteria agreed upon by BPA and by participating utilities.

Categories of records in the system: Information about a participant's household hot water consumption prior to installation of a solar hot water heating system, electric energy consumption for water heating, family size, siting and orientation of house, roof area available for solar collectors, hours of daily sunlight on the roof top year round, extent of shading by nearby buildings or vegetation, storage area for water tank(s), structural aspects relating to solar system installation, and data about the performance of the water heating system after installation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Bonneville Project Act of 1937, 16 U.S.C. Chapter 12B (1976), as amended by the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C Section 825s), and the Federal Columbia River Transmission Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. Chapter 838).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Information will be maintained by the utility and will be used (1) to assess the electric energy displacement for water heating by the solar system; (2) to evaluate the performance of several types of solar water heating systems, under varying seasonal and climatic conditions; (3) to assess the potential regional impact of solar energy used for water heating; (4) to determine eligibility of participants for BPA rebates; and (5) to evaluate the performance of owner-built solar water heating systems.

BPA will use this information in statistical form to (1) evaluate the overall effectiveness of the program, and (2) to provide a public data base which will be used to plan and analyze appropriate conservation measures for residents of the Pacific Northwest.

The utility will make information available (1) to Federal, State, and local agencies and organizations with an interest in solar development in the region, and (2) to BPA for audit and program evaluation purposes.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained (1) on paper in file folders, and (2) on computer tape.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by a utility account number assigned to each utility customer.

Safeguards: Access to and use of these records is limited to those persons who official duties require such access. All files are locked when unattended.

Retention and disposal: A records retention and disposal will be developed and issued consistent with Order 1324.1, Records Disposition.

System manager(s) and address: Walter E. Pollock, Acting Director, Division of Conservation, Bonneville Power Administration, P.O. 3621, Portland, Oregon 97208, (503) 234-3361 Ext. 4082.

Notification procedure: Individuals about whom information is maintained in this system of records are aware of that fact through participation in the program. However, inquiries may be addressed to the System Manager named above. Requests should include the individual's full name and address.

Record access procedures: Requests for access may be directed to the System Manager named above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in this system should direct their request to the System Manager named above.

Record source categories: The information in this system is solicited from the individual to who the record pertains. Information about homes will be gathered by representatives of the utilities based on an examination of the home conducted in cooperation with the customer.

DOE-70

System name: Electricity Use and Conservation Analysis Records.

System location: Bonneville Power Administration, Conservation Section, P.O. Box 3621, Portland, OR 97208; and utilities that may be participating in the program and announced here annually.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who have requested participation in the Residential Conservation Program.

Categories of records in the system: Information about a person's household energy consumption, family size, characteristics of his/her dwelling, including heating and cooling systems; structural aspects related to thermal efficiency, and other characteristics which affect patterns of residential energy consumption.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Bonneville Project Act of 1937, 16 U.S.C. Chapter 12B (1976), as amended by the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. 825s) and the Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. Ch. 838).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Information will be maintained by the utility and wil be used (1) to evaluate various energy-saving opportunities in the home; (2) to calculate energy and financial savings which could result from weatherization improvements in the home; (3) to make recommendations concerning weatherization improvements in the home; (4) to determine eligibility for DOE weatherization financing; and (5) to provide a record of weatherization improvements and household energy efficiency to subsequent owners of the home.

DOE (Bonneville Power Administration) will use this information in aggregated statistical form, without identifiers, to (1) evaluate the overall effectiveness of the program through statistical analysis, (2) provide a public data base which will be used to plan and analyze appropriate conservation measures for residents of the Pacific Northwest.

The utility will make information available (1) to building contractors for use in preparing and submitting bids for the performance of weatherization work; (2) DOE for audit and program evaluation purposes. The information provided to DOE will include a unique utility company account number for each customer, but not the customers' names and addresses; without the latter information, the customers' identities will not be traceable by DOE.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained (1) on paper and stored in file folders, and (2) on computer tape without individuals' names and addresses. As noted above, under Routines, uses, the customers' unique billing account numbers will be in the file but not traceable to individual customers.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by a utility account number assigned to each utility customer.

Safeguards: Access to and use of individually identifiable records are limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. All files are locked when unattended. Names and addresses of individuals will not be disclosed to DOE.

Retention and disposal: A records retention and disposal authorization will be developed and issued in the effective edition of DOE Order 1324.1, Records Disposition.

System manager(s) and address: Walter E. Pollock, Head, Energy Conservation Section, Bonneville Power Administration, P.O. Box 3621, Portland, OR 97208, (503) 234-3361 Ext. 4082.

Notification procedure: Individuals about whom information is maintained in this system of records are aware of that fact through participation in the program. However, inquiries may be addresses to the System Manager named above. Requests should include the individual's full name and address.

Record access procedures: Requests for access may be directed to the System Manager named above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information about them maintained in this system should direct their request to the System Manager named above.

Record source categories: The information in this system is solicited from the individual to whom the record pertains. Information about homes will be gathered by representatives of the utilities based on an examination of the home conducted in cooperation with the customer.

DOE-71

System name: The Radiation Accident Registry.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: Oak Ridge Operations Office, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: 1. Those persons accidentally exposed to acute doses of ionizing radiation as defined by exposure dose criteria agreed to by the Department of Energy and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission by an interagency agreement. The dose criteria established by this agreement include one or more of the following: (a) Greater than or equal to 25 REM (Roentgen Equivalent Man) to the whole body, active blood-forming organs or gonads; (b) greater than or equal to 600 REM to skin of whole body or extremities; (c) greater than or equal to 75 REM to other tissues or organs from an external source; (d) greater than or equal to ¼ NCRP maximum permissible organ burden internally; all those medical misadministrations of radioisotopes that result in a dose or organ burden equal to or greater than those given above.

2. Those individuals known to have been involved in an event in which one or more other persons received a dose equal to or in excess of the DOE/NRC criteria but whose personal dose was less than these criteria. The histories of these individuals contribute control population data.

Categories of records in the system: 1. Official accident reports including reports of those accidents that ahve occurred within the jurisdiction of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and which have been transferred to the Department of Energy for the Accident Registry according to the Department of Energy/Nuclear Regulatory Commission agreement.

2. Names, addresses, social security numbers or other identifiers, and vital status information such as age, sex, race, etc.

3. Original or copied medical records compiled at the time of the accident. Such records include physician and hospital records, diagnostic and laboratory test reports, radiographs, EKGs, etc., and radiation exposure reports.

4. Original or copies of medical records of illnesses, examinations, including routine follow-up exams, investigations, etc., that have occurred since the radiation exposure.

5. Photographs or facsimiles of radiation-induced injuries.

6. Search and contact information for registrants as yet not identified and/or located.

7. Consent to release information forms completed by registrants.

8. Death certificates (copies).

9. Anecdotal information.

10. Correspondence relating to the accident and/or the individuals involved; originals and copies.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: 1. To provide a current record of radiation accidents for use by the Department of Energy, and its contractors and consultants.

2. To identify specific populations for use in epidemiological and clinical studies.

3. To conduct medical surveillance during the lifetime of the registrants.

4. Additional uses 4, 8, 9, 10, as listed in Appendix B to the Department of Energy publication of systems of records, 45 FR 51125, 8/30/79.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records, computer tapes, computer printouts, punched cards, discs, magnetic tape and microfilm.

Retrievability: By name and social security number.

Safeguards: Records are maintained in locked security areas in locked file cabinets. Access is limited to individuals whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal:

Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in the DOE Order 1324.1, "Records Disposition." Records within the Department of Energy are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address: The Manager of the Oak Ridge Operations Office is the System Manager.

Notification procedure: a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

b. Required identifying information: Name, social security number, and time period.

Record access procedures: a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

b. Required identifying information: Name, social security number, and time period.

Record source categories: The individual, medical records, physicians, medical institutions, and reports of incident/accident investigations from private and public sources, radiation dosimetry records, security clearance records and employment records.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE–72

System name: The Department of Energy Radiation Study Registry.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: Oak Ridge Operations Office, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Registrants are those present and former employees of contractors of the Department of Energy and its predecessor organizations including the Manhattan District, USAEC, and ERDA, and present and former civilian employees in the Department of Energy Naval Reactor Program who received a whole body exposure of ionizing radiation equal to or in excess of 5 REM in any one calendar year.

Categories of records in the system: 1. Rosters of names of individuals meeting the above criteria for inclusion in the Registry submitted through the Department of Energy field operation offices from Department of Energy-owned and operated facilities and sites. In addition to names of such individuals, these rosters include social security number or other identifying information, sex, race, date of birth, date and/or place of death, first date of hire, last date of termination, continuity of hire, year in which they received first dose, greater than or equal to 5 REM, actual radiation dose in excess of 5 REM, total career radiation esposure dose.

2. Original or copied lifetime medical records from plant and private physicians and hospitals including routing physical examinations, reports of diagnostic and laboratory tests, radiographs, EKGS, etc., or abstracted portions of such records as are required for the purposes of the study.

3. Search and contact information for registrants who are no longer employed at qualified sites or who are deceased.

4. Death Certificates.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: 1. To provide a current record of registrants for use by Department of Energy, and its contractors and consultants.

2. To identify specific populations for use in epidemiological and clinical studies.

3. To conduct medical surveillance during the lifetime of the registrants.

4. Additional uses 4, 8, 9, 10, as listed in Appendix B to the Department of Energy publication of systems of records, 45 FR 51125, 8/30/79.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records, computer tapes, computer printouts, punched cards, dics, magnetic tape and microfilm.

Retrievability: By name and social security number.

Safeguards: Records are maintained in locked security areas in locked file cabinets. Access is limited to individuals whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal: Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in the DOE Order 1324.1, "Records Disposition." Records within the Department of Energy are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address: The Manager of the Oak Ridge Operations Office is the System Manager.

Notification procedure: a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

b. Required identifying information: Name, social security number, and time period.

Record access procedures: a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

b. Required identifying information: Name, social security number, and time period.

Record source categories: The individual, medical records, physicians, medical institutions, and reports of incident/accident investigations from private and public sources, radiation dosimetry records, security clearance records and employment records

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE–73

System name: The US-DTPA Registry.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: Oak Ridge Operations Office, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Registrants are those individuals who, because of real or suspected internal contamination with transuranic elements, have received diethylenetriaminepentaacetic acid (DTPA), in the calcium or zinc form during the course of chelation therapy. Administration of the agent DTPA is limited to physicians who are co-investigators with the Department of Energy contractor staff on the Investigative New Drug License of the Food and Drug Administration.

Categories of records in the system: 1. The records compiled by the physician administering DTPA in the event of an exposure that was known to have or was suspected of having caused transuranic contamination internally requiring chelation therapy with DTPA. These records include a description of the exposure, the results of serial bioassays and investigations conducted to evaluate the level of internal contamination and the efficacy of subsequent chelation by DTPA. The form of DTPA and the route and frequency of administration are recorded together with an untoward effects of the therapy.

2. Names, social security numbers or other identifiers and vital status of treated persons. The last known addresses and the names of the private physicians of individuals who have relocated or who are no longer within the practice of the administering physician(s) are included in the DTPA Registry to facilitate the search and contact of these individuals.

3. Original or copies of medical records of illnesses, examinations, including routine followup examinations, investigations, etc., that have occurred since the initial administration of DTPA.

4. Death certification.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301: Department of Energy Organization Act, including authorities incorporated by reference in Title III of the Department of Energy Organization Act; Executive Order 12009.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: 1. To provide a current record of individuals treated with DTPA for use by the Department of Energy and its contractors and consultants.

2. To identify by epidemiological methods any long-term untoward effects associated with DTPA therapy.

3. To provide information to FDA in accord with the I.N.D. license and issuances.

4. Additional uses 4, 8, 9, 10, as listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records, computer tapes, computer printouts, punched cards, discs, magnetic tape and microfilm.

Retrievability: By name and social security number.

Safeguards: Records are maintained in locked security areas in locked file cabinets. Access is limited to individuals whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal: Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in the DOE Order 1324.1, "Records Disposition." Records within the Department of Energy are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address: The Manager of the Oak Ridge Operations Office is the System Manager.

Notification procedure: a. Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

b. Required identifying information: Name, social security number, and time period.

Record access procedures: a. Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

b. Required identifying information: Name, social security number, and time period.

Contesting record procedures: a. Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him or her should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Department of Energy, P.O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830 in accordance with the Department of Energy's Privacy Act regulations (10 CFR Part 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980).

Record source categories: The individual, medical records, physicians, medical institutions, and reports of incident/accident investigations from private and public sources, radiation dosimetry records, security clearance records and employment records.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

DOE-74

System name: Bonneville Power Administration Conservation Program

System location: Bonneville Power Administration, Division of Conservation, P.O. Box 3621, Portland, Oregon 97208; and utilities or other entities which may participate in the program.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any participant in a Bonneville conservation program will be included in the system of records. For example, participants include but are not limited to, residential consumers, commercial consumers, contractors, utility personnel, and personnel of other implementing entities.

Categories of records in the system: Information about individual energy consumption including names, addresses and other demographic data; characteristics of buildings; characteristics about natural phenomenon (such as wind, sunlight, geothermal activity, etc.); structural aspects related to thermal efficiency; information as to type, location, and number of installed measures; performance data; information relating to BPA financial assistance to consumers; and information as to auditor/analyst training.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Bonneville Project Act of 1937, 16 U.S.C. Chapter 12B (1976), as amended by the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. section 825s), the Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. Chapter 838), and the Pacific Northwest Electric Power Planning and Conservation Act (Pub. L. 96-501).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Information will be maintained by BPA, a utility, or other entity administering the program and will be used (1) to determine eligibility for and to account for BPA payments; (2) to evaluate the electric energy displacement for conservation and direct application renewable resource measures; (3) to evaluate the performance of specific measures; (4) to assess potential regional impact of individual pilot measures; (5) to make recommendations to consumers concerning energy efficiency; (6) to assist in preparing detailed resource assessments; (7) to assist in installation or repair of measures; and (8) to assist in verification or correction of services rendered under this program. Information may also be released to the public in aggregated form for purposes of survey and program analysis. Except in cases (1), (7), and (8), above, information will not be released in other than aggregated form without the prior consent of the individual.

BPA will use this information in statistical form (1) to evaluate the overall effectiveness of the program, and (2) to provide and make available a public data base which will be used to plan and analyze appropriate conservation and direct application renewable resource measures for firms and residents of the Pacific Northwest.

The utility or other entity administering the program will make information available (1) in aggregated form to Federal, State, and local agencies and organizations with an interest in conservation and direct application renewable resource measures, and (2) to BPA for audit and program evaluation purposes. When necessary for accomplishing a measure, the utility or other entity will make information available to contractors for use in preparing and submitting bids for work, and to repair persons called upon to evaluate, correct deficiencies in, or otherwise repair installed measures. The utility or other entity may disclose site or building-specific information to subsequent purchasers.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained (1) on paper in file folders, and (2) on computer tape or disc.

Retrievability: Records maintained by the utility are indexed by a utility account number assigned to each utility customer. Records are indexed by other assigned numbers when maintained at a location other than a utility.

Safeguards: Access to and use of these records is limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. All files are locked or otherwise secure when unattended.

Retention and disposal: A records retention and disposal authorization will be developed and issued in the effective edition of Order DOE 1324.2, Records Disposition.

System manager(s) and address: Mr. John L. Elizalde, Chief, Program Branch, PEP, Division of Conservation, Bonneville Power Administration, P.O. Box 3621, Portland, Oregon 97208, 503-234-3361, Ext. 4086.

Notification procedure: Individuals about whom information is maintained in this system of records are aware of that fact through participation in the program. However, inquiries may be addressed to the System Manager named above. Requests should include the individual's full name and address. Procedures for existing Privacy Act rights are contained in DOE's Privacy Act regulations, 10 CFR 1008, 45 FR 61576, September 16, 1980.

Record access procedures: Requests for access may be directed to the System Manager named above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information about them maintained in this system should direct their request to the System Manager named above.

Record source categories: The information in this system is solicited from the individual to whom the record pertains. Information will also be gathered from data collection and other monitoring equipment such as electric meters, flowmeters, air quality monitors, and so forth. Information will be gathered by representatives of the utilities or by others at BPA's request.

DOE-75

System name: Savannah River Plant Telephone Call Account System (Call Account System).

Additional Routine Uses

The following routine uses apply to and are incorporated by reference into each system of records as stated therein:

1. In the event that a record within this system of records maintained by this agency indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred as a routine use to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

2. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a Federal, State, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary, to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit.

3. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

4. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use (a) to appropriate parties engaged in litigation or in preparation of possible litigation, such as potential witnesses, for the purpose of securing their testimony when necessary; (b) to courts, magistrates or administrative tribunals; (c) to parties and their attorneys for the purpose of proceeding with litigation or settlement of disputes; and (d) to individuals seeking information by using established discovery procedures, whether in connection with civil, criminal, or regulatory proceedings.

5. A record maintained by this agency to carry out its functions which relates to civil and criminal proceedings may be disclosed to the news media in accordance with guidelines contained in Department of Justice regulations 28 CFR 50.2.

6. A record maintained by this agency to carry out its functions may be disclosed to foreign governments in accordance with treaty obligations.

7. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

8. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to DOE contractors in performance of their contracts, and their officers and employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties subject to the same limitations applicable to DOE officers and employees under the Privacy Act.

9. A record in this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a member of Congress submitting a request involving the individual when the individual is a constitutent of the member and has requested assistance from the member with respect to the subject matter of the record.

10. A record in this system of records which contains medical and/or psychological information may be disclosed, as a routine use, to the physician or mental health professional of any individual submitting a request for access to the record under the Privacy Act of 1974 and DOE's Privacy Act regulations if, in its sole judgment and good faith, DOE believes that disclosure of the medical and/or psychological information directly to the individual who is the subject of the record could have an adverse effect upon that individual, in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(f)(3) and applicable DOE regulations.

FEDERAL ENERGY REGULATORY COMMISSION

Where the term "Commission" is used, it refers to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission unless the term references records which date prior to October 1, 1977, in which case it refers to the Federal Power Commission.

FERC-1

System name: egulatory Evaluation And Docketed Information System (READI).

System location: The system is located at the Department of Energy's computer facilities, Washington, D.C. and Germantown and Rockville, Maryland, and as leased from Boeing Computer Services, McLean, Virginia.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Department of Energy contact persons; Commissioners; Administrative Law Judges; attorneys; project managers; technical, environmental and other Commission staff personnel associated with cases before the Commission; parties of record; and parties to be advised of proceedings. With respect to information concerning these individuals, only their names, titles, business addresses, business telephone numbers, relationship to a particular proceeding, and time expended by FERC personnel on that proceeding are entered.

Categories of records in the system: This system of records contains information regarding the stages a docketed proceeding passes through as it is reviewed by Commission personnel. The information in the system of records includes the names of the individuals indicated above, including the names of Commission personnel responsible for various processing stages of a proceeding. The system indicates which processing stage a proceeding has reached and which Commission personnel are presently assigned to a proceeding. A case-weighing function is used to facilitate allocation of manpower and assignments.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 15 U.S.C. section 717o; 16 U.S.C. section 825h; 42 U.S.C. section 7172(a)(2); 44 U.S.C. section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The records and information in the records may be used by authorized Commission personnel to identify all docketed proceedings pending before the Commission; to indicate the current processing stage of a proceeding; to enable management to inventory proceedings by stage of processing; to identify staff personnel responsible for particular proceedings or parts of proceedings; to monitor and analyze the productivity of the Commission staff; to allocate manpower and make assignments; to identify the organizational unit responsible for a given proceeding; to identify general classes of proceedings in order to expedite their processing; and to produce management reports for agency-wide distribution, including responses to general requests for statistical information (without personal identifiers of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act and responses to inquiries from members of Congress, other federal agencies, the press and the public. In addition, the system is used as a data source for management information, for production of summary statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which these records are collected and maintained, or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies compiled by the staff or a contractor of the Commission; or by members of advisory committees created by the Commission or the Congress to render advice and recommendations to the Commission or the Congress. These uses are solely in connection with official designated.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records of FERC–1 are maintained on magnetic tape, computer disk files and punch cards.

Retrievability: Records are retrieved by identifying elements (e.g., docket number, docket name, type of filing), by Commission staff members (e.g., Commissioner, Administrative Law Judge, attorney, etc.), applicant name, or applicant contact.

Safeguards: The records of FERC–1 are stored in a secured computer facility and access is limited to select authorized users.

Retention and disposal: The records are maintained for each proceeding in an "active file" until the proceeding has been terminated. The records are then transferred to a history file for permanent retention.

System manager(s) and address: Executive Director, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Room 9106, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Notification procedure: All requests to determine whether this system contains a record pertaining to a requesting individual should be made in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR section 3b.220(a). Individuals should provide the appropriate identifying information as required by 18 CFR section 3b.220(b).

Record access procedures: Requests for access to records in this system should be made in accordance with 18 CFR section 3b.221. Individuals should provide the appropriate identifying information as specified in 18 CFR section 3b.222.

Contesting record procedures: Requests to amend records should be made in accordance with 18 CFR section 3b.224.

Record source categories: Records of FERC–1 are obtained through public filings with the Commission, individuals and persons covered by the records, and the Commission itself.

FERC–2

System name: Appeals, Grievances and Complaints Records—FERC.

System location: Office of the Executive Director, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Office of the General Counsel, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Office of the Assistant Director, Office of Electric Power Regulation, 400 First Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Applicants for FERC employment, current and former FERC employees, and annuitants who appeal from a determination made by an official of the FERC or the Office of Personnel Management to the Office of Personnel Management, a board to adjudicate appeals, or to the FERC.

Categories of records in the system: As such, the system contains information and files on grievances under negotiated grievance systems and documents relating to a decision or determination made by the Commission or the Office of Personnel Management which affects an individual employee, or prospective employee because of an adverse action or other appeal under applicable Office of Personnel Management regulations, classification appeals, performance rating appeals, Fair Labor Standards Act complaints, grievances and complaints brought under the Equal Employment Opportunity Act. This system of records includes counseling records, case disposition reports of the Office of Personnel Management, intraoffice and interoffice communications, schedules, tabulations, lists, organizational charts which contain personal information, and records of relevant Federal court cases.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 15 U.S.C. section 717o; 16 U.S.C. section 825h; 42 U.S.C. section 7172(a)(2); and the applicable sections of Title 5 of the United States Code and the Office of Personnel Management regulations promulgated thereunder.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records and information in the records may be used to adjudicate the appeal, complaint, or grievance; to respond to a request from a Member of Congress regarding the status of an appeal, complaint, or grievance; to provide information to the public on the decision of an appeal, complaint, or grievance as required by the Freedom of Information Act; to disclose to a Federal, State or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information if necessary in order to obtain information relevant to an FERC decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; to disclose relevant information to a Federal agency in response to requests involving the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency; to serve as a data source for disciplining the individual or other FERC employee in the event that this record system indicates a violation of law, executive order or regulation; as a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained, or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies compiled by the staff or contractor of the Commission. The system is also used by the Office of Personnel Management or the General Accounting Office as a data source during the course of onsite inspections or audits of Commission operations. The disclosure (of information) may be made to a member of Congress from the record of an individual in response to a written request from the Member which is made at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record. In the event that a system of records maintained by the FERC to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system or records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: These records are maintained in file folders, binders, and index cards.

Retrievability: These records are indexed by the name of individuals.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in metal file cabinets with manipulation-proof combination locks. Access to these files and combinations is limited to those whose official duties require access. Personnel screening is employed to prevent unauthorized disclosure.

Retention and disposal: After a final decision on a particular case is reached by the Commission or other decisional authority, all records pertaining to that case are maintained in the Office of Executive Director as a closed file. If a Commission decision is not appealed to the Office of Personnel Management or other appropriate appeal board, the records are maintained for no more than two years and are transferred to the National Personnel Records Center, St. Louis, Missouri, where they are retained for at least seven years. Commission Equal Employment Opportunity Counselors maintain for one year case records which have not been a basis of an EEO complaint. The disposition of these records is handled pursuant to applicable GSA regulations and applicable internal administrative directives.

System manager(s) and address: Office of the Executive Director, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Notification procedure: All requests to determine whether this system contains a record pertaining to a requesting individual should be made in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR section 3b.220(a). Individuals should provide the appropriate identifying information as required by 18 CFR section 3b.220(b).

Record access procedures: Requests for access to records in this system should be made in accordance with 18 CFR section 3b.221. Individuals should provide the appropriate identifying information as specified in 18 CFR section 3b.222.

Contesting record procedures: Requests to amend records should be made in accordane with 18 CFR section 3b.224.

Record source categories: Individuals to whom the record pertains; Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and Office of Personnel Management officials; affidavits or statements from individual; testimony of witnesses; official documents relating to the appeal, grievance, or complaint; correspondence from special organizations or persons.

FERC–3

Storage: plications for Interlocking Directorates, Public Files.

Lansburgh's Warehouse, Office of Management Services, Office of the Executive Director, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 410 8th Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Division of Rates and Corporate Regulation, Office of Electric Power Regulation, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 400 First Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Officers and directors of related public utilities who, in accordance with Section 305(b) of the Federal Power Act; 16 U.S.C. section 825d(b), file for permission to hold the position of officer or director of more than one public utility, of a public utility and certain financial institutions authorized to market public utility securities, and a company supplying each utility with electrical equipment.

Categories of records in the system: This system of records includes the following information for each individual: the name of the applicant; the docket number of the application; the position applied for; the date of the application and a copy of the application; the date of the public notice of the application and a copy of that notice; the date and copy of the order granting or deny the application; the date of any relevant hearing; and a copy of any petitions to intervene.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 16 U.S.C. section 825d(b); 16 U.S.C. section 825h; 42 U.S.C. section 7172(a)(2); 44 U.S.C. section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The system is used as a file by staff of the Commission whose official duties involve the decision of whether to grant the application. The file is also used as a record of such proceedings. The records are available to the general public pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. section 552, as amended.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: These records are maintained in file folders on shelves.

Retrievability: These records are filed by docket number and are cross-referenced by the name of the individual whose application is involved.

Safeguards: No measures are taken to prevent disclosure. The system contains only information available to the public.

Retention and disposal: These records are maintained for one year after the applicant dies or ten years after notice of termination of his authorization. The disposition of these records is handled pursuant to applicable GSA regulations and/or applicable internal administrative directives.

System manager(s) and address: Office of Management Services, Office of the Executive Director, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Notification procedure: All inquiries and requests relating to this system of records should be addressed to the system manager of the system.

Record access procedures: All inquiries and requests relating to this system of records should be addressed to the system manager of the system.

Contesting record procedures: All inquiries and requests relating to this system of records should be addressed to the system manager of the system.

Record source categories: Individuals on whom the records are maintained and the staff of the Commission.

FERC–4

System name: Applications for Interlocking Directorates, Security Files-FERC.

System location: Office of Management Services, Office of the Executive Director, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Division of Rates and Corporate Regulation, Office of Electric Power Regulation, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 400 First Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Officers and directors of regulated public utilities who, in accordance with Section 305(b) of the Federal Power Act, 16 U.S.C. Section 825d(b), file for permission to hold the position of officer or director of more than one public utility, of a public utility and certain financial institutions authorized to market public utility securities, or of a public utility and a company supplying such utility with electrical equipment.

Categories of records in the system: This system of records includes the following information for each individual: a copy of the application for an interlocking directorate, a copy of any Commission order granting or denying the application, a copy of the FERC staff recommendation, and other supplementary information prepared by Commission staff, if applicable.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 16 U.S.C. section 825d(b); 16 U.S.C. section 825h; 42 U.S.C. section 7172(a)(2); 44 U.S.C. section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The system is used as a working file by the staff of the Commission whose official duties require access in assisting the Commission in determining whether to grant the application. It is used as a record of such proceedings. In the event that a system of records maintained by the Commission to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: These records are maintained in file folders in metal file cabinets in a secured room.

Retrievability: These records are indexed by the names of individuals on whom they are maintained.

Safeguards: Access to, and use of, these records is limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. Personnel screening of these individuals is employed to minimize unauthorized disclosure and an accounting is made of removal of the records from the storage area.

Retention and disposal: These records are maintained for one year after the applicant dies or ten year after notice of termination of his or her authorization. The disposition is handled pursuant to applicable GSA regulations and/or applicable internal administrative directives.

System manager(s) and address: Division of Rates and Corporate Regulation, Office of Electric Power Regulation, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 400 First Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Notification procedure: All requests to determine whether this system contains a record pertaining to a requesting individual should be made in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR section 3b.220(a). Individuals should provide the appropriate identifying information as required by 18 CFR section 3b.220(b).

Record access procedures: Requests for access to records in this system should be made in accordance with 18 CFR section 3b.221. Individuals should provide the appropriate identifying information as specified in 18 CFR section 3b.222.

Contesting record procedures: Requests to amend records should be made in accordance with 18 CFR section 3b.224.

Record source categories: Individuals to whom the records pertain and staff of the Commission.

FERC–5

§ 1008.3 Employee standards of conduct with regard to privacy.

(a) The Headquarters DOE Privacy Act Officer shall assure that DOE personnel are advised of the provisions of the Privacy Act, including the criminal penalties and civil liabilities provided therein, (subsections (g) and (i) of the Act), and that DOE personnel are made aware of their responsibilities: to protect the security of personal information to assure its accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness; to avoid unauthorized disclosure; and to insure that no system of records concerning individuals, no matter how insignificant or specialized, is maintained without public notice.

(b) DOE personnel shall:

(1) Collect or maintain no information of a personal nature about individuals unless relevant and necessary to achieve a purpose or carry out a responsibility of the DOE as required by statute or by Executive Order. See subsection (e)(1) of the Act and § 1008.18(a).

(2) Collect information, wherever possible, directly from the individual to whom it pertains. See subsection (e)(2) of the Act and § 1009.19(a).

(3) Inform individuals from whom information is collected of the authority for collection, the principal purposes for which the information will be used, the routine uses that will be made of the information, and the effects of not furnishing the information. See subsection (e)(3) of the Act and § 1008.19(b).

(4) Collect, maintain, use or disseminate no information concerning an individual's rights guaranteed by the First Amendment, unless (i) the individual has volunteered such; or (ii) the information is expressly authorized by statute to be collected, maintained, used or disseminated; or (iii) the activities involved are pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity. See subsection (e)(7) of the Act and § 1008.18(b).

(5) Advise their supervisors of the existence or proposal of any system of records which retrieves information about individuals by the individual's name or other identifying number, symbol, or identifying particulars assigned to the individual.

(6) Maintain an accounting, in the prescribed form, of all disclosures of information other than those to officers or employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties and those required under the Freedom of Information Act. See subsection (c) of the Act.

(7) Disclose no records other than to DOE personnel without the advance written consent of the individual, except as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 552a(b) including routine uses published in the Federal Register.

(8) Maintain and process information concerning individuals with care to insure that no inadvertent disclosure of the information is made. See subsection (e)(10) of the Act.

(9) Inform the proper DOE authorities of any information maintained in a DOE system of records which is not authorized by the Privacy Act of 1974.

(c) Heads of Headquarters Divisions and Offices and heads of the other DOE locations shall review annually the systems of records subject to their responsibility to insure compliance with the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974.

§ 1008.4 Procedures for identifying the individual making a request for access to or amendment of records.

(a) When a request for information about or for access to or correction of a record pertaining to an individual and contained in a system of records has been made pursuant to § 1008.6, valid identification of the individual making the request shall be required before information will be given, access granted or a correction considered, to insure that information is given, corrected, or records disclosed or corrected only at the request of the proper person.

(b) Subject to paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, an individual making a request may establish his identity by:

(1) Including with his request, if submitted by mail, a photocopy of two identifying documents bearing his name and signature, one of which shall bear his current home or business address and date of birth; or

(2) Appearing at the appropriate DOE location during the regular business hours and presenting either of the following:

(i) One identifying document bearing the individual's photograph and signature, such as a driver's license or passport; or

(ii) Two identifying documents bearing the individual's name and signature, one of which shall bear the individual's current home or business address and date of birth; or

(3) Providing such other proof of identity as the Privacy Act Officer deems satisfactory in the circumstances of a particular request.

(c) If the Privacy Act Officer or the appropriate System Manager determines that the information in a record is so sensitive that unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual whose record in involved, or if the individual making the request is unable to produce satisfactory evidence of identity under paragraph (b) or (d) of this section, the individual making the request may be required to submit a notarized statement attesting to his identity and his understanding of the criminal penalties provided under section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code for making false statements to a Government agency and under subsection (i)(3) of the Act for obtaining records under false pretenses. Copies of these statutory provisions and forms of such notarized statements may be obtained upon request from the Privacy Act Officer, Headquarters, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C.

(d) When an individual acting as the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the person to whom a record pertains makes a request pursuant to § 1008.6 of this part—

(1) Such an individual shall establish his personal identity in the same manner required in either paragraph (b) or (c) of this section.

(2) In addition, such an individual shall establish his identity in the representative capacity of parent or legal guardian. In the case of the parent of a minor, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the minor's birth certificate. In the case of the legal guardian of a person who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the order from a court of competent jurisdiction.

(3) A parent or legal guardian may act only for a living individual, not for a decedent. Requests for the records of decedents will be handled under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

§ 1008.5 Effect of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA).

(a) DOE shall not rely on any exemption contained in the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) to withhold from the individual to whom it pertains, any record which is otherwise accessible to such individual under this part.

(b) DOE shall rely on subsection (b) of the Privacy Act to withhold information from a person other than the person to whom the record pertains only when the information is also exempt from disclosure under the FOIA.

(c) Where a request for access to records is submitted pursuant to both the FOIA and the Privacy Act, the DOE shall, to the maximum extent possible, process the request under the provisions of this part, including the time limits of this part.

Subpart B—Requests for Access or Amendment

§ 1008.6 Procedures for Privacy Act requests.

(a) Any individual may—

(1) Ask the DOE whether a system of records maintained by the DOE contains records about him or her;

(2) Request access to information pertaining to him or her that is maintained in a DOE system of records;

(3) Request that information about him or her in a DOE system of records be amended or corrected. Requests for correction or amendment may include inquiries concerning—

(i) whether such information is relevant or necessary to accomplish a purpose that DOE is required to accomplish by statute or Executive Order; or

(ii) if the information is to be used by the DOE in making a determination about the individual, whether the information is as accurate, relevant, timely, or complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness in the determination.

(b) Requests submitted pursuant to this section shall—

(1) Be in writing and signed by the individual making the request;

(2) State that the request is a "Privacy Act Access" or "Privacy Act Amendment" request;

(3) Include the identification information required by § 1008.4;

(4) Specify, if possible, the title and identifying number of the system of records as listed in DOE's published notices of system of records;

(5) Provide if possible any additional information to aid DOE in responding to the request, for example, a description of the records sought;

(6) Indicate, as appropriate, the time, place, and form of access sought.

(c) Any request not addressed and marked as specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the appropriate Privacy Act Officer. An improperly addressed request will not be deemed to have been received for purposes of measuring time periods pursuant to §§ 1008.7 and 1008.10 until actual receipt by the appropriate Privacy Act Officer. The individual making the request shall be notified that the request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received by the Privacy Act Officer.

(d) Assistance in preparing an access request pursuant to this section may be obtained from any DOE Privacy Act Officer at the locations listed at § 1008.2(e).

(e) An individual shall not be required to state a reason or otherwise justify his request for information or access to a record pertaining to him/her that is contained in a system of records.

§ 1008.7 Processing of requests.

(a) Receipt of a request made in accordance with § 1008.6 shall be promptly acknowledged by the Privacy Act Officer.

(b) Each request shall be acted upon promptly. Every effort will be made to respond within ten working days of the date of receipt by the System Manager or designee. If a response cannot be made within ten working days, the appropriate Privacy Act Officer shall send an interim response providing information on the status of the request, including an estimate of the time within which action is expected to be taken on the request and asking for any further information as may be necessary to respond to the request. Action will be completed as soon as possible, but not later than 20 working days after receipt of the original specific inquiry. In unusual circumstances and for good cause, the appropriate Privacy Act Officer may decide that action cannot be completed within the initial 20 working days. In such case, the appropriate Privacy Act Officer will advise the individual of the reason for the delay and the date (not to exceed an additional 20 working days) by which action can be expected to be completed.

(c) The term "unusual circumstances" as used in this section includes situations where a search for requested records from inactive storage is necessary; cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved; instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record; and cases where consultation with other agencies which have substantial interest in the response to the request is necessary.

(d) Upon receiving a request, the Privacy Act Officer shall ascertain which System Manager or Managers of the DOE have primary responsibility for, custody of, or concern with the system or systems of records subject to the request and shall forward the request to such System Manager or Managers. The System Manager or Managers shall promptly identify and, in consultation with the General Counsel, review the records encompassed by the request.

(e) Where the request is for access to or information about records, after reviewing the material the System Manager or Managers concerned shall transmit to the Privacy Act Officer the requested material. The transmission to the Privacy Act Officer shall include any recommendation that the request be granted or wholly or partially denied and shall set forth any exemption categories supporting denials. Any denial recommendation must be concurred in by the appropriate General Counsel.

(f) Where the request is for correction or amendment of records, after reviewing the material the System Manager or Managers shall transmit a recommended decision to the Privacy Act Officer. Any recommendation that the request be granted or wholly or partially denied shall cite the exemption relied on and set forth the policy considerations supporting a denial. Any recommendation of denial must be concurred in by General Counsel.

§ 1008.8 Action in response to a request for access: disclosure of requested information to subject individuals.

(a) Consistent with the recommendation of the System Manager and the concurrence of the appropriate General Counsel, the Privacy Act Officer shall provide to the requesting individual the information about or access to a record or information pertaining to the individual contained in a system of records, unless the request is being denied in accordance with § 1008.9 of this part. The Privacy Act Officer shall notify the individual of such determination and provide the following information:

(1) Whether there is information or a record pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records;

(2) The methods of access as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section;

(3) The place at which the record or information may be inspected;

(4) The earliest date on which the record or information may be inspected and the period of time that the record or information will remain available for inspection. In no event shall the earliest date be later than thirty calendar days from the date of notification.

(5) An indication that copies of the records are enclosed, or the estimated date by which a copy of the record could be mailed and the estimate of fees that would be charged to provide other than the first copy of the record, pursuant to § 1008.13.

(6) The fact that the individual, if he wishes, may be accompanied by another person during the in-person review of the record or information, provided that the individual shall first furnish to the Privacy Act Officer a written statement authorizing disclosure of that individual's record in the accompanying person's presence; and

(7) Any additional requirements that must be satisfied in order to provide information about or to grant access to the requested record or information.

(b) The following methods of access to records or information pertaining to an individual and contained in a system of records may be available to that individual depending on the circumstances of a particular request:

(1) A copy of the record may be enclosed with the initial response in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section;

(2) Inspection in person may be arranged during the regular business hours of the DOE in the office specified by the Privacy Act Officer;

(3) Transfer of records to a Federal facility more convenient to the individual may be arranged, but only if the Privacy Act Officer determines that a suitable facility is available, that the individual's access can be properly supervised at that facility, and that transmittal of the records or information to that facility will not unduly interfere with operations of the DOE or involve unreasonable costs, in terms of money or manpower; and

(4) The requested number of copies in addition to the initial copy may be mailed at the request of the individual, subject to payment of the fees prescribed in § 1008.13.

(c) If the Privacy Act Officer believes, based upon a recommendation of the System Manager and the agency's medical officer, that disclosure of medical and/or psychological information directly to an individual could have an adverse effect upon that individual, the individual may be asked:

(1) To designate in writing a physician or mental health professional to whom he would like the records to be disclosed; or

(2) To submit a signed statement by his physician or a mental health professional indicating that, in his view, disclosure of the requested records or information directly to the individual will not have an adverse effect upon the individual. If the individual refuses to designate a physician or mental health professional, or to submit a signed statement from his physician or mental health professional as provided in paragraph (c) (1) and (2) of this section, the request will be considered denied, and the appeal rights provided in § 1008.11 will be available to the individual.

(d) The Privacy Act Officer shall supply such other information and assistance at the time of an individual's review of his record as is necessary to make the record intelligible to the individual.

(e) The DOE will, as required by subsection (d)(1), assure an individual's right "to review his or her record and have a copy made of all or any portion thereof in a form comprehensible to him." However, original records will be made available to individuals only under the supervision of the Privacy Act Officer or his designee. Individuals will be provided at their request with a copy, but not the original, of records pertaining to them.

§ 1008.9 Action in response to a request for access: initial denial of access.

(a) A request by an individual for information about or access to a record or information pertaining to that individual that is contained in a system of records may be denied only upon a determination by the appropriate System Manager, with the concurrence of the appropriate General Counsel, that:

(1) The record is subject to an exemption under § 1008.12;

(2) The record is information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding; or

(3) The individual has unreasonably failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(b) The Privacy Act Officer shall give written notice of the denial of a request of information about or access to records or information pertaining to the individual and contained in a system of records. Such written notice shall be sent by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested and shall include the following information:

(1) The System Manager's name and title;

(2) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate sections of the Privacy Act and this part; and

(3) Notification of the individual's right to appeal the denial pursuant to § 1008.11 and to administrative and judicial review under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B), as limited by 552a(g)(5).

(c) Nothing in this section shall:

(1) Require the furnishing of information or records that are not retrieved by the name or by some other identifying number, symbol or identifying particular of the individual making the request;

(2) Prevent a System Manager from waiving any exemption authorizing the denial of records, in accordance with § 1008.12.

§ 1008.10 Action in response to a request for correction or amendment of records.

(a) The Privacy Act Officer must respond in writing to the requester for amendment of a record within 10 working days of receipt. This response shall inform the requester of the decision whenever possible.

(b) If the decision cannot be reached within 10 working days, the requester shall be informed of the reason for delay and the date (within 20 working days) it is expected that the decision will be made.

(c) The Privacy Act Officer, consistent with the recommendation of the System Manager or Managers, as concurred in by the appropriate General Counsel, if appropriate, shall do one of the following:

(1) Instruct the System Manager to make the requested correction or amendment; and advise the individual in writing of such action, providing either a copy of the corrected or amended record, or a statement as to the means whereby the correction or amendment was accomplished in cases where a copy cannot be provided (for example, erasure of information from a record maintained only in an electronic data bank); or

(2) Inform the individual in writing that his request is denied in whole or in part. Such denial shall be sent by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, and shall provide the following information:

(i) The System Manager's name and title;

(ii) The reasons for the denial; including citation to the appropriate sections of the Act and this part; and

(iii) Notification of the individual's right to appeal the denial pursuant to § 1008.11 and to administrative and judicial review under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B), as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(iv) Notification of the right of the individual to submit a statement of disagreement consistent with § 1008.11(g).

(d) Whenever an individual's record is amended pursuant to a request by that individual, the Privacy Act Officer or the System Manager, as appropriate, shall notify all persons and agencies to which the amended portion of the record had been disclosed prior to its amendment, if an accounting of such disclosure was required by the Act. The notification shall request a recipient agency maintaining the record to acknowledge receipt of the notification, to correct or amend the record and to apprise an agency or person to which it had disclosed the record of the substance of the amendment.

(e) The following criteria will be taken into account by the DOE in reviewing a request for amendment:

(1) The sufficiency of the evidence submitted by the individual;

(2) The factual accuracy of the information;

(3) The relevance and necessity of the information in relation to the purpose for which it was collected;

(4) If such information is used in making any determination about the individual, whether the information is as accurate, relevant, timely, and complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in such determination;

(5) The degree of possibility that denial of the request could unfairly result in a determination adverse to the individual;

(6) The nature of the record sought to be corrected or amended; and

(7) The propriety and feasibility of complying with the specific means of amendment requested by the individual.

(f) The DOE will not undertake to gather evidence for the individual, but does reserve the right to verify the evidence that the individual submits.

(g) Amendment of a record requested by an individual may be denied upon a determination that:

(1) The individual has failed to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, the propriety of the amendment in relation to the criteria stated in paragraph (e) of this section;

(2) The record sought to be amended was compiled in a terminated judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual was a party or participant;

(3) The record sought to be amended is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant;

(4) The amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation;

(5) The individual has unreasonably failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part; or

(6) The record has been properly exempted from the provisions of subsection (d) of the Act.

(h) Nothing in this section shall restrict the DOE from granting in part or denying in part a request for amendment of records.

[45 FR 61577, Sept.16, 1980, as amended at 46 FR 31637, June 17, 1981]

§ 1008.11 Appeals of denials of requests pursuant to § 1008.6.

(a) Any individual may appeal the denial of a request made by him for information about or for access to or correction or amendment of records. An appeal shall be filed within 30 calendar days after receipt of the denial. When an appeal is filed by mail, the postmark is conclusive as to timeliness. The appeal shall be in writing and must be signed by the individual. The words "PRIVACY ACT APPEAL" should appear in capital letters on the envelope and the letter. Appeals of denials relating to records maintained in government-wide systems of records reported by the OPM, shall be filed, as appropriate, with the Assistant Director for Agency Compliance and Evaluation, Office of Personnel Management (OPM), 1900 E Street, NW., Washington, DC 20415. All other appeals relating to DOE records shall be directed to the Director, Office of Hearings and Appeals (OHA), Department of Energy, Headquarters, Washington, DC.

(b) An appeal not addressed and marked as specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Assistant Director for Agency Compliance and Evaluation, OPM, or the Director, OHA, as appropriate. An appeal that is not properly addressed by an individual shall not be deemed to have been received for purposes of time periods in this section until actual receipt of the appeal by the Assistant Director, OPM, or the Director, OHA. In each instance when an appeal so forwarded is received, the individual filing the appeal shall be notified that the appeal was improperly addressed and the date when the appeal was received by the Assistant Director, OPM, or the Director, OHA.

(c) The appeal shall include the following:

(1) A copy of the original request for access or for amendment;

(2) A copy of the initial denial; and

(3) A statement of the reasons why the initial denial is believed to be in error.

(d) The records or record to which the individual was denied access, or which was requested to be corrected or amended, will be supplied to the appropriate appeal authority by the Privacy Act Officer who issued the initial denial. While such records normally will comprise the entire record on appeal, the appeal authority may seek such additional information as is necessary to assure that the final determination is fair and equitable.

(e) No personal appearance or hearing on appeal will be allowed.

(f) The appropriate appeal authority for DOE records shall act upon the appeal and issue a final determination in writing no later than 20 working days from the date on which the appeal is received. However, the appeal authority may extend the ten-day period upon a determination that a fair and equitable review cannot be made within that period. In such cases the individual shall be advised in writing of the reason for the extension and of the estimated date by which a final determination will be issued. The final determination shall be issued not later than the 30th working day after receipt of the appeal unless unusual circumstances, as defined in § 1008.7, are present, whereupon an additional 30 days may be extended.

(g) If an appeal of a denial of access is granted, a copy of the determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual, the Privacy Act Officer and the appropriate System Manager. Upon receipt of the determination, the Privacy Act Officer promptly shall take action consistent with § 1008.8.

(h) If an appeal of a denial of correction or amendment is granted, the final determination shall identify the specific corrections or amendments to be made. A copy of the determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual, the Privacy Act Officer and the appropriate System Manager. Upon receipt of the determination, the Privacy Act Officer promptly shall take steps to insure that the actions set forth in § 1008.10 (a) and (b) are taken.

(i) If the appeal of a denial of access is denied, the final determination shall state the reasons for the denial and shall be transmitted promptly to the individual, the Privacy Act Officer and the appropriate System Manager. The determination shall also include a statement identifying the right of the individual to administrative and judicial review pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B) as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(j) If the appeal of a denial of correction or amendment is denied, the final determination shall state the reasons for the denial and shall be transmitted promptly to the individual, the Privacy Act Officer and the appropriate System Manager.

(1) The determination also shall include the following:

(i) Notice of the right of the individual to file with the Privacy Act Officer a concise, signed statement of reasons for disagreeing with the final determination, receipt of which statement will be acknowledged by the Privacy Act Officer.

(ii) An indication that any disagreement statement filed by the individual will be noted and appended to the disputed record and that a copy of the statement will be provided by the Privacy Act Officer or the System Manager, as appropriate, to persons and agencies to which the record is disclosed subsequent to the date of receipt of such statement;

(iii) An indication that the DOE shall append to any disagreement statement filed by the individual a copy of the final determination or a summary thereof, which determination or summary also will be provided to persons and agencies to which the disagreement statement is disclosed; and,

(iv) A statement of the right of the individual to administrative and judicial review under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B), as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(2) Although a copy of the final determination or a summary thereof will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

(3) Where an individual files a statement of disagreement consistent with paragraph (j)(1) of this section, the Privacy Act Officer shall take steps to insure that the actions provided in paragraph (j)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section are taken.

§ 1008.12 Exemptions.

(a) General exemptions. (1) Generally. 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) allows the exemption of any system of records within the DOE from any part of section 552a except subsections (b), (c)(1) and (2), (e)(4)(A) through (F) (e)(6), (7), (9), (10), and (11), and (i) of the Act if the system of records is maintained by a DOE component which performs as its principal function any activity pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws, including police efforts to prevent, control, or reduce crime or to apprehend criminals, and which consists of (i) information compiled for the purpose of identifying individual criminal offenders and alleged offenders; (ii) information compiled for the purpose of a criminal investigation, including reports of informants and investigators, and associated with an identifiable individual; or (iii) reports identifiable to an individual compiled at any stage of the process of enforcement of the criminal laws from arrest or indictment through release from supervision.

(2) Applicability of general exemptions to DOE systems of records. (i) Investigative Files of the Inspector General (DOE–54). This system of records is being exempted pursuant to subsection (j)(2) of the Act in order to aid the Office of the Inspector General in the performance of its law enforcement function. The system is exempted from subsections (c)(3) and (4); (d)(1)–(4); (e)(1)–(3); (4)(G), (H), and (I); (5) and (8); and (g) of the Act. The system is exempt from these provisions for the following reasons: notifying an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual, or granting access to an investigative file could (A) interfere with investigative and enforcement proceedings and with co-defendants' right to a fair trial; (B) disclose the identity of confidential sources and reveal confidential information supplied by these sources; and (C) disclose investigative techniques and procedures.

(b) Specific exemptions. Subsection (k) of the Privacy Act establishes seven categories of systems of records which may be exempted from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H) and (I), and (7) of the Act. The Department has exempted systems of records under four of these provisions, as follows: (1) Classified material. (i) Subsection (k)(1) permits exemption of systems of records that are specifically authorized under criteria established under statute or Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy, and are in fact properly classified pursuant to such statute or Executive Order. Restricted Data and Formerly Restricted Data under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, are included in this exemption.

(ii) The DOE systems of records listed below have been exempted under subsection (k)(1) to the extent they contain classified information, in order to prevent serious damage to the national defense or foreign policy that could arise from providing individuals access to classified information. Systems exempted under subsection (k)(1) are—

(A) Alien Visits and Participation (DOE–52).

(B) Clearance Board Cases (DOE–46).

(C) Security Correspondence Files (DOE–49).

(D) Foreign Travel Records (DOE–27)

(E) Legal Files (Claims, Litigations, Criminal Violation, Patents, and other Legal Files) (DOE–41).

(F) Personnel Security Clearance Files (DOE–43).

(G) Personnel Security Clearance Index (Automated) (DOE–42).

(H) Special Access Authorization for Categories of Classified Information (DOE–44).

(2) Investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. (i) Subsection (k)(2) permits the exemption of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes, provided, however, that if any individual is denied any right, privilege, or benefit to which he would otherwise be entitled by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible, as a result of the maintenance of such material, such material shall be provided to such individual, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(ii) The DOE systems of records listed below have been exempted under subsection (k)(2) in order to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the investigatory process through access to records about themselves or as a result of learning the identities of confidential informants; to prevent disclosure of investigative techniques; to maintain the ability to obtain necessary information; and thereby to insure the proper functioning and integrity of law enforcement activities. Systems of records exempted under subsection (k)(2) are—

(A) Alien Visits and Participation (DOE–52).

(B) Clearance Board Cases (DOE–46).

(C) Security Correspondence Files (DOE–49).

(D) Foreign Travel Records (DOE–27).

(E) Legal Files (Claims, Litigation, Criminal Violations, Patents, and other Legal Files) (DOE–41).

(F) Personnel Security Clearance Files (DOE–43).

(G) Personnel Security Clearance Index (Automated) (DOE–42).

(H) Special Access Authorization for Categories of Classified Information (DOE–44).

(I) DOE Personnel and General Employment Records (DOE–1) (only personnel investigative records concerning current and former DOE employees and applicants for employment by DOE).

(J) Investigative Files of the Inspector General (DOE–54) (only investigative records concerning past and present DOE employees).

(3) Investigatory material compiled for determining suitability for Federal employment. (i) Subsection (k)(5) permits exemption of systems of records that contain investigatory material compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualification for Federal civilian employment, military service, Federal contracts, or access to classified information, but only to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(ii) The DOE systems of records listed below have been exempted under subsection (k)(5) to the extent they contain the kinds of records described in subsection (k)(5) in order to maintain DOE's ability to obtain candid information on candidates for employment, contracts, or access to classified information and to fulfill commitments made to sources to protect the confidentiality of information, and thereby to facilitate proper selection or continuation of the best applicants or persons for a given position or contract. Systems exempted under subsection (k)(5) are—

(A) DOE Personnel and General Employment Records (DOE–1);

(B) Personnel Security Clearance Files (DOE–43);

(C) Investigative Files of the Inspector General (DOE–54);

(D) Alien Visits and Participation (DOE–52);

(E) Clearance Board Cases (DOE–46);

(F) Security Correspondence Files (DOE–49);

(G) Foreign Travel Records (DOE–27);

(H) Legal Files (Claims, Litigation, Criminal Violations, Patents, and other Legal Files) (DOE–41);

(I) Personnel Security Clearance Index (Automated) (DOE–42);

(J) Special Access Authorization for Categories of Classified Information (DOE–44);

(K) DOE Personnel: Supervisor-Maintained Personnel Records (DOE–2);

(L) Applications for DOE Employment (DOE–4).

(4) Testing or examination material. (i) Subsection (k)(6) permits exemption of systems of records that include testing or examination material used solely to determine individual qualifications for appointment or promotion in the Federal service, the disclosure of which would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing of examination process.

(ii) The DOE systems of records listed below have been exempted to the extent they contain testing or examination material in order to protect the integrity of the personnel testing and evaluation process and to avoid providing individuals with unfair advantage, by premature or unfair disclosure of testing or rating information. Systems exempted under Subsection (k)(6) are—

(A) (DOE–2) DOE Personnel: Supervisor-Maintained Personnel Records.

(B) (DOE–4) Applications for DOE Employment.

(C) (DOE–1) DOE Personnel and General Employment Records.

(c) Application of exemptions to particular requests. (1) The Privacy Act Officer, consistent with the recommendation of the System Manager and with concurrence of the appropriate General Counsel, may make available records which the DOE is authorized to withhold under this section.

(2) With respect to records containing material or information that would reveal the identity of a source who was given an assurance of confidentiality, a determination to make records available pursuant to paragraph (c)(1) of this section shall be made only if the source consents to the release of such information to the individual, or if it is determined that the material or information is not adverse or detrimental to the individual, or for good cause shown. The exercise of discretion with respect to waiver of the exemption shall be final.

(3) Prior to making a determination to deny access to a record in a system of records covered by exemption (k)(1) for classified material (see paragaph (b)(1) of this section), the System Manager shall consult with the Director, Division of Classification, to verify the current classification status of the information in the requested record.

§ 1008.13 Fees.

(a) The only fees to be charged to or collected from an individual under the provisions of this part are for copying records at the request of the individual. The fee charged shall be consistent with the fee schedule set forth in paragraph (b) of this section.

(1) No fees shall be charged or collected for the following: search for and retrieval of records; review of records; copying by the DOE incident to granting access; copying at the initiative of the DOE without a request from the individual; copying when the aggregate of fees for copying is $25 or less; time spent providing copies; transportation of records and personnel; and first class postage.

(2) It is the policy of the DOE to provide an individual with one copy of each record corrected or amended pursuant to request without charge.

(3) As required by the Office of Personnel Management in its published regulations implementing the Act, the DOE will charge no fee for a single copy of a personnel record covered by that Commission's Government-wide published notice of systems of records.

(b) The schedule of fees is as follows:

(1) $.10 per copy of each page.

(2) For other forms of copying and other forms of materials (e.g., cassettes, computer materials), the direct cost of the materials, personnel, and equipment shall be charged, but only with prior specific approval of the person making the request, when such charges would be in excess of $25.

(c) The Privacy Act Officer may, upon application by an individual, furnish any records without charge or at a reduced rate, if the Privacy Act Officer determines that such waiver or reduction of fees is in the public interest.

(d) Payment shall be made by check or money order payable to the United States Department of Energy.

(e) Advance payment of all or part of the fees may be required at the discretion of the Privacy Act Officer. Unless the individual requesting the copies specifically states that he is willing to pay whatever fees are assessed for meeting the request or, alternatively, specifies an amount in excess of $25 that he is willing to pay and which in fact covers the anticipated fees for meeting the request, a request that is expected to involve assessed fees in excess of $25 shall not be deemed to have been received, for purposes of the time periods specified in § 1008.7 and § 1008.10 until the individual making the request is notified of the anticipated cost, agrees to bear it, and makes any advance deposit required. Such notification shall be made by the Privacy Act Officer as promptly as possible after receipt of the request.

§ 1008.14 Requests under false pretenses.

Subsection (i)(3) of the Act provides that any person who knowingly and willingly requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdeamenaor and fined not more than $5,000.

§ 1008.15 Civil remedies.

Subsection (g) of the Act provides that an individual may bring suit against the DOE for a violation of the Privacy Act, as follows:

(a) If the DOE refuses to grant a request for access to an individual's records, the court may order the DOE to provide the individual with access to his or her records and award reasonable litigation costs and attorney's fees.

(b) If the DOE refuses to amend a record or fails to review an amendment request as required by subsection (d)(3) of the Act, the court may order the DOE to make the amendment and award reasonable litigation costs and attorney's fees.

(c) If the DOE makes an adverse determination based on a record which is not maintained in an accurate, timely, relevant, and complete manner, the individual may be awarded actual damages of at least $1,000. In order to prevail, the individual must show that—

(1) The DOE's action was willful and intentional; and

(2) The adverse determination was based on the faulty record.

(d) If the DOE fails to comply with any other provision of the Privacy Act or agency rule promulgated under the Act, in such a way as to have an adverse effect on the individual, the court may award actual damages of at least $1,000. In order to prevail, the individual must show that—

(1) The DOE's action was willful and intentional; and

(2) The agency's action had an adverse effort on the individual; and

(3) The adverse effect was causally related to the DOE's action.

Subpart C—Disclosure to Third Parties

§ 1008.16 Prohibition against disclosure.

Except as provided in § 1008.17, the DOE shall not disclose any record which is contained in a system of records, by any means of communication, to any agency or to any person other than the individual who is the subject of the record.

§ 1008.17 Conditions of disclosure.

(a) Notwithstanding the prohibition contained in § 1008.16, the DOE may disclose records covered by this part (1) to the individual to whom the record pertains or to an agency or (2) to a person other than the individual where he has given his prior written consent to the disclosure or has made a written request for such disclosure.

(b) Notwithstanding the prohibition contained in § 1008.16 the DOE may also disclose records covered by this part whenever the disclosure is:

(1) To officers and employees of the DOE who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(2) Required under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552);

(3) For a routine use (as defined in § 1008.2) which is described in the Federal Register notice for the system of records which the disclosure is to be made;

(4) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13 of the United States Code;

(5) To a recipient who has provided the agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(6) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(7) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the DOE specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(8) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(9) To either House of Congress, or to any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction;

(10) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office;

(11) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(c) Notwithstanding the prohibition contained in section § 1008.16 of this part, the DOE may also disclose records covered by this part when disseminating a corrected or amended record or notation of a disagreement statement as required by subsection (c)(4) of the Act.

§ 1008.18 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) For each disclosure of information contained in a system of records under his control, except disclosures to authorized officers and employees of DOE and disclosures required by the Freedom of Information Act, the appropriate System Manager shall keep an accurate accounting of:

(1) The date, nature, and purposes of each disclosure of a record made to any person or to another agency; and

(2) The name and address of the person or agency to which the disclosure was made.

(b) The accounting shall be retained for at least five years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made.

(c) The accounting described in paragraph (a) of this section shall be made available to the individual named in the record upon written request to the Privacy Act Officer at the appropriate DOE location listed at § 1008.2(c) of this part. However, the accounting shall not be revealed with respect to disclosures made under § 1008.17(b)(7) of this part, pertaining to law enforcement activity; or with respect to disclosures involving system of records for which DOE had claimed an exemption from certain requirements of the Act, as provided in § 1008.12 of this part.

(d) Whenever an amendment or correction of a record or a notation of dispute concerning the accuracy of records is made by the DOE in accordance with §1008.10(a)(2)(iv) and § 1008.11(g) of this part, DOE shall inform any person or other agency to whom the record was previously disclosed if an accounting of the disclosure was made pursuant to the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, unless the disclosure was made pursuant to section § 1008.17(b)(7) of this part; or the disclosure involved a system of records of which DOE has claimed an exemption from certain requirements of the Act, as provided in § 1008.12 of this part.

(e) The System Manager shall make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record containing information about such individual in a DOE system of records is disclosed to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record.

(f) Prior to disclosing any record about an individual to any person other than an agency, unless the disclosure is pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, the System Manager shall make reasonable efforts to assure that each record is accurate, complete, timely, and relevant for DOE's purposes.

§ 1008.19 Criminal penalties—improper disclosure.

Subsection (i)(1) of the Act provides that a Federal employee who willfully discloses information subject to the Privacy Act in violation of the Act or rules promulgated under it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined up to $5,000.

Subpart D—Maintenance and Establishment of Systems of Records

§ 1008.20 Content of systems of records.

(a) The DOE will maintain in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose DOE is required to accomplish by statute or by Executive Order of the President, unless an exemption ot this requirement has been claimed by DOE, as provided in § 1008.12 of this part.

(b) The DOE will maintain no record describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or unless it is pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

(c) The DOE will maintain all records that are used by it to make any determination about any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in such determination.

§ 1008.21 Collection of information by DOE about an individual for a system of records.

(a) The DOE will collect information, to the greatest extent practicable, directly from the subject individual when the use of the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits and privileges under Federal programs, unless an exemption from the Act to this requirement has been claimed by DOE as provided in § 1008.12

(b) Unless an exemption from the Act has been claimed by DOE under subsection (j)(2), as provided in § 1008.12, DOE shall inform each individual whom it asks to supply information, on the form or other means by which it uses to collect the information, or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual, of the following:

(1) The authority (whether granted by statute or by Executive Order of the President) that authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether the provision of such information is mandatory or voluntary;

(2) The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(3) The routine uses that may be made of the information, as published in the Federal Register pursuant to the requirements of the Act; and

(4) The effect on the individual, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information.

§ 1008.22 Use and collection of social security numbers.

(a) The System Manager of each system of records which utilizes social security numbers as a method of identification without statutory authorization or authorization by regulation adopted prior to January 1, 1975, shall revise the system to avoid future collection and use of the social security numbers.

(b) Heads of Headquarters Divisions and Offices and heads of the other DOE locations shall insure that employees authorized to collect information from individuals are advised that individuals may not be required to furnish social security numbers without statutory authorization, and that individuals who are requested to provide social security numbers voluntarily must be advised that furnishing the number is not required and that no penalty or denial of benefits will flow from the refusal to provide it.

§ 1008.23 Public notice of systems of records.

(a) The DOE shall publish in the Federal Register at least annually a notice of the existence and character of each of its systems of records, which notice shall include:

(1) The name and location of the system;

(2) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of such use, subject to paragraph (d) of this section;

(5) The policies and practices of the DOE regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(6) the title and business address of the DOE official who is responsible for the system of records;

(7) The DOE procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(8) The DOE procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request about how he can gain access to any record pertaining to him contained in the system or records, and how he can contest its content; and

(9) the categories of source of records in the systems.

(b) Notwithstanding the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, the notice of systems of records shall not necessarily include the information in paragraphs (a) (7)–(9) of this section if DOE has claimed a general or specific exemption from the requirements of the Act, as provided in § 1008.12.

(c) Copies of the notices as printed in the Federal Register shall be available at the DOE locations listed at § 1008.2(c). Requests by mail for copies of such notices should be sent to Privacy Act Officer, Headquarters, U.S. Department of Energy, Washington, DC. 20585. The first copy will be furnished free of charge. For each additional copy, the costs of printing and handling may be charged.

(d) DOE shall publish in the Federal Register notice of any new routine use or intended routine use of a record in the system of records, at least 30 calendar days prior to the implementation of any new routine use of a record in a system of records, or at least 30 calendar days prior to publication of the annual notice of such routine uses, as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, an opportunity for interested persons to submit written comments consisting of data, views, or arguments regarding such use to DOE, shall be provided.

§ 1008.24 Criminal penalties—failure to publish a system notice.

Subsection (i)(2) of the Act provides that an agency officer or employee who willfully maintains a system of records without publishing a system notice as required by subsection (e)(4) of the Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined up to $5,000.

Source: Order No. 536, 40 FR 44288, Sept. 25, 1975, unless otherwise noted.

Subpart A—General

§ 3b.1 Purpose.

Part 3b describes the Federal Power Commission's program to implement the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. No. 93–579, 88 Stat. 1896) to allow individuals to have a say in the collection and use of information which may be used in determinations affecting them. The program is structured to permit an individual to determine what records pertaining to him and filed under his individual name, or some other identifying particular, are collected, maintained, used or disseminated by the Commission, to permit him access to such records, and to correct or amend them, and to provide that the Commission collect, use, maintain and disseminate such information in a lawful manner for a necessary purpose.

§ 3b.2 Definitions.

In this part:

(a) "Agency", as defined in 5 U.S.C. 551(1) as "* * * each authority of the Government of the United States, whether or not it is within or subject to review by another agency, * * *", includes any executive department, military department, Government corporation, Government controlled corporation, or other establishment in the executive branch of the Government (including the Executive Office of the President), or any independent regulatory agency [5 U.S.C. 552(e)];

(b) "Individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

(c) "Maintain" includes, maintain, collect, use, or disseminate;

(d) "Record" means any item, collection or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by an agency, including, but not limited to, his education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains his name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print or a photograph;

(e) "System of records" means a group of any records under the control of any agency from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual;

(f) "Statistical record" means a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual, except as provided by section 8 of title 13 of the United States Code;

(g) "Routine use" means, with respect to the disclosure of a record, the use of such record for a purpose which is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected; and

(h) "Disclosure" means either the transmittal of a copy of a record or the granting of access to a record, by oral, written, electronic or mechanical communication.

§ 3b.3 Notice requirements.

(a) The Commission will publish at least annually in the Federal Register a notice identifying the systems of records currently maintained by the Commission. For each system of records, the notice will include the following information:

(1) The name and location of the system;

(2) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) The specific statutory provision or executive order, or rule or regulation issued pursuant thereto, authorizing the maintenance of the information contained in the system;

(5) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purposes of such use;

(6) The policies and practices regarding the storage, retrievability, access controls, and retention and disposal of the records;

(7) The title and business address of the Commission official who is responsible for the system of records;

(8) The procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(9) The procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request how he can gain access to any record pertaining to him contained in the system of records, and how he can contest its contents; and

(10) The categories of sources of records in the system.

(b) At least thirty days prior to its operation, the Commission will publish in the Federal Register a notice of its intention to establish a new system of records reciting the information required pursuant to paragraphs (a) (1)–(10) of this section and notice of any major change to an existing system.

(c) The Commission will publish in the Federal Register a notice of its intention to establish any new or intended routine use of the information in an existing system of records at least thirty days prior to the disclosure of the record for that routine use. A new routine use is one which involves disclosure of records for a new purpose compatible with the purpose for which the record is maintained or which involves disclosure to a new recipient or category of recipients. At a minimum, the notice will contain the following information:

(1) The name of the system of records for which the routine use is to be established;

(2) The authority authorizing the maintenance of the information contained in the system;

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) The proposed routine use(s);

(5) The categories of recipients for each proposed routine use; and

(6) Reference to the public notice in the Federal Register under which the existing system had already been published.

§ 3b.4 Government contractors.

Systems of records operated by a contractor, pursuant to a "contract," on behalf of the Commission, which are designed to accomplish a Commission function, are considered, for the purposes of this part, to be maintained by the Commission. A "contract" covers any contract, written or oral, subject to the Federal Procurement Regulations. The contractual instrument will specify, to the extent consistent with the Commission's authority to require it, that the systems of records be maintained in accordance with the requirements of this part.

§ 3b.5 Legal guardians.

For the purposes of this part, the parent of any minor, or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, may act on behalf of the individual.

Subpart B—Standards for Maintenance and Collection of Records

§ 3b.201 Content of records.

(a) All records which are maintained by the Commission in a system of records will contain only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the Commission as required to be accomplished by statute or by executive order of the President. Pursuant to § 3b.3(a)(4) of this part, the Commission will identify in the Federal Register the specific provisions in law which authorize it to maintain information in a system of records. In determining the "relevance" and "necessity" of records, the following considerations will govern:

(1) Whether each item of information relates to the purposes, in law, for which the system is maintained;

(2) The adverse consequences, if any, of not collecting the information;

(3) Whether the need for the information could be met through the maintenance of the information in a non-individually identifiable form;

(4) Whether the information in the record is required to be collected on every individual who is the subject of a record in the system or whether a sampling procedure would suffice;

(5) The length of time it is necessary to retain the information;

(6) The financial cost of maintaining the record as compared to the adverse consequences of not maintaining it; and

(7) Whether the information, while generally relevant and necessary to accomplish a statutory purpose, is specifically relevant and necessary only in certain cases.

(b) All records which the Commission maintains in a system of records and which are used to make a determination about an individual will be maintained with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in the determination. Where practicable, in questionable instances, reverification of pertinent information with the individual to whom the record pertains may be appropriate. In pursuit of "completeness" in the collection of information, the Commission will limit its records to those elements of information which clearly bear on the determination for which the records are intended to be used, assuring that all elements necessary to the determination are present before the determination is made.

(c) Prior to disseminating any records in a system of records, the Commission will make reasonable efforts to assure that such records are as accurate, relevant, timely, and complete as appropriate for the purposes for which they are collected and/or maintained, except when they are disclosed to a member of the public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended, or to another agency.

(d) No records of the Commission in a system of records shall describe how any individual exercises his First Amendment rights unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity. The exercise of these rights includes, but is not limited to, religious and political beliefs, freedom of speech and of the press, and freedom of assembly and petition. In determining whether or not a particular activity constitutes the exercise of a right guaranteed by the First Amendment, the Commission will apply the broadest reasonable interpretation.

§ 3b.202 Collection of information from individuals concerned.

(a) Any information collected by the Commission for inclusion in a system of records which may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs, will, to the greatest extent practicable, be collected directly from the subject individual (see paragraph (d) of this section).

(b) The Commission will inform each individual whom it asks to supply information about himself, on the form which it uses to collect the information, or on a separate sheet that can be easily retained by the individual, in language which is explicit, informative, and easily understood, and not so lengthy as to deter an individual from reading it, of:

(1) The specific provision of the statute or executive order of the President, including the brief title or subject of that statute or order which authorizes the solicitation of the information; whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary; and whether the Commission is authorized or required to impose penalties for failing to respond;

(2) The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(3) The routine uses which may be made of the information, as described in the Federal Register in the notice of the system of records in which the information is maintained, and which are relatable and necessary to a purpose described pursuant to paragraph (b)(2) of this section; and

(4) The effects (beneficial and adverse) on the individual if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information.

(c) Social security numbers will not be required from individuals whom the Commission asks to supply information unless the disclosure of the number is required by Federal statute or unless disclosure is to the Commission maintaining a system of records in existence and operating before January 1, 1975, if such disclosure was required pursuant to a statute or regulation adopted prior to such date to verify the identity of an individual. When an individual is requested to disclose his social security number to the Commission, he will be informed under what statutory or other authority such number is solicited, what uses will be made of it, whether disclosure is mandatory or voluntary, and if it is mandatory, under what provisions of law or regulation.

(d) The use of third-party sources to collect information about an individual may be appropriate in certain circumstances. In determining when the use of third-party sources would be appropriate, the following considerations will govern:

(1) When the information needed can only be obtained from a third party;

(2) When the cost of collecting the information directly from the individual concerned far exceeds the cost of collecting it from a third party;

(3) When there is little risk that the information proposed to be collected from the third party, if inaccurate, could result in an adverse determination about the individual concerned.

(4) When there is a need to insure the accuracy of information supplied by an individual by verifying it with a third party, or there is a need to obtain a qualitative assessment of the individual's capabilities or character; or

(5) When there are provisions for verifying any third-party information with the individual concerned before making a determination based on that information.

Third party sources, where feasible, will be informed of the purposes for which information which they are asked to provide will be used. In appropriate circumstances, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) (2), (5), and (7), the Commission may assure a third party that his identity will not be revealed to the subject of the collected information.

§ 3b.203 Rules of conduct.

(a) The Executive Director of the Commission has the overall administrative responsibility for implementing the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 and overseeing the conduct of all Commission employees with respect to the act.

(b) It is the responsibility of the Comptroller of the Commission, under the guidance of the Executive Director, to prepare the appropriate internal administrative procedures to assure that all persons involved in the design, development, or operation of any system of records, or in collecting, using, or disseminating any individual record, and who have access to any system of records, are informed of all rules and requirements of the Commission to protect the privacy of the individuals who are the subjects of the records, including the applicable provisions of the FPC Standards of Conduct for Employees, Special Government Employees and Commissioners, specifically 18 CFR 3.207(e) and 3.228(d).

(c) The Director, Office of Personnel Programs, is responsible for establishing and conducting an adequate training program for such persons whose official duties require access to and collection, maintenance, use, and dissemination of such records.

(d) The General Counsel of the Commission is responsible for providing legal interpretation of the Privacy Act of 1974, and for preparing all agency rules and notices for official publication in compliance with the act.

(e) Commission employees will be informed of all the implications of their actions in this area, including especially:

(1) That there are criminal penalties for knowing and willful unauthorized disclosure of material within a system of records; for willful failure to publish a public notice of the existence of a system of records; and for knowingly and willfully requesting or obtaining records under false pretenses;

(2) That the Commission may be subject to civil suit due to failure to amend an individual's record in accordance with his request or failure to review his request in conformity with § 3b.224; refusal to comply with an individual's request of access to a record under § 3b.221; willful or intentional failure to maintain a record accurately pursuant to § 3b.201(b) and consequently a determination is made which is adverse to the individual; or willful or intentional failure to comply with any other provision of the Privacy Act of 1974, or any rule promulgated thereunder, in such a way as to have an adverse effect upon an individual.

§ 3b.204 Safeguarding information in manual and computer-based record systems.

(a) The administrative and physical controls to protect the information in the manual and computer-based record systems from unauthorized access or disclosure will be specified for each system in the Federal Register. The system managers, who are responsible for providing protection and accountability of such records at all times and for insuring that the records are secured in proper containers whenever they are not in use or under direct control of authorized persons, will be identified for each system of records in the Federal Register.

(b) Whenever records in the manual or computer-based record systems, including input and output documents, punched cards, and magnetic tapes or disks, are not under the personal control of an authorized person, they will be stored in lockable containers and/or in a secured room, or in alternative storage systems which furnish an equivalent or greater degree of physical security. In this regard, the Commission may refer to security guidelines prepared by the General Services Administration, the Department of Commerce (National Bureau of Standards), or other agencies with appropriate knowledge and expertise.

(c) Access to and use of records will only be permitted to persons pursuant to §§ 3b.221, 3b.224, and 3b.225. Access to areas where records are stored will be limited to those persons whose official duties require work in such areas. Proper control of data, in any form, associated with the manual and computer-based record systems will be maintained at all times, including maintenance of an accounting of removal of the records from the storage area.

Subpart C—Rules for Disclosure of Records

§ 3b.220 Notification of maintenance of records to individuals concerned.

(a) Upon written request, either in person or by mail, to the appropriate system manager specified for each system of records, an individual will be notified whether a system of records maintained by the Commission and named by the individual contains a record or records pertaining to him and filed under his individual name, or some other identifying particular.

(b) The system manager may require appropriate identification pursuant to § 3b.222, and if necessary, may request from the individual additional information needed to locate the record which the individual should reasonably be expected to know, such as, but not limited to, date of birth, place of birth, and a parent's first name.

(c) When practicable, the system manager will provide a written acknowledgement of the inquiry within ten days of receipt of the inquiry (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) and notification of whether or not a system of records maintained by the Commission and named by the individual contains a record pertaining to him and filed under his individual name or some other identifying particular. If the system manager is unable to provide an answer within the ten-day period, he will so inform the individual in writing, stating the reasons therefor (for good cause shown), and when it is anticipated that notification will be made. Such an extension will not exceed fifteen days from receipt of the inquiry (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays).

(d) "For good cause shown", as used in all sections of this part, includes circumstances such as the following: Where a search for and/or collection of requested records from inactive storage, field offices, or other establishments is required; where a voluminous amount of data is involved; where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the record; or where consultations are required with other agencies or with others having a substantial interest in the determination of the request.

(a) Upon written request, either in person or by mail, to the appropriate system manager specified for each system of records, any individual may gain access to records or information in a system of records pertaining to him and filed under his individual name, or some other identifying particular, to review and to have a copy made of all or any portion thereof in a form comprehensible to him.

(b) A person of his own choosing may accompany the individual to whom the record pertains when the record is disclosed [see § 3b.222(e)].

(c) Before disclosure, the following procedure may apply:

Medical or psychological records will be disclosed directly to the individual to whom they pertain unless, in the judgment of the system manager, in consultation with a medical doctor or a psychologist, access to such records could have an adverse effect upon the individual. When the system manager and a doctor determine that the disclosure of such information could have an adverse effect upon the individual to whom it pertains, the system manager may transmit such information to a medical doctor named by the requesting individual.

(d) The system manager will provide a written acknowledgement of the receipt of a request for access within ten days of receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). Such acknowledgement may, if necessary, request any additional information needed to locate the record which the individual may reasonably be expected to know, and may require appropriate identification pursuant to § 3b.222 of this part. No acknowledgment is required if access can be granted within the ten-day period.

(1) If access can be granted, the system manager will notify the individual, in writing, as to when, and whether access will be granted in person or by mail, so that access will be provided within twenty days of the receipt of the request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). If the system manager is unable to provide access within twenty days of receipt of the request, he will inform the individual in writing as to the reasons therefor (for good cause shown), and when it is anticipated that access will be granted. If the expected date of access indicated in the written notification to the individual cannot be met, the system manager will advise the individual in writing of the delay, the reasons therefor (for good cause shown), and of a revised date when access will be granted. Such extensions will not exceed thirty days from receipt of the request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays).

(2) If access cannot be granted, the system manager will inform the individual, in writing, within twenty days of receipt of the request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) of the refusal of his request; the reasons for the refusal; the right of the individual, within thirty days of receipt of the refusal, to request in writing a review of the refusal by the Chairman of the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, or by an officer designated by the Chairman pursuant to § 3b.224(f); and the right of the individual to seek advice or assistance from the system manager in obtaining such a review.

(e) The Chairman, or officer designated pursuant to § 3b.224(f), not later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) from the date of receipt of the individual's request for review will complete such review, unless, for good cause shown, the Chairman, or designated officer, extends the thirty-day period in writing to the individual with reasons for the delay and the approximate date on which the review is expected to be completed. Such an extension will not exceed thirty-five days from receipt of the request for review (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays). The Chairman, or designated officer, will make one of the following determinations:

(1) Grant the individual access to the requested record and notify the individual, in writing, as to when, and whether access will be granted in person or by mail; or

(2) Inform the individual in writing of the refusal, the reasons therefor, and the right of the individual to seek judicial review of the refusal of his request for access.

(f)(1) The Commission will deny an individual access to the following records pertaining to him:

(i) Information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding;

(ii) Records listed in the Federal Register as exempt from certain provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, pursuant to Subpart D of this Part; and

(iii) Records which may be required to be withheld under other statutory provisions.

(2) The Commission will not deny an individual access to a record pertaining to him because that record is permitted to be withheld from members of the public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended.

(g) Disclosure of an original record will take place in the presence of the Commission representative having physical custody of the record.

§ 3b.222 Identification requirements.

The appropriate system manager specified for each system of records will require reasonable identification from individuals to assure that records in a system of records are disclosed to the proper person. Identification requirements will be consistent with the nature of the records being disclosed.

(a) Disclosure of records to the individual to whom the record pertains, or under whose name or some other identifying particular the record is filed, in person, requires that the individual show an identification card. Employee identification, a Medicare card, or a driver's license are examples of acceptable identification. Documents incorporating a picture and signature of the individual are preferred.

(b) For records disclosed by mail, the system manager will require certain minimum identifying information: name, date of birth, or the system's personal identifier if known to the individual. A comparison of the signatures of the requester and those in the record will be used to determine identity.

(c) If the system manager determines that the data in the record is so sensitive that unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual involved, a signed notarized statement asserting identity or some other reasonable means to verify identity will be required.

(d) If an individual can provide no suitable information or documents for identification, the system manager will require a signed statement from the individual asserting his identity and stipulating that the individual understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about an individual under false pretenses is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $5,000.

(e) The system manager will require an individual who wishes to be accompanied by another person when reviewing his records to furnish a signed written statement authorizing discussion of his records in the presence of the accompanying person.

(f) The appropriate identification requirements of this section may be required by a system manager from an individual to whom a record does not pertain who seeks access to the record pursuant to § 3b.225 of this part.

(g) No individual will be denied notification of maintenance of a record pursuant to § 3b.220 or access to a record pursuant to §§ 3b.221 and 3b.224 for refusing to disclose a social security number.

(h) No verification of identity will be required of individuals seeking notification of or access to records which are otherwise available to a member of the public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended.

§ 3b.223 Fees.

(a) Fees will be charged for the direct cost of duplication of records in a system of records when copies are requested by the individual seeking access to the records. Any person may obtain a copy of the Commission's schedule of fees by telephone, by mail or by coming in person to the office of the appropriate system manager who is responsible for the protection and accountability of the desired record. Requests for copies of requested records and payment therefor must be made to the system manager. Fees will only be charged for costs of $2 or more.

(b) Where practicable, self-service duplication of requested documents may also be made on duplicating machines by the person requesting the records, on a reimbursable basis to the system manager, in the presence of the Commission representative having physical custody of the record. Where data has been extracted from one of the Commission's systems of records on magnetic tape or disks, or computer files, copies of the records of these files may be secured on a reimbursable basis upon written request to the appropriate system manager. The fee will vary for each requirement, depending on size and complexity.

(c) No fee will be charged in the following instances:

(1) When the system manager determines that he can grant access to records only by providing a copy of the record through the mail because he cannot provide reasonable means for the individual to have access in person;

(2) For search and review of requested records to determine if they fall within the disclosure requirements of this part; and

(3) When the system manager makes a copy of the record as a necessary part of the process of making it available for review.

(d) Except for requests made by Government agencies, certification of copies of any official Commission record shall be accompanied by a fee of $2 per document.

§ 3b.224 Requests to amend records and disputes thereon.

(a) Upon written request, either in person or by mail, to the appropriate system manager specified for each system of records, any individual may amend records in a system of records pertaining to him and filed under his individual name or some other identifying particular. Such requests should contain identifying information needed to locate the record, a brief description of the item or items of information to be amended, and information in support of the request for amendment. The individual may obtain assistance in preparing his request to amend a record from the appropriate system manager.

(b) The system manager will provide a written acknowledgement of the receipt of a request to amend within ten days of receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). Such an acknowledgement may, if necessary, request any additional information needed to make a determination which the individual may reasonably be expected to know, and verification of identity consistent with § 3b.222. The acknowledgement will clearly describe the request and advise the individual requesting the amendment when he may expect to be notified of action taken on the request. No acknowledgement is required if the request can be reviewed, processed, and the individual notified of compliance or denial within the ten-day period.

(c) The system manager will complete the review and advise the individual in writing of the results within twenty days of the receipt of the request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). If the system manager is unable to complete the review within twenty days of the receipt of the request, he will inform the individual in writing as to the reasons therefor (for good cause shown) and when it is anticipated that the review will be completed. If the completion date for the review indicated in the acknowledgement cannot be met, the system manager will advise the individual in writing of the delay, the reasons therefor (for good cause shown), and of a revised date when the review may be expected to be completed. Such extensions will not exceed thirty days from receipt of the request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). The system manager will take one of the following actions:

(1) Make the requested correction or amendment; so advise the individual in writing; and, where an accounting of the disclosure of the record was made pursuant to § 3b.220, advise all previous recipients of the record in writing of the fact that the amendment was made and the substance of the amendment [see § 3b.225(d)]; or

(2) Inform the individual in writing of the refusal to amend the record in accordance with the request; the reasons for the refusal including any of the standards which were employed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section in conducting the review; the right of the individual, within thirty days of receipt of the refusal, to request in writing a review of the refusal by the Chairman of the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, or by an officer designated by the Chairman pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section; and the right of the individual to seek advice or assistance from the system manager in obtaining such a review.

(d) In reviewing a record in response to a request to amend, the system manager and the Chairman, or the officer he designates pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, shall assess the accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness of the record. They shall consider the record in terms of the criteria established in § 3b.201 of this Part.

(e) The Chairman, or officer designated pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, not later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) from the date of receipt of the individual's request for review, will complete such review, unless, for good cause shown, the Chairman, or designated officer, extends the thirty-day period in a writing to the individual with reasons for the delay and the approximate date on which the review is expected to be completed. Such an extension will not exceed thirty-five days from receipt of the request for review (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). The Chairman, or designated officer, will make one of the following determinations:

(1) Make the correction in accordance with the individual's request and proceed as in paragraph (c)(1) of this section; or

(2) Inform the individual in writing of:

(i) The refusal to amend the record in accordance with the request,

(ii) The reasons therefor, including any of the standards which were employed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section in conducting the review;

(iii) The right of the individual to file with the Chairman, or designated officer, a concise written statement setting forth the reasons for his disagreement with the decision;

(iv) The fact that the statement of disagreement will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed, together with the portion of the record which is disputed clearly noted, and, with, at the discretion of the Chairman, or designated officer, a brief statement by the Chairman, or designated officer, summarizing the reasons for refusing to amend the record;

(v) Where an accounting of the disclosure of the record was made pursuant to § 3b.226 of this part, the fact that prior recipients of the disputed record will be provided a copy of the individual's statement of disagreement, with the portion of the record which is disputed clearly noted, and, at the Chairman's or designated officer's discretion, the statement summarizing the refusal to amend [see § 3b.225(d)]; and

(vi) The individual's right to seek judicial review of the refusal to amend.

(f) The Chairman may designate, in writing, another officer of the Commission to act in his capacity for the purposes of this part. The officer will be organizationally independant of or senior to the system manager who made the initial determination and will conduct a review independent of the initial determination.

§ 3b.225 Written consent for disclosure.

(a) The Commission will not disclose any record which is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person, or to any other agency, unless it has the written request by, or the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains and under whose individual name, or some other identifying particular, the record is filed. The written request or consent should include, at a minimum, the general purposes for or the types of recipients to whom disclosure may be made. The fact that an individual is informed of the purposes for which information will be used when information is collected pursuant to § 3b.202(b)(2) will not constitute consent.

(b) A written request or consent is not required if the disclosure is:

(1) To those officers and employees of the Commission who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(2) Required under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended;

(3) For a routine use as defined in § 3b.2(g) of this part and as described in the public notice for each system of records;

(4) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of title 13 of the United States Code;

(5) To a recipient who has provided the appropriate system manager specified for each system of records with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable. The written statement of assurance should include at a minimum:

(i) A statement of the purpose for requesting the record; and

(ii) Certification that the record will only be used for statistical purposes.

In addition to stripping personally identifying information from records released for statistical purposes, the system manager will ensure that the identity of the individual cannot reasonably be deduced or determined by combining various statistical records, or by reference to public records or other available sources of information;

(6) To the National Archives of the United States, pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2103, as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for the evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(7) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality, or his delegated official, has made a written request to the appropriate system manager specifying the particular portion of the record desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is being sought;

(8) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual (not necessarily the individual to whom the record pertains), if, upon disclosure, notification of such is sent to the last known address of the individual to whom the record pertains;

(9) To either House of Congress, or to any committee or subcommittee thereof, on a matter within its jurisdiction;

(10) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office; or

(11) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(c) When a record is disclosed under compulsory legal process and such process becomes a matter of public record, the system manager will make reasonable efforts to notify the individual to whom the record pertains. A notice will be sent to the individual's last known address noted in the Commission's files.

(d) The appropriate system manager shall notify all prior recipients of records, disclosure to whom an accounting was made pursuant to § 3b.226, of any amendments made to the records, including corrections, amendments and notations of dispute made pursuant to §§ 3b.224(c)(1) and 3b.224(e)(1) and (2)(v), within ten days of receipt of the corrected information or notation of dispute (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays), except under unusual circumstances [see circumstances described in § 3b.220(d)].

(e) The content of the records disclosed under this section shall be maintained pursuant to the standards established in § 3b.201(c).

§ 3b.226 Accounting of disclosures.

(a) The appropriate system manager specified for each system of records will keep an accurate written account of all disclosures of records made to any person or to any other agency with the written consent or at the written request of the individual to whom the record pertains and pursuant to § 3b.225(b)(3)–(11). The account will include the following information:

(1) The date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure;

(2) The name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure is made; and

(3) A reference to the justification or basis upon which the release was made, including reference to any written document required as when records are released for statistical or law enforcement purposes pursuant to § 3b.225(b) (5) and (7).

(b) Each system manager will retain the accounting made under paragraph (a) of this section for at least five years from the date of disclosure for which the accounting is made, or the life of the record, which ever is longer.

(c) Except for disclosures made for law enforcement purposes pursuant to § 3b.225(b)(7), and unless the system of records has been exempted from this provision pursuant to Subpart D of this part, each system manager will make the accounting made under paragraph (a) of this section available to the individual named in the record at his written request.

(d) The accounting of disclosures is not a system of records under the definition in § 3b.2(e) and no accounting will be maintained for disclosure of the accounting of disclosures.

§ 3b.227 Mailing lists.

An individual's name and address maintained by the Commission will not be sold or rented for commercial or other solicitation purposes not related to the purposes for which the information was collected, unless such sale or rental is specifically authorized by law. This provision shall not be construed to require the withholding of names or addresses otherwise permitted to be made public, as pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended.

Subpart D—Rules for Exemptions

§ 3b.250 Specific exemptions.

Any system of records maintained by the Commission may be exempt from certain provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, and the appropriate sections of this part promulgated pursuant thereto, if the following requirements are met:

(a) The system of records falls within one or more of the following categories:

(1) Records subject to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(1) as classified material;

(2) Investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes [except to the extent that the system is more broadly exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) covering records maintained by an agency whose principal function pertains to the enforcement of criminal laws] provided, however, that is such record is used as a basis for denying an individual any right, privilege, or benefit to which the individual would be entitled in the absence of that record, the individual must be granted access to that record except to the extent that access would reveal the identity of a confidential source who furnished the information to the Government under an express promise that his identity would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that his identity would be held in confidence;

(3) Records maintained to provide protective services to the President of the United States or other individuals pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3056;

(4) Records required by statute to be maintained and used solely as statistical records;

(5) Investigatory material compiled solely for determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment, military service, Federal contracts, or access to classified information, but only to the extent that disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that his identity would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that his identity would be held in confidence;

(6) Testing or examination material used solely to determine individual qualifications for appointment or promotion in the Federal service the disclosure of which would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process; or

(7) Material used to evaluate potential for promotion in the armed services, but only to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished the information to the Government under an express promise that his identity would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that his identity would be held in confidence;

(b) Publication in the Federal Register is made in accordance with the requirements (including general public notice) of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 553, to include, at a minimum:

(1) The name of the system of records;

(2) The specific provision or provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, and the appropriate sections of this Part promulgated pursuant thereto, from which the system is to be exempted; and

(3) The reasons for the exemption; and

(c) The system of records is exempted from one or more of the following provisions of the Privacy Act and the appropriate sections of this part promulgated pursuant thereto:

(1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3); 18 CFR 3b.226(c)—Making the accounting of disclosures available to the individual named in the record at his request;

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d); 18 CFR 3b.221, 3b.224—Granting an individual the right of access to his records and permitting him to request amendment of such;

(3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1); 18 CFR 3b.201(a)—Requiring maintenance of relevant and necessary information in a system of records as required by statute or executive order of the President;

(4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(G); 18 CFR 3b.3(a)(8)—Requiring a description of procedures for determining if a system contains a record on an individual in the public notice of the system of records;

(5) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(H); 18 CFR 3b.3(a)(9)—Requiring a description of procedures for gaining access to and contesting the contents of a record in the public notice of the system of records;

(6) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I); 18 CFR 3b.3(a)(10)—Requiring a description of the categories of the sources of records in the public notice of the system of records; and

(7) 5 U.S.C. 552a(f); 18 CFR 3b.220–3b.224—Requiring agency rules for determining if an individual is the subject of a record, for handling requests for access, for granting requests for access, for amending records, and for fees.

System name: Telephone Directory/Locator System HHS-OS-ASMB-OMAS

Security classification: None.

System location: Operating offices and Facility Complexes of the Department—Employee Locators and Offices of Administrative or Management Services.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Current employees of the Department and vendor or other Federal employees located in Department operating offices and facility complexes.

Categories of records in the system: Name, title, agency office address, agency mailing address telephone number, standard administrative code, and social security number.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, 40 U.S.C. 486(c).

Purpose(s):

The records are used to develop and maintain current employee locator and directory listings. The locator listings are used by the HHS information centers, mailrooms, and others specifically for the purpose of locating employees and for routing mail. The directory listings are used to produce departmental telephone directories on an as needed basis.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: In the event of litigation where the defendent is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department of any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Variously stored in card files, computer printouts, paper forms, magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Alphabetically by employee name in certain instances also be agency and/or title. Some large systems use the SSN as control to update, change or delete information on individuals no longer within this system of Records.

Safeguards: Only authorized personnel have access to master lists which contain social security numbers.

Retention and disposal: Retained as long as individual is employed by or associated with the Department, then information deleted from files by appropriate method.

System manager(s) and address: Telecommunications management officials of the Department—See Appendix.

Notification procedure: Direct inquiries to appropriate systems manager indentified in Appendix.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record source categories: Individual employee.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name:

Safety Management Information System (HHS Accident, Injury and Illness Reporting System). HHS/OS/ASMB/OFE/OSOH

Security classification: None.

System location: At Departmental Regional and Headquarters facilites (see Appendix

Categories of individuals covered by the system: 1. HHS Employees, including both civilian and commissioned corps personnel, who are involved in an accident which arises out and in the course of their employment whether occurring on HHS premises or not and results in:

a. A fatality.
b. Lost workdays beyond the day in which the accident occurred.
c. Nonfatal injuries which result in transfer to another job, termination of employment, medical treatment other than first aid, loss of consciousness or restriction of work or motion.
d. A possible tort claim.
e. A claim for compensation.
f. Property damage in excess of 50.00.
g. Interrupts or interferes with the orderly progress of work of other employees.
h. Radiation over exposure.
i. Biological exposure resulting in lost time of accidental release of biologicals where the public may be over-exposed.

2. Visiting scientists, contractor personnel, hospitalized patients, out-patients, employees of other Federal agencies, state or local governments or members of the public who suffer injury, illness or property damage on or in HHS premises or as a result of HHS activities.

Categories of records in the system: This system consists of a variety of information and supporting documentations resulting from the reporting and investigation of accidents which have resulted in injury, illness, property damage or the interruption of interference with the orderly progress of work. The records contain information about individuals involved in or experiencing accidents including but not limited to the severity of the injury, whether consciousness was lost, the type of injury, culmination of any injury, days lost from work if any, the nature of the injury, illness or disease, the body part affected, causal factors, weather factors, agency of accident, whether unsafe mechanical, physical, or personal acts or factors were involved, the accidents area of origin and if fire was involved, the type and form of materials involved. Property damage (both public and private) is noted through the property sequence number, who owned the property involved, property damage and actual or estimated monetary loss, the HHS installation number if appropriate and the year of manufacture or construction if appropriate. Identifiers relating to a particular accident include the organization, case number assigned, date and time of occurrence, state or territory, site, type and classification of accident, estimated amount of tort claims if appropriate, name of individual(s) involved, the social security number, sex, age, grade series and level, CSC series, address, other Departments notified of accident, duty status, activity at time of accident and time on duty before accident. Management's evaluation and corrective action taken or proposed is also noted.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 19 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (PL 91-596); U.S.C. 7902; 29 CFR Part 1960; Executive Order No. 12196.

Purpose(s):

The purpose of the system is to comply with the reporting and statistical analyses requirements of section 19 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (PL 91-596) as amended (29 U.S.C. 668); U.S.C. 7902; 29 CFR Part 1960; Executive Order 12196 and such other purposes as are described under routine uses of this system notice. The Safety Management Information System is a Department-wide system utilized by all organizational components of the Department. Thus in addition to the routine uses subsequently noted in this system notice there may be other ad hoc disclosures within the Department on an official business "need to know" basis.

a. Establish a written record of the causes of accidents.

b. Provide information to initiate and support corrective or preventive action.

c. Provide statistical information relating to accidents resulting in occupational injuries, illnesses, and/or property damage.

d. Provide management with information with which to evaluate the effectiveness of safety management programs.

e. Provide the means for complying with the reporting requirements of Section 19 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 and such other reporting requirements as may be required by legislative or regulative requirements.

f. Provide such other summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies as necessary in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained including general requests for statistical information without personal identification of individuals.

g. Information in these records is used by or may be disclosed to: a. The Office of Safety and Occupational Health, Office of the Secretary, HHS in the review of accident experience data to determine the adequacy of corrective actions, the effect of codes, standards and guides, the consolidation, summarization and dissemination of accident experience data throughout HHS and other Government Departments and agencies as needed or required. b. The supervisor, administrative officer or other official initiating and accident report, including each succeeding reviewing official in the chain of command through which the report passes to insure that corrective action, as needed and appropriate, is taken. c. Appropriately appointed Safety Directors, Officers, or others with safety responsibilities within the Department in the verifying, assembling, analyzing, summarizing and disseminating data concerning the accident experience in their areas of responsibility and the initiation of appropriate corrective action.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A. To request from a Federal, state, local agency or private sources information relevant to the investigation of an accident and/or corrective action.

B. To respond to an inquiry from a member of Congress made on behalf of a constituent.

C. In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department of any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

D. In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

E. In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use to the appropriate agency, whether state or local charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are or may be maintained or magnetic tapes, punchcards, lists, forms, discs, computer storage, in file folders, binders and index cards.

Retrievability: 1. At the Department level, the system is completely computerized with no other records normally maintained or retained in the Office of Safety and Occupational Health. Since individual indentifiers such as name, case number, and social security number are not within the computer storage banks, special programming would be required to extract individual records based on case number. Normal output consists of statistical reports and surveys including those required by the Department of Labor and Statistical Analysis in support of the Department occupational safety and health program for dissemination to the Principal Operating Components, Regions and Staff Offices.

2. The Principal Operating Components of the Department, their sub-components, Regional Offices and Staff Offices may maintain original or copies of the accident reports and supporting documentation by name, social security number, case number or cross reference.

Safeguards: Access to and use of those records is made available to those personnel having a legitimate need for the information (those whose duties require review or access) including inspecting or evaluating personnel. Records, which under the law, may not be disclosed such as information pertinent to national security or trade secrets are maintained separately, adequately safeguarded and released only in accordance with the law. When there is doubt regarding the release of information, the matter will be referred, in advance of release, to the Office of the General Counsel, HHS.

Retention and disposal: All accident reports, records, logs, and other information relating to an accident are retained by the Principal Operating Components and their agencies, the Regional Offices and the Office of the Secretary for at least five years following the end of the calendar year in which the accident occurred. Specific occupational safety and health standards (such as the standards, covering the handing of carcinogenic chemicals) may be required to be kept for up to twenty years. Records may be retained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Office of Safety and Occupational Health, Department of Health and Human Services, 330 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure: Individuals wishing to inquire whether this system of records contains information about them should address their inquiries to one of the following as appropriate:

1. If employed or formerly employed in a HHS Regional Office, the Regional Occupational Safety and Health Manager of the Region involved (see list and addresses under appendix).

2. If employed or formerly employed in a HHS Principal Operating Component or sub-agency, a staff office or the Office of the Secretary, the Occupational Safety and Health Manager of the component where employed with the exception of the Food and Drug Administration (see list and addresses under appendix). The contact for the Food and Drug Administration is:

Privacy Act Coordinator, Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20857.

Individuals requesting information about this system of records should provide their full name, social security number, name and address of office and agency in which currently or formerly employed and the accident(s) case number if known.

Record access procedures: Individuals wishing to gain access to or contest their records should contact the following in person or writing as appropriate; with the exception of Food and Drug Administration. See "Noufication" above. 1. If employed or formerly employed in an HHS Regional Office, the Regional Occupational Safety and Health Manager of the Region involved (see list and addresses under appendix). 2. If employed or formerly employed in an HHS Principal Operating Component or sub-agency, a staff office or the Office of the Secretary, the Occupational Safety and Health Manager of the component where employed. (See list and addresses under appendix). Individuals requesting information in this system of records should provide their full name, social security number (on a purely voluntary basis), case number if known, time and brief description of the accident in which they were involved and the name and address of office in which employed. (Access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record source categories:

The information in this system is obtained from the following sources: 1) the individual to whom the record pertains; 2) witnesses to the accident; 3) investigation officials (Federal, state, local); 4) medical personnel seeing the individual as a result of the accident; 5) supervisory personnel; 6) reviewing officials; 7) personnel offices; 8) investigative material furnished by Federal, state, or local agencies; 9) on site observations.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Purpose(s):

To establish policy governing the acquisition and allocation of Federal parking facilities and the establishment and determination of charges to be paid for the use of such parking by Federal employees, contractor employees and other facility tenants.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are stored in binders in file cabinets.

At FDA Records are stored on magnetic tapes and discs.

Retrievability:

Records are filed alphabetically. The purpose of the Departmental Parking Policy is to provide standards for apportionment and assignment of parking spaces on Department-managed and Department-controlled property and on property assigned to the Department by GSA or any other Agency and to allocate and check parking spaces assigned to government vehicles, visitors, handicapped personnel, key personnel, car-pools, and others.

Safeguards:

Access to and use of these records are limited to personnel whose official duties require such access at FDA Security Safeguards meet the requirements of Part 6, ADP System Security, of HHS's ADP System Manual A mini computer is maintained in a secured area with access limited to authorized personnel. Tapes and disc's are stored in locked cabinets.

Retention and disposal:

Superseded policy materials are maintained by the Director, Office of Facilities Engineering of historical purposes; Records at other HHS locations are maintained until the Parking Control purpose has been met and the records are then destroyed.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Office of Facilities Engineering, Room 4700 North Building, HHS/Office of the Secretary, 330 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure:

Access to these records may be obtained by request in writing to: Office of Manager for Parking Control at HHS facility where the HHS parking is provided.

Record access procedures:

Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. [These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.)

Contesting record procedures:

Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories:

Information in this system comes from reports from OS Staff OPDIVS and Regions, GSA-Federal Management circulars and Federal Property Management Regulations.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

09-90-0024

System name: Accounting records of Payments to Individuals from Agency and Regional Financial Management and Disbursing Offices. HHS OS ASMB 1.

Security classification: None.

System location: See appendix 1.

Memoranda copy of claims submitted for reimbursement of travel and other expenditures while on official business may also be maintained at the administrative office of the HHS employee.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons authorized to travel on official HHS business; persons awarded an HHS grant, contract or loan; persons authorized emergency salary advances; and consultants furnishing administrative and miscellaneous services.

Categories of records in the system: Name, identification number, address, purpose of payment, accounting classification and amount paid.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Budget and Accounting Act of 1950 (P.L. 81-784).

Purpose(s):

These records are an integral part of the accounting systems at principal operating component, agency and regional office locations. The records are used to keep track of all payments to individuals, exclusive of salaries and wages, based upon prior entry into the systems of the official commitment and obligation of government funds. In the event of an overpayment to an individual, the record is used to establish a receivable record for recovery of the amount claimed. The records are also used internally to develop reports of taxable income on certain travel related payments to the Internal Revenue Service and to state and local taxing officials. Direct access to these records is restricted to authorized persons in performance of official duties. This is a Department-wide notice covering payments made from all locations listed in Appendix 1.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: To the Treasury Department for check preparation; to members of Congress concerning a federal financial assistance program.

In the event the Department deems it desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Where federal agencies having the power to subpoena other federal agencies' records, such as the Internal Revenue Service or the Civil Rights Commission, issue a subpoena to the Department for records in this system of records, the Department will make such records available.

Where a contract between a component of the Department and a labor organization recognized under E.O. 11491 provides that the agency will disclose personal records relevant to the organization's mission, records in this system of records may be disclosed to such organization.

Where the appropriate official of the Department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that it is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department of any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effect defense provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office made from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Hard copy documents are manually filed at agency and regional office sites; and on disc pack and magnetic tape at central computer sites.

Retrievability: This varies according to the particular operating accounting system within the Agency and Regional Office. Usually the hard copy document is filed by name within accounting classification. Computer records may be indexed by social security number and voucher number. Intra-departmental uses and transfers concern the validation and certification for payment, and for HHS internal audits.

Safeguards: Minimum safeguards to insure integrity of record, and that required to provide protection against loss by accident of carelessness.

Retention and disposal: Records are purged from automated files once the accounting purpose has been served; printed copy and manual documents are retained and disposed of in accord with General Accounting Office principles and standards.

System manager(s) and address: See appendix 2.

Notification procedure: Inquiries are to be made, either in writing or in person, to the organizations listed under "Location" in appendix 1, with the exception of Food and Drug Administration contact:

FDA Privacy Coordinator (HF–50), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD. 20857.

Given name and social security number, purpose of payment (travel, grant, etc.) and, if possible, the agency accounting classification.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonable specify the record contents being sought (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR. Sections 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably indentity the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record source categories:

Travel vouchers submitted by the individual; grant, contract or loan award document; consultant invoice of services rendered; and application for travel advance.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

09-90-00225

System name: Central Registry of Individuals Doing Business With HHS, HHS OS ASMB 2.

Security classification:

None.

System location: Division of Financial Operations and Fiscal Procedures, Room 739D1, Humphrey Building, 200 Independence Avenue, S.W. Washington, DC 20201.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who are the recipients of Federal Domestic Assistance Grants, or of contracts awarded by HHS.

Categories of records in the system: An index of names, addresses and identification number (SSN) of the individual doing business with HHS. No other personally identifiable data are maintained. The index is termed public information since data relative to Federal Domestic Assistance and Contracts are public information.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301.

Purpose(s):

This registry is maintained to provide a standard code to uniquely identify entities, including individuals, together with mailing address and other characteristic data to all principal operating components, agencies, regional offices and staff offices of the Department. The use of a single code per entity in all Departmental data systems enhances communication with an entity, as well diminishing the need to maintain duplicative data and files at various locations. Major categories of entities in the central file are those awarded contracts and awarded grants under Federal Domestic Assistance programs. Only those persons in the Department with a "need to know" have access to the published registry and to the automated records.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

a. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

b. In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

c. In the event the Department deems it desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

d. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

e. Where federal agencies having the power to subpoena other federal agencies' records, such as the Internal Revenue Service or the Civil Rights Commission, issue a subpoena to the Department for records in this system of records, the Department will make such records available.

f. Where a contract between a component of the Department and a labor organization recognized under E.O. 11491 provides that the agency will disclose personal records relevant to the organization's mission records in this system of records may be disclosed to such organization.

g. Where the appropriate official of the department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that it is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Hard copy code booklets are manually field at agency and regional office sites; and on disc pack and magnetic tapes at central computer sites.

Retrievability: Record may be found in the Code Book by either name or social security number; record in the disc pack and on magnetic tape is indexed by social security number. The Code Book provides a listing of data processing numbers for grant, contract and financial transactions. These numbers are used to access the name and address of the individual in the Automated Library (Central Registry). The information is used for check preparation, reports, mailings, etc.

Safeguards: Minimum safeguards to insure integrity of records, and that required to provide protection against loss by accident or carelessness.

Retention and disposal: Records are purged from the automated file each two years; only persons actively dealing with HHS remain on file. Code Books are replaced each year. Inactive books are destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Deputy Assistant Secretary, Finance, Department of HHS, Office of the Secretary, Room 705D1, Humphrey Building, 330 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure: Inquiries are to be made, either in writing or in person, to the organization listed under "location". Give name and social security number.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.)

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under System Location, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: Grant and Contract documents. Names, social security numbers and addresses are provided by the individual when applying for a grant or contract from the Department.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Office of the Inspector General (OIG)

System name: Investigative Files of the Inspector General HHS/OS/OIG.

Security classification: None.

System location: Office of the Inspector General, DHHS Room 5246 North Bldg., 330 Independence Ave., SW., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees, former employees, grantees, contractors, sub-contractors, carriers, State agencies, State employees providers and recipients under DHHS programs, providers and recipients under State programs funded by the Department and others doing business with the Department.

Categories of records in the system: Criminal Investigation Files Authority for maintenance of the system: 28 U.S.C. 535(b), 18 U.S.C.; P.L. 94-505, Oct. 15, 1976.

Purpose(s):

Pursuant to P.L. 94-505, this system is maintained for the purposes of conducting and documenting investigations conducted by OIG or other investigative agencies regarding DHHS programs and operations, documenting the outcome of OIG reviews of allegations and complaints received concerning DHHS programs operations, aiding in prosecutions brought against the subjects of OIG investigations, maintaining a record of the activities which were the subject of investigations, reporting the results of investigations to other Departmental components for their use in operating and evaluating their programs and in imposition of civil or administration sanctions, and acting as a repository and source for information necessary to fulfill the reporting requirements of 42 U.S.C. 3524.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: a. In the event that this system of records, maintained by this Agency to carry out its functions, indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto where such responsibility rests outside of OIG.

b. In the event the Department deems it desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

c. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

d. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

e. In the event that this system of records, maintained by this agency to carry out its function, indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use to the appropriate agency, whether state or local, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting the statute, or rule regulation or order issued pursuant thereto where such responsibility rests outside OIG.

f. Where federal agencies having the power to subpoena other federal agencies' records, such as the Internal Revenue Service or the Civil Rights Commission, issue a subpoena to the Department for records in this system of records, the Department will make such records available.

g. Where the appropriate official of the Department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

h. When the Department contemplates that it will contract with a private firm for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records will be disclosed to such a contractor. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.

i. Disclosures may be made to organizations deemed qualified by the Secretary to carry out quality assessment.

j. There may also be disclosures in the course of employee discipline or competence determination proceedings.

k. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual.

l. In event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

m. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State, or local agency maintaining pertinent records, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to a Department decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The records, which take the form of index cards, investigative reports, computer disc files, and computer printed listings are maintained under secure conditions. Written documents are maintained in security type safes or lock bar file cabinets with manipulation proof combination locks. Computer disc files are on-line in guarded mantrapped dual door combination locked computer rooms.

Retrievability:

The records are retrieved by manual or computer search of alphabetical indices or cross-indices. Indices list names of individuals, companies and organizations.

Safeguards:

Direct access is restricted to authorized staff members of the Office of Inspector General. Access within DHHS is limited to the Secretary, Under-Secretary, Inspector General and other officials and employees on a need-to-know basis. Intra-agency transfers are made in accordance with the statement of Organization, Functions and Delegations of Authority as set out in a notice concerning the Office of Inspector General (42 FR 17531, April 1, 1977). All computer files and printed listings are safeguarded in accordance with the provisions of the National Bureau of Standards Federal Information Processing Standards 41 and 31, and the HHS, ADP Systems Manual, Part 6, "ADP Systems Security" All computer discs are password protected, prohibiting unauthorized access.

Retention and disposal:

Investigative files are retained for 5 years after completion of the investigation and/or actions based thereon. Index and cross-reference cards are retained permanently. In instances of computer matching of files, only those records which meet predetermined criteria for investigation are maintained. All records which do not meet these criteria are destroyed. All original source computer tapes are returned or destroyed once computer matching has been accomplished.

System manager(s) and address:

Inspector General/Deputy Inspector General, Room 5262, North Building, U.S. Department of Health And Human Services, 330 Independence Avenue, SW. Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure:

09–90–0078

System name:

SSI/OPM Temporary Matching File, HHS/OS/OIG

Security classification:

None

System location:

Office of the Inspector General DHHS, Room 2111, SSA Annex, Baltimore, Md. 21235.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All Federal employees covered under Office of Personnel Management Central Personnel Data File (CPDR) who are also included in the Supplementary Security Income (SSI) file of the Social Security Administration.

Categories of records in the system:

Office of Personnel Management Central Personnel Data File extract including name of employee, date of birth, Social Security Number, work status, pay grade and duty station, and Supplementary Security Income Record File data including names, Social Security Number, address, SSI application data, disability data, income and resource data and payment data used in the administration of the SSI program.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Pub. L. 94–505

Purpose(s):

This system of records is maintained to facilitate the comparison of records to identify those Federal employees who may also be receiving SSI benefits concurrently. This is in accordance with the statutory requirement in Pub. L. 94–505 that the Inspector General prevent and detect fraud and abuse in the Department's programs.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant, records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual.

In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

A record from this system may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local agency maintaining pertinent records if necessary to obtain a record relevant to a Department decision concering the determination of initial or continuing eligibility for program benefits.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are stored on computer tape files and computer printed listings.

Retrievability: The records are retrieved by computer using Social Security Number as the principal matching criterion. We disclose the records within the Department to the Social Security Administation for investigation and redetermination of SSI benefits.

Safeguards: Direct access is restricted to authorized staff members of the Office of the Inspector General. Access within HHS is limited to those employees who are directly involved in the matching program on a need-to-know basis. Computer files and printed listing are maintained in security type safes or lock bar file cabinets. They are safeguarded in accordance with the provisions of the National Bureau of Standards Federal Information Processing Standards 41 and 31, and the HHS Information Processing Standards, HHS ADP System Manual Part 6, "ADP Systems Security." All computer tapes are password protected prohibiting unauthorized access.

Retention and disposal: In instances of computer matching of files, only those records which meet predetermined criteria are maintained. All records which do not meet these criteria are destroyed. All original source computer tapes will be returned within 60 days. All records obtained as a result of the matching program will be degaussed as soon as possible within 6 months except for those records which are necessary to the completion of pending law enforcement activities or administrative activities of the matching program. Paper listings will be either shredded or burned.

System manager(s) and address: Inspector General/Deputy Inspector General, Room 5262, North Building, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure: Contact: Privacy Act Coordinator, Department of Health and Human Services, Office of the Inspector General, Room 5267, North Building, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedure. Requestors should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulation (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedure above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7)).

Record source categories:

Records are furnished from the Central Personnel Data File (CPDF) maintained by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management and from the Supplemental Security Income Record (SSR) maintained by the Social Security Administration, Department of Health and Human Services.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

09-90-0079

System name: Welfare Fraud Detection File, HHS/OS/OIG.

Security classification:

None.

System location: At headquarters and regional offices of the OIG Audit Agency, Department of Health and Human Services. See Appendix.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Recipients of the Aid to Families with Department Children (AFDC) program.

Categories of records in the system:

The system consists of the AFDC recipient records maintained by the State Welfare Agencies. Records contain information on those individuals receiving AFDC payments for themselves or as a payee for dependent children under their guardianship. Records contain information on name, address, date of birth, social security number, sex, names of dependent children, their dates of birth and sex, and monthly grant amount.

Authority for maintenance of the system: P.L. 94-505, October 15, 1976.

Purpose(s):

This system of records is maintained to facilitate the development of a multiple fraud detection program for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) Program. The program has as its major function the identification of cases which through misrepresentation are on the welfare rolls illegally.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual.

The record from this system may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State, or local agency maintaining pertinent records if necessary to obtain a record relevant to a Department decision concerning the determination of initial or continuing eligibility for program benefits.

In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use to the appropriate agency, whether state or local charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

In the event the Department deems it desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

Where federal agencies having the power to subpoena other federal agencies' records, such as the Internal Revenue Service or the Civil Rights Commission, issue a subpoena to the Department for records in this system of records, the Department will make such records available.

Where the appropriate offical of the Department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

When the Department contemplates that it will contract with a private firm for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records in this system, relevant records will be disclosed to such a contractor. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are stored on computer tape files and computer printed listings.

Retrievability:

The records in this system are retrieved by computer and manually using name or social security number.

Safeguards: Access to and use of these records is restricted to those personnel having a legitimate need for the information including HHS Office of the Inspector General personnel and other relevant Departmental and State personnel. Access will be provided outside of the Office of the Inspector General only in those instances where additional information is needed from another agency (e.g., the Social Security Administration or the State Welfare Agency) or where referrals for investigation are warranted. All computer files and printed listings are safeguarded in accordance with the provisions of the National Bureau of Standards Federal Information Processing Standards 41 and 31, and the HHS Information Processing Standards, HHS ADP Systems Manual, Part 6, "ADP Systems Security." All computer tapes are password protected prohibiting unauthorized access. Once the program is completed, all computer tapes will be returned to their source, erased or degaussed, and printed listings destroyed.

Retention and disposal:

Records will be updated periodically and source computer tapes will be either returned to the States or destroyed. All computer work tapes will be erased or degaussed, and printed listings destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Inspector General/Deputy Inspector General, Room 5262, North Building, U.S. Department of Health, and Human Services, 330 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure: Individuals wishing to inquire whether this system of records contains information about them should address their inquiries providing their name and social security number to: Privacy Act Coordinator, Office of Inspector General, Department of Health, and Human Services, Room 5267, North Building, 330 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedure. Requestors should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulation (45 CFR Section 5b.5(a)(2)).)

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedure above, and reasonably indentify the record and specify the information to be contested. These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7).

Record source categories: State Welfare Agencies which maintain files of AFDC program recipients.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Office of the Assistant Secretary for Legislation (OASL)

System name: Congressional Correspondence Unit. HHS/OS/ASL

Security classification:

None.

System location: Room 435G Humphrey Building, 200 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20201

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Members of Congress indexed by name

Categories of records in the system: Control information recording, direct inquiries and referrals of constituents' inquiries from Members of Congress, and responses to those inquiries, regarding the Department's activities, including, but not necessarily limited to: a. general program activities of the Department; b. individual case problems of named persons, families or institutions; c. employment or appointment interests. Control slips identifying the correspondent, the constituent on whose behalf the inquiry is made, the constituent's social security number if inquiry relates to a social security case, and a summary of the subject matter of the inquiry.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301.

Purpose(s):

To provide response to inquiries from a member of Congress made on behalf of a constituent regarding the Department's activities, including, but not limited to general program activities of the Department.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Inquiries which do not pertain to HHS, but fall under the jurisdiction of another Federal Agency, are transferred to that Agency with a request that a direct response be provided to the correspondent. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where the defendant is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to present an effective defense provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Maintained on magnetic (floppy) disks.

Retrievability: Records are indexed alphabetically by name of the Members of Congress. Inquiries are forwarded to the HHS Agency which has jurisdiction over the subject matter for preparation of a response.

Safeguards: Records are kept in office with access limited to those whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal: Records are reviewed biannually, and maintained for two years.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Congressional Liaison Office, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Legislation, Room 417 H Humphrey Bldg, 200 Independence Avenue, SW. Washington, D.C. 20201.

Notification procedure: System Manager; address same as above. The name of the person who corresponded with the Department with reference to the constituent and the approximate date of that correspondence must be provided.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.)

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: The information in CCU files is provided by the correspondent and by the agency which prepares the final response.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.
